Allies of 1914 Warn Nazis To End Drive On Austrians

Airplanes Sent Across Frontier

Attacks, Broadcast by Radio Over Border, Bring Protests.

London, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—The former allied governments—Britain, France and Italy—prepared to take concerted action today in the event the Austro-German tension increases.

The United Press was informed that these three might act under the new four-power pact, signed recently at the inspiration of Premier Benito Mussolini, to halt the German Nazis from further anti-Austrian acts, such as attacking Premier Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, in radio broadcasts over the border, or dropping pamphlets in Austria from airplanes sent over the frontier.

Germany is a signatory to the pact, designed to preserve peace on the continent.

Denies Joint Accord.

Dispatches from Paris tonight said the French government spokesman had denied these three former allies had agreed on joint representations to Germany, but that they might "consider concerted action if the Austro-German tension increases, or new incidents occur."

The French admitted that the three powers were "exchanging observations" through diplomatic channels.

The French Ambassador in Berlin, Andre Francois-Poncet, presented a note to the Hitlerite government protesting Nazi kidnapings of French citizens in the Saar region, lying between Germany and France, as activity which has further complicated this situation.

The protest subsequently led to the information that the three powers were considering two-fold action along these lines:

Warning to Nazis.

1. A join warning to the Nazis to cease their anti-Austrian campaign.

2. A protest against Germany's alleged attempts to organize an air force and otherwise infringe on the military provisions in the treaty of Versailles.

Austria had appealed to the powers informally during their regular diplomatic conversations on economic and political conditions in central Europe, it was learned.

Troops Called In Vote Riots

One Dead, Three Wounded as Violence Flares in Kentucky.

Harlan, Ky., Aug. 3 (AP).—Company A, 149th Infantry, Kentucky National Guard, was called out today as a precautionary measure after one man had been killed and three wounded in a raid on a ballot box at Kenvir, 12 miles from here.

Mayor L. O. Smith advised Adjt. Gen. Denhardt that the action was necessary to avert serious trouble in connection with the primary, August 5, in which legislators and county office nominations are to be made. Troops cleared the streets here. Mayor Smith had reported to Gen. Denhardt that men armed with rifles and machine guns were walking the streets.

Even Dogs Aren't Safe From Kidnaping Gangs

Marysville, Kans., Aug. 3 (AP). Tony, an 8-year-old fox terrier, is a victim of kidnapers and has been threatened with death unless his owner, Mrs. Minnie Smith, pays a ransom of $100 for his return.

Tony was seized Saturday night, the kidnapers leaving a note with instructions to contact an intermediary. Mrs. Smith, accompanied by a friend and police officers complied with the note, but failed to find either the intermediary or Tony at the designated place.

Hitler Gives Help To Jewish Vendor

Berlin, Aug. 3 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A considerate act by Chancellor Hitler in behalf of a Jew was reported in yesterday's Tilsiter Zeitung.

Max Bergmann, a Jewish peddler, lost his only horse, which made continuance of his hawking business impossible. Horses are cheap in Memel, or Klaipeda, Lithuania, just across the border from Tilsit, in East Prussia. Bergmann sent a letter to Hitler, asking permission in view of his poverty to import a horse from Memel duty free. Bergmann inclosed proofs of his war service.

The chancellor instructed customs officials to permit Bergmann to import the horse without duty.

Deluge Sweeps Denver; 2 Dead, Score Missing

Storms Smash Dam, Ruin Crops, Store Stocks; Loss $1,000,000.

Denver, Aug. 3 (AP).—Crumpling under the pressure a mountain cloudburst added to the 3 square miles of water behind its walls, Castlewood Dam sent a billion-gallon deluge roaring through Denver today, leaving two dead, a score missing, and damage estimated at $1,000,000 in its 35-mile path of destruction.

Franktown, a village on a hillside 4 miles below the dam, was the first to be struck. Then the flood swept on 6 miles to Parker, at times on a mile-wide front, and picked up tons of debris as it swirled into suburban Denver and sent Cherry Creek on a rampage through the heart of the city.

Farms Laid Waste.

The flood waters quickly converted the fertile valley farm lands into a mud-splattered slough.

Denver police and firemen speeded through the Country Club residential district warning everyone to flee. Ambulance corps moved invalids to safety.

A separate cloudburst, one of four rainstorms and five hailstorms that hit southeastern Colorado in the last 24 hours, took the life of Mrs. Claude Hill, 50, when her ranch home in the Matheson region was washed several hundred yards off its foundation.

Horsewoman Perishes.

The Castlewood Dam dead were Mrs. Bertha Catlin, 21, a ranch worker, who was thrown from her horse into a flooded creek, and Tom Casey, 80, of Denver, who drowned in the rear of a Denver home.

Crop losses will be enormous and hundreds of head of live stock were drowned. Highways and bridges were damaged heavily as were buildings in Denver and merchandise in store basements.

Thousands of persons—probably 5,000 in Denver alone—were driven from homes.

Miners who had been panning gold beneath the dam were reported missing.

Briton Is Reported Expelled by Turkey

London Is Astonished on Hearing Vickers Man Is Sent Into Bulgaria.

London (Friday), Aug. 4 (U.P.).—An Istanbul, Turkey, dispatch in the Daily Telegraph here today said that A. V. Lander, chief of the Vickers-Armstrong-Vickers organization, the Marconi Co., representatives in Turkey, was expelled from the country last night.

The report said the Turkish authorities did not divulge the charges against Lander, who was reported escorted by police over the frontier into Bulgaria and started on his way to Sofia.

British quarters expressed astonishment. It followed the trial recently in Moscow of several engineers in the Metropolitan-Vickers organization in Soviet Russia, and their expulsion from that country, on charges of sabotage.

Mechanic, Who Spun Kidnap Yarn, Freed

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—Robert Halliday, itinerant aviation mechanic, who Federal authorities said concocted a story that Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma outlaw, planned to abduct the small daughter of Richard Barthelmess, film actor, was freed today by the district attorney's office.

Officers said they could find no charge to file against him.

Possum Builds Nest In Organ of Church

Riverside, Calif., Aug. 3 (AP). Apparently in quest of soothing melodies to aid a somnolent weakness, a 'possum, comfortably installed in a nest, was found in the console of an organ at a church here today. It was given a new residence in the city's Zoo.

Labor Claims Rails Fail to Aid Recovery

Will Send to President Charges Roads Are Laying Off Men.

Federal Official Asks All Heads of Companies to Assist Drive.

Cleveland, Aug. 3 (AP).—Railway labor in the United States decided tonight to bring to the attention of President Roosevelt what was called the "failure of the railroads to cooperate with the President in this great drive for the restoration of prosperity."

The decision was made by the Railway Labor Executives Association, a special meeting of which had been called on the basis of reports from various brotherhood members that the railroads were reducing forces to effect economies, contrary to the President's reemployment program.

700,000 Jobless.

A statement at the end of the meeting said:

"Member organizations reported that the railroads are continuing to throw employes out of work, thereby increasing unemployment at an alarming rate.

"This association has concluded to bring these matters to the attention of the President, because we feel that the welfare of the country demands that some action be taken to bring about the reemployment of the great army of more than 700,000 rail workers now without jobs and being supported at public and private expense. * * * "

(Associated Press.)

Recovery administration officials yesterday directed their efforts toward bringing railroads and coal mines within the scope of the wage-hoisting-hour shearing endeavor.

Joseph B. Eastman, Federal coordinator of transportation, synchronized his efforts with those of Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, by telegraphing the heads of all big railroads to "spend every available dollar in putting men back to work."

Johnson is setting up immediately an informal stock-taking division to show exactly what has been accomplished, how far agreements with President Roosevelt by employers and permanent codes have reached, and where the most pressing effort is needed next.

Half-Way Point Reached.

Pointing out that more than 5,000,000 workers were affected by the temporary code prescribed for retail stores and food dealers, the unofficial estimate was made that the half-way point had been reached in the attempt to bring all wage earners under the industrial recovery act.

Other developments yesterday included:

Clearing of the way through formal interpretation for big employers of labor under contract, including newspapers, to obtain the NRA's official insignia without altering existing wage and hour terms, so long as they comply otherwise.

Award of millions of dollars worth of shipbuilding by the Navy to shipyards which will operate under a 32-hour week code.

Oil Dispute Lags.

The controversy over an oil code continued with advocates of price control emphasizing to the recovery administrtaion that nothing could be accomplished unless this question was answered.

Eastman, the rail coordinator, in his message to the railroad presidents, estimated that 40,000 men had been returned to work since June 1 on the carriers but he added that this was not sufficient.

Earlier in the day, Eastman added 19 more division and research assistants to his staff to work out economy and other problems with the carriers.

Lindberghs in Hop Over Baffin Land

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made a 600-mile round trip reconnoitering flight today between Holsteinborg, Greenland, and the east central part of Baffin Land, Pan-American Airways was notified.

The couple took off from Holsteinborg at 7:30 a. m. (Eastern standard time) and crossed the Davis Straits.

The east-central portion of Baffin Land was surveyed from the air and then the Lindberghs began the 200-mile return flight eastward.

Earthquake Rocks Town in Jugoslavia

Zagreb, Jugoslavia, Aug. 3 (AP).—A sharp earthquake shock at 3:26 a. m. today startled inhabitants of this city, cracked walls in some buildings and toppled over several chimneys. No injuries were reported.

Leader of New Party Arrested by Spain

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 3 (AP).—Maj. Carlos Lopez, retired, was arrested today with documents which, police said, he confessed were related to the formation of a new political party headed by Gen. Jose San Jurjo and Dr. Jose Maria Albinana, Nationalist leader, both in prison.

Girl Puzzled by NRA Writes Letter to Santa

Oklahoma City, Aug. 3 (AP).—All this NRA activity around the postoffice and home discussions of the subject led a little Oklahoma City girl to get the idea that Santa Claus was mixed up in the affair.

"What shall I do with this?" asked a mail clerk. He plopped a small envelope on the desk of W. G. Johnston, postmaster, addressed to "Santa Claus, North Pole."

"I'll file it for delivery in December," said Johnston.

Moley Probe Of O'Connell Case Sought

Roosevelt May Be Asked to Send Professor to Study Abduction.

Dr. Mayo's Home Under Guard as Kidnaping Attempt Fails.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—The suggestion will be made to President Roosevelt tomorrow that he ask Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, to start his Federal crusade against kidnaping and other forms of racketeering with a personal investigation of the O'Connell kidnaping case.

It was reliably reported here tonight that Mr. Roosevelt will be told that the kidnaping of Lieut. John J. O'Connell, jr., is a "made to order" starting point for the anti-crime campaign, which the Government will launch.

Young O'Connell, as a National Guard officer, wears the uniform of his country. Letters demanding a ransom were sent through the mails. Ed and Dan O'Connell, uncles of 24-year-old John, are prominent in the Democratic party of New York. Ed is county chairman.

Reports also were circulated today that members of the O'Connell family had been threatened because of the aid they have been giving officials.

Shoot to Kill Orders.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 3 (AP).—Guards told by one of the distinguished Mayo brothers to "shoot first and make explanations afterward" patrolled the family estate tonight after what he said was an attempt to kidnap one or more of his grandchildren.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo gave the order after a nursemaid said a man tried to force entrance into the nursery in which slept the three children of his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo. The children range in age from 2½ to 6 years.

Two Cases Puzzle Police.

They decided that David Kahan, 54-year-old restaurateur, arranged his abduction himself to get $500 from his family, and arrested him and an aid on charges of attempted extortion.

They admitted they were at a loss what to think of the case of Nathan Baskowitz, 31-year-old real estate dealer known as Nat Bass, who told a story of being kidnaped Monday and released last night after he had talked his abductors out of a $25,000 ransom demand.

Al Smith's Jests Develop Backfire

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Al Smith, it seems, still takes pride in the nautical knowledge he picked up in his early days in the Fulton Fish Market.

Attending a dinner aboard the Isle de France, the New York Sun relates, the former governor devoted part of his speech to joshing a ship-line official who had spoken before him.

"The fella said we should go upstairs and see a movie," Smith began. "Now in my early experience around Fulton Fish Market, I learned a lot of nautical language and I know you can't say 'upstairs' about this boat—you must say 'above.' "

"But, Governor," the Sun admonished in a quip to its story, "you must never speak of a 'ship' as a 'boat,' either."

Strolling Fiddler Is Freed by Judge

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Magistrate David Malbin has an ear for music.

An unemployed fiddler, Ted Wuykoff, appeared in court today. He had taken to playing in the street to pick up a few pennies. Magistrate Malbin asked him to play a tune. Wuykoff rendered a Bach fugue and then a popular song. The magistrate applauded quietly, suspended the musician's sentence and remarked:

"You play well, Mr. Wuykoff; but I can't help feeling as Bill Nye remarked, that classical music is really better than it sounds."

Ruth Nichols Delays Start of Record Hop

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—Thunderstorms and head winds along the route Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., aviatrix, has chosen for her record-seeking flight to New York, were reported by the Weather Bureau today and caused her to postpone the take-off scheduled for tomorrow.

Coal Strike Settlement Near As President Gives Approval To Proposed Plan for Peace

Labor Leader and Pinchot Discuss Coal Strike

Underwood & Underwood.

Basis of Agreement Is Not Disclosed by Officials.

Victory Follows Earlier Failure

Any Accepted Pact Must Carry Indorsement of Roosevelt.

(Associated Press.)

An agreement to settle the Pennsylvania bituminous coal strike, negotiated with the aid of President Roosevelt, last night was on the point of completion.

A turn in the tide came after early mediation efforts proved futile in a conference between Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery chief; Gov. Pinchot, John L. Lewis and representatives of the H. C. Frick Coke Co.

From Hyde Park, President Roosevelt took a hand, and gave his approval to the course of the maneuvers.

"There will be no agreement that does not have the approval of President Roosevelt," Johnson told newspapermen.

The basis of the agreement remained undisclosed.

Swope and Teagle Aid.

Johnson called to his aid members of the administration's Industrial Advisory Board, including Gerard Swope and Walter C. Teagle. They were understood to have urged officials of the United States Steel Corporation, which controls the Frick company, to seek a basis for settlement.

Johnson talked to W. A. Irvin, president of the steel corporation, after negotiations with Thomas Moses, president of the Frick company, had toppled.

The strike resulted, the miners charged, from Frick Co.'s opposition to inroads of United Mine Workers into their plants.

Lewis said men were given the most disagreeable work in the mines and discharged on slight pretense because they signed union cards.

Wages have not been a question of dispute. Miners in the Pittsburgh district under union contract have joined the walk-out.

The union was said to have demanded, when the conference started, complete recognition of the United Mine Workers and establishment of the check-off system (deduction of union dues from miners' wages).

Whether it had retreated from that stand was not disclosed.

Defeat Conceded Earlier.

The change for the better came after the National Recovery Administration yesterday met defeat in its effort to bring to an immediate end the spreading Pennsylvania coal strike.

"No progress. No nothing. Just an absolute stalemate," Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, had said after several hours of conferences which produced no signs of an agreement.

"It looks like I butted my nose into something I had no business to be in and I got just what was coming to me," he added, bluntly and somewhat wearily.

This crucial test of the NRA

Aroused Labor Tries to Scrap Naval Decree

Four-Hour Cut in Work But Eight-Hour Cut in Pay to Be Aired Today.

By Robert C. Albright.

Labor last night was thoroughly aroused at the Navy Department's latest five-day week order, entailing a four-hour cut in all Navy Yards and field establishments, but an eight-hour cut in pay.

The legislative committee of the Metal Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, called a meeting this morning, when a drive will be mapped to block the order before it becomes effective next week.

A full day's compensation will be lopped from the weekly pay envelopes of 3,300 employes of the Washington Navy Yard, while 46,000 civilian field employes of the Navy throughout the country will pay a similar price.

Officers Not Cut Alike.

Naval officers stationed at yards hit by the five-day week order, however, will receive no parallel reduction in pay or rank, while performing the same functions, labor officials were quick to point out.

"Pending the decision adjusting navy yard work with the shipbuilders' code, available funds will not permit continuance of the 5½-day week," the Navy Department explained in issuing the new order. It was identical with an order announced June 1, but revoked following strong protests from organized workers.

Metal Trades Union officials, who only Tuesday were advised Secretary of the Navy Swanson was planning to invoke a 39 or 40 hour week at the navy yards, with the old 48-hour pay scale, expressed mingled amazement and indignation at yesterday's action.

"We can not believe the President realizes the full injustice of this decision," said N. P. Alifas, president of District 44 of the International Association of Machinists.

President's Approval Seen.

He charged the Navy further plans to employ "third-class common labor" at many of the yards, paying them as low as $8.40 a week. Highly skilled mechanics will receive under $100 a month, less than they would get if they retired, he said.

The 5-day week order is said to have received the indorsement of the President, when three ranking Navy officers visited Hyde Park Wednesday.

Earlier yesterday, the Supervising Architect's office of the Treasury Department was ordered to take four days' payless furlough a month until next July. This order hits 800 employes of the Washington office, virtually doubling the 15 per cent pay cut they already have suffered.

Huge Tooth of Monster Found in Illinois River

Kewanee, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—While diving in the Illinois River, Fred Kellar, a barber, found a huge tooth. Since then, he has spent his Sundays bringing up other parts of the skeleton of a prehistoric monster.

One of the teeth weighs more than 13 pounds, and the shoulder blade measures 36 by 37 inches.

200 Stone Stores For Staying Open

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP).—A crowd estimated by the police at 200 persons late today gathered in front of two chain stores that had not closed at the hour specified by local retailers as part of their program of conformance with the President's wage-work agreement.

Stones and other missiles were hurled and two employes of one of the stores were struck before the doors were shut.

Last Tuesday, similar demonstrations were held in front of locally owned stores that did not comply.

Dalrymple Out As Dry Chief

Attorney General, in Form Letter, Denies Reports of Friction.

Maj. A. V. Dalrymple is through as Federal prohibition director, as was reported in The Washington Post July 30, but later denied.

This was made known, it was learned yesterday in a letter from Attorney General Cummings, expressing appreciation for the major's services, and denying reports of friction between the director and the Department of Justice.

"Now that your term of office as director of prohibition is drawing to a close, on account of the consolidation of your bureau with the Bureau of Investigation," the letter read, "I can not refrain from writing you a note expressive of my deep appreciation for your loyal cooperation.

"In certain quarters, I understand, it is said that there has been constant friction between us from the time of your appointment, and that I have been irritated by the manner in which you have discharged your duties. Nothing, of course, could be further from the truth."

Doctor Prescribes For Boy by Radio

Seattle, Aug. 3 (AP).—Short-wave wireless whined across more than 1,000 miles of the Pacific Ocean today as a physician and amateur operator sought to save the life of a 5-year-old boy by long distance.

Ed Stevens, the operator, was "talking" with the operator at Aiaktalik on lonely Kodiak Island near the Aleutians and was told about the illness of the boy, son of Henry B. Looff, former Bureau of Fisheries warden. There was no physician there.

"They gave me the symptoms," Stevens said. "I gave them to Dr. A. H. Seering. He diagnosed the case as peritonitis, and advised that the boy be rushed to Anchorage, Alaska, by airplane.

"Bad weather conditions prevented Aiaktalik from talking with Anchorage. They asked me to relay a message. I gave the message to the Army wireless station here and they sent it to Anchorage. We got a message later that the plane was being sent.

Philadelphia Visitors Are Blessed by Pope

Vatican City, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—A band of 135 Philadelphia pilgrims, led by Auxiliary Bishop Gerald O'Hara and Mgr. Hugo Lambe, was received by Pope Pius XI today. The Pope blessed the visitors and the archdiocese of the United States.

(Associated Press.)

The first direct effort of the Federal Government to choke down the unruly flow of oil to market received its initial challenge yesterday in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court for a group of Texas refiners.

F. W. Fischer, of Tyler, Tex., asked for an injunction to prevent enforcement by Secretary Ickes of President Roosevelt's recent order prohibiting interstate movement of oil produced in violation of State conservation orders.

Hearing August 15.

The action, brought by Fischer for the Southport Petroleum Co., of Longview, Tex., and 48 other refiners, was directed against Ickes. Justice Joseph W. Cox set the case for hearing August 15 and issued an order for Ickes to show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

To support the plea that the oil regulations and the order were unconstitutional, Fischer's bill of particulars contended that Congress could not vest legislative powers in the Executive; that it prohibited instead of regulated interstate commerce; and that the penalty of a fine of $1,000 or six months' imprisonment was unconstitutional because the President could not define an offense.

Price Fixing Urged.

A belief that without price regulation for the oil industry codes would accomplish nothing, was emphasized before the administration yesterday by advocates in a final attempt to have price control written into a trade plan.

Carrying their effort to the end of open sessions of a petroleum code pending before recovery officials and the industry, proponents of price regulation left wide open the breach within the business on this issue. It was expected by some oil men to be taken finally to President Roosevelt for a settlement.

Price regulation has been opposed by the Standards of New Jersey and Indiana, the Royal Dutch Shell, the Texas Co. and several others. A faction of independents under Jack Blalock, of Marshall, Tex., in a code submitted June 22, asked that price fixing be prohibited.

Armada Again Delayed By Adverse Weather

Clarenville, Newfoundland, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Gen Italo Balbo announced tonight that weather conditions would not permit departure of his 24 Italian seaplanes for Valentia, Ireland, tomorrow.

He had hoped to start at dawn.

Ancient Aleuts' Armor Found by Glacier Priest

False Pass, Alaska, Aug. 3 (AP).—Discovery of ancient Indian wooden armor, war masks and paddles of huge war canoes used by the early Aleuts was reported today by Father Bernard Hubbard, the "Glacier Priest."

His expedition uncovered the find in ocean caves on an uninhabited volcanic island in the Aleutian chain.

Visit to Hyde Park, Hull's First Move

S. S. President Harding at Sea, Aug. 3 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returning to America from the World Economic Conference in London, will go immediately to Hyde Park, N. Y., to confer with President Roosevelt when this steamer docks at New York Saturday.

The Secretary, who headed the American delegation, has prepared a report to the President. He plans to acquaint Mr. Roosevelt with the complete details of the conference and to discuss what may be done during the recess to further ultimate success.

He also plans to talk over regional agreements and trade pacts which may be reached in furtherance of the policy of removal of trade barriers.

Governor Ely Calls Stand of Ickes Affront

Some See Row Between Al Smith and Roosevelt Camps Revived.

Boston, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The ruling of Secretary of the Interior Ickes that the Massachusetts Municipal Emergency Relief Board shall have no say on what municipal projects are to be undertaken in Massachusetts with Federal funds, "is an affront to the sovereignty of this Commonwealth as expressed through the governor and the distinct provisions of legislative enactment," Gov. Ely said in a letter to Ickes made public at the governor's office today.

To Continue Protests.

The letter renewed the protest which the governor expressed in his telephone conversation with Ickes yesterday. At the same time as he made public his letter to Secretary Ickes, saying that he desires only to cooperate with the Federal authorities who are not in a position to pass upon the finances of Massachusetts cities, the governor denied any annoyance at the appointment of former Gov. Fuller to the Federal Public Works Advisory Board of Massachusetts.

Gov. Ely is going to carry to the limit his protests against the Ickes ruling, and if he fails through protests to Ickes himself and through public appeals for support he is quite likely to appeal directly to President Roosevelt.

Old War Revived.

Many saw today in the ruling of Ickes a row between the old Smith and Roosevelt factions in Massachusetts, with Gov. Ely heading one of the warring factions and Mayor Curley of Boston the other. The plum which is at stake is the $23,000,000 in Federal money to which it is estimated Boston is entitled for construction purposes under the terms of the industrial recovery act. Gov. Ely points out in his letter that it has been a very laborious undertaking for Massachusetts to rehabilitate its municipalities and that this alone ought to show Ickes why Massachusetts should strenuously object to grants made without the sanction of State officials.

"If your are interested at all in the fundamental theory upon which the Federal Government was created and by which municipalities were created," the governor writes bitingly, "I should think it would be plain that direct contact between the Federal Government and the municipalities is an affront to the sovereignty of this Commonwealth."

Chicagoans Cheer Mattern's Arrival

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Jimmy Mattern, whose attempted solo flight around the world was dogged with misfortune that crashed his plane in barren Siberia, came home to a rousing welcome today.

Mattern soloed in from New York, making a halt at Cleveland. At the airport were notables of the city and relatives of Mattern. He was taken to the Century of Progress grounds for a tour of the exposition. He was feted tonight by his friends and backers.

Said his mother, Mrs. Caroline Mattern:

"Don't be downhearted, Jimmy. You still may be able to beat the record."

Licensing of Beer Is Ruled Invalid

Indiana Court Says State Has No Power to Ask Permits.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 3 (AP).—Judge Michael Havran of East Chicago city court today dismissed charges against 12 defendants held for selling 3.2 beer without a license and declared Indiana's beer control act invalid.

Judge Havran termed the beer law "unconstitutional in toto," ruling the State had no power to require licenses to handle the 3.2 per cent beverage because it has been declared nonintoxicating by Congress. He also ruled the act gave the State excise director "arbitrary powers."

Desire for Service Almost Costs Life

Anaconda, Mont., Aug. 3 (AP). The desire of Mrs. Nick Buckovich to be of service to her benefactors nearly cost their lives.

On the death of her husband, Mrs. Buckovich was invited to make her home with her brother-in-law, Frank Peppin, and his wife. Mrs. Buckovich took along several partly filled sacks of flour, emptied them into the Peppin bin and proceeded to make some bread. The loaves didn't look quite right and were given to pigs and chickens. Most of them died.

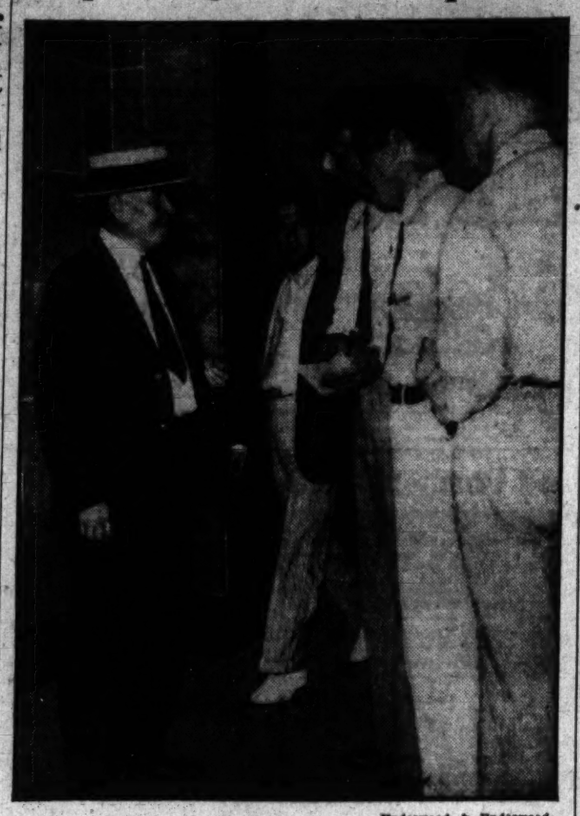
Then Mrs. Buckovich recalled that her husband used to keep some ant poison in a flour sack.

Cremation Follows Rites For Swedish Chancellor

Funeral services for Miss Lydia Hendrickson, chancellor of the Swedish Legation for many years, were held yesterday at the Lee funeral home, Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast.

The services were under the auspices of the Swedish lodge, Drott. Baron Beck-Friis, the Swedish charge d'affaires, paid high tribute to Miss Hendrickson for her faithful service. All members of the legation and the office staff attended. Cremation followed the services.

Reporters Question Mine Operator



Underwood & Underwood.

Ship Contracts Spur Work in Many Sections

(Associated Press.)

An improvement in employment conditions throughout the Nation was envisioned yesterday by high naval officials after the task of constructing 37 war vessels had been allotted to Government and private yards.

Contracts for 21 ships were awarded to private companies. The remaining 16 are to be built in Government yards on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, said present unemployment in the shipbuilding industry would be fully taken up when the entire program gets under way.

Meanwhile, the Navy ordered a 5-day week of 40 hours for civilian employes at all shore stations to comply with the shipbuilding code agreed to by private companies. The code will affect 44,000 employes.

In making the awards, the Navy turned down a request by Chairman Trammell of the Senate Naval Committee that bids be rejected for two cruisers on the ground that four shipbuilding companies had advance knowledge of the various offers to be made.

Admiral Standley, who conferred Wednesday with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, said an investigation had disclosed there was "no foundation" for the charges. He thought further inquiry was unnecessary.

Sweatshop Flayed By Union Official

(Associated Press.)

Controversies raged and tempers flamed yesterday as hearings proceeded on codes of competition for the cotton garment and shirt industries.

Arthur G. Davenport, of Allenhurst, N. J., representing the Union-Made Garment Manufacturers Association, said a group that he called manufacturers in name only was largely responsible for present conditions.

"No sweatshop business can exist when its produce is marketed as such in fair competition with fair competition," he added.

Manufacturers disputed the proposed differentials between workers in the North and South.

Pola Negri Denies She's Married to McCormick

Paris, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Pola Negri tonight emphatically denied reports she had married Harold F. McCormick, wealthy Chicago manufacturer.

"There is absolutely no truth in reports of my supposed marriage to Harold McCormick," the film actress said. "I know him very well as an old and charming friend, but we are not married or even engaged.

"I am very busy now making a picture here and plan to return to the United States in about five weeks."

Price Brakes Sought Until Wage Lag Ends

(Associated Press.)

The Roosevelt administration embarked yesterday on a program to prevent prices of products, from bacon to night shirts, from rising faster than the purchasing power of farmers and workers.

The first move was taken by farm administrators in announcing that a weekly list of prices paid by consumers and paid to farmers, together with changes in wage levels, would be issued.

The first will come out next week under the direction of Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel for farm administrators. It will show surveys of prices in 50 cities for about 40 food and textile products most commonly purchased.

It is contemplated that in instances where price increases, after allowances for differences in transportation and other costs, appear to be uniformly higher in one locality than another, investigations will be undertaken to determine whether antitrust laws are being violated.

The point which is of most concern to farm administrators, it was said, is the possibility of sharp appreciation of inventories of processors and distributors of goods purchased during a period of low prices for which higher prices would be charged by the time the goods enter consumption channels.

Stock Exchange Orders 10 Per Cent Wage Boost

(Associated Press.)

Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administer, was informed yesterday that the New York Stock Exchange had authorized an increase of wages of 10 per cent.

Notice of the action was given the administrator by telephone by H. Q. Wellington, a member of the board of governors. Several days ago the exchange told President Roosevelt it had accepted the conditions of his reemployment agreement.

$46,000,000 Ship Construction Starts Soon in Norfolk Harbor

(Associated Press.)

Employment for Virginia's shipbuilding industry for three or four years was assured yesterday when the Navy awarded contracts to the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. and the Navy Yard at Norfolk aggregating $46,000,000.

More than $39,000,000 of the expenditure, which is to be made from the Public Works Fund, will be distributed to labor in the Virginia yards and business generally will share the increased buying power of the workmen.

Two aircraft carriers will be built by the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. at a total cost of $38,000,000. These two craft will take about three years and four months to construct.

In the Navy Yard at Norfolk, two destroyers will be built. These probably will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000,000. They will require from two to three years to construct.

Naval officials said today everything was in readiness to start construction in the Government yards within a few days.

Florida Man Sworn in Loan Corporation Office

Richard E. Philpot, 29, of Tampa, Fla., was sworn in yesterday as assistant treasurer of the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Mr. Philpot uses crutches because of infantile paralysis, against which he is waging a victorious battle. He spends much of his time at Warm Springs, Ga., where he became acquainted with President Roosevelt. He is a near relative of the late Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia.

Blanket Code Changes Junk Old Work Plan

35 and 40 Hour Weeks as Well as Minimum Hours Discarded.

(United Press.)

President Roosevelt's blanket volunary agreement was modified severely yesterday to open the way for participation of large groups of industries employing several million workers.

How the original 35 and 40 hour week for labor and white collar workers, respectively, as well as minimum wage schedules have been discarded was disclosed further yesterday in temporary agreements approved for the laundry and zinc industries and a new ruling on union labor contracts.

In another interpretation of section 7 of the blanket code, the Recovery Administration ruled that employers bound by union contracts which they are unable to change may get the Blue Eagle and participate in President Roosevelt's blanket agreement if they comply in all other particulars. Paticipation on this basis is subject to approval by the Recovery Administration.

A minimum wage as low as 14 cents an hour or $8.30 a week of 45 hours was approved for female workers in Southern laundries yesterday by Gen. Thomas E. Hammond, director of the reemployment campaign in promulgating a modified code for the laundry industry.

A 42-hour week averaged over a 13-week period is provided in the temporary code approved for the zinc industry. Minimum wages are 35 cents an hour in the North and Northwest, 30 cents in the South and 30 cents for mining of high-grade zinc.

Reports were received showing progress of the voluntary code campaign, with thousands of agreements signed. California still led. San Francisco reported a total of 49,202.

The proposed oil code still was causing difficulties yesterday. Representatives of the industry were determined in their demands that price fixing be included. Gen. Johnson still refused to agree. A virtual agreement on wages in the proposed code was the only accomplishment of the day.

Hasbrouck Heights First 100% NRA City

(Associated Press.)

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., yesterday was cited as the first 100 per cent NRA town in the United States.

The National Recovery Administration announced last night that 40 agreements had been distributed among employers of the town and that all had signed up to comply with the maximum-hour minimum-wage of President Roosevelt's covenant.

Slum Clearance Projects Delayed

Public Works Board Will Await Reports of Engineers.

(Associated Press.)

The public works administration yesterday deferred action on housing projects in more than 30 cities to await reports from its engineers on the feasibility of many of them.

The Special Public Works Board, headed by Secretary Ickes, received a partial report from the board of consultants which has been studying slum clearance projects, but did not act because the information was not considered sufficiently complete.

Public Works Administration officials declined to make known the cities to which engineers are to be sent to study projects, but it was said they would examine prospective sites and study especially the likelihood that construction of large scale moderate rental housing would attract inhabitants of slum areas.

Ickes indicated that definite action on some housing projects may come at the board's meeting next Tuesday as well as possible action on the Army housing program.

Federal Position Declined by Tobin

Labor Leader Rejects Job of Adviser on Public Works Board.

Indianapolis, Aug. 3 (AP).—Daniel J. Tobin, Indianapolis labor leader, today declined the position as regional adviser in the Public Works Administration.

Tobin, who is president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, was appointed last week by President Roosevelt as adviser for the region comprising Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Michigan.

In a message to the President Tobin expressed appreciation for his appointment but said his services are now needed by the workers of the country.

Quebec, Aug. 3 (AP).—The outstanding success of the Canadian loan negotiated in London Monday and the intensified solidarity of empire relations arising from the London parleys amply rewarded Canada for her efforts at the world economic conference, said E. N. Rhodes, Canadian minister of finance, who landed here today from the liner Empress of Britain.

Peace Believed Near in Coal Mine Dispute

comes within 24 hours of the announcement of the setting up of organized committees by the Johnson regime to settle disputes betwen leabor and capital. Although confined at first to the textile industry, it was proposed to extend the arbitration system to all industries.

Moses Writes Views to Johnson.

Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., of Fayette County, Pa., wrote what he had to say about the peace making and had it delivered to Gen. Johnson. While Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania; John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers; Edward F. McGrady, labor's assistant recovery administrator, and others awaited Mr. Moses' arrival, the coal company head appeared for a brief moment and left without entering the conference room.

The Frick Co. is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Co. Both have been antiunion labor since their formation. The latter's views on labor unions were set forth in the code on which public hearings recently were concluded.

Oppose Unionization.

These provisions proposed to use the recovery act to forbid efforts to unionize its employes. At the suggestion of Gen. Johnson these were withdrawn, but Thomas P. Lamont, representing the steel industry, gave blunt notice the withdrawal did not mean any change in the industry's antagonism to organized labor.

Collective bargaining provisions of the recovery law were looked on by steel and other powerful industrial and financial leaders with such antipathy that reports were circulated they intend to fight the recovery program.

These reports led President Roosevelt to call Mr. Lamont to Washington, and several days later a code was submitted. Gen. Johnson recently said he was disappointed in the failure of the great utilities interests to submit codes or give other definite indications of cooperation in the recovery movement.

Proposes Halt.

Gen. Johnson proposed that the strike be temporarily halted, without effort to settle the issues involved, pending approval of a general code for the bituminous industry.

Mr. Lewis offered to order the 50,000 striking men back to work temporarily, in accord with Johnson's suggestion, if the mine operators would install check weighmen at the mine tipples. The offer wasn't accepted, although two representatives of the Frick company were present. Charles O'Neil, of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, also attended.

As he left the conference Mr. Lewis said it had been adjourned to meet again at the call of Gen. Johnson.

2,000 More Coal Miners Strike in Pennsylvania

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP).—Mine walkouts spread slowly through the soft-coal fields today as strikers in Fayette County, scene of recent violence and bloodshed, marked time awaiting "peace conference" developments in Washington.

Sympathy strikers in Washington, Allegheny, Westmoreland and Cambria counties added some 2,000 men to the walkout total—now between 35,000 and 40,000.

No disorder marked these strikes.

Many Unable to Enroll Because Codes Have Not Been Adopted.

NRA blue eagles have been obtained by 2,590 of the 8,000 employers in Washington, it was announced last night at the Benjamin Franklin branch of the Postoffice Department.

Tuesday, first day of distribution, 822 badges were issued. Wednesday 921 were issued and 790 yesterday.

Many District employers are unable to enroll because codes have not been adopted for their trades. Members of the Restaurant Association are among these. Independent restaurant owners are displaying blue eagles.

Lay Drive Groundwork.

Groundwork for a local NRA drive was laid yesterday at a conference between trade body heads and Frank R. Wilson, of the Bureau of Public Relations of the NRA. An organization meeting will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at Board of Trade headquarters.

The code is expected to increase department store employment by 2,000. Eleven of the 18 ornamental iron manufacturers have adopted the code. They will set up a 35-hour work week, with a minimum wage scale of 40 cents an hour for common labor, and 50 cents an hour for skilled. The group will ask for a 70-cent minimum wage scale for skilled workers.

The District Retail Hardware Association will meet at 9 p. m. today at the Mayflower to discuss the code.

Await National Code.

Washington realtors will be guided by a national code, now being drafted, Charles J. Rush, executive secretary of the Real Estate Board, announced yesterday.

A. L. Raffa, of the Economic Research Division of the Department of Commerce, addressed the Building Trade Employers Association on aspects of the recovery act at the Continental Hotel last night.

Roosevelt Gets Appeal on Milk

New York Board Threatens to Import Supply if Violence Continues.

Boonville, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—An appeal to President Roosevelt by the leader in New York State's rapidly spreading milk strike to "supersede the State in this matter" and a threat of the State Milk Control Board to permit milk importations from neighboring States unless the strike is ended, marked the third day of disturbances in a producers' holiday. Ten thousand additional farmers were drawn into the maelstrom today.

Attacking the classification policy of the State board as not giving the farmers any profit, while dealers and certain market associations take "extraordinary high profits," Albert Woodhead, mainspring in the Empire Dairymen's Protective Association, strike backers, wired the President that the board had not accorded the farmer "a sympathetic consideration." Woodhead said Gov. Lehman had answered appeals with the statement that he "is powerless to deal with the board."

Dissatisfaction with the classification policy resulted in the present strike. The strikers want, instead, a guaranteed blanket price of 4½ cents for each quart of milk leaving the farm. They say they get an average of 2 cents now. Woodhead referred to present methods as "a Simon Legree set-up."

Anxious!

Savant Nervously Awaits Birth of Ten Billion Baby Oysters.

Seattle, Aug. 3 (AP).—The oysters of Willapa Harbor are expecting 10,000,000 babies and Prof. Trevor Kincaid is more worried than the prospective oyster parents.

The University of Washington scintist is responsible for it all, for he is the pioneer biologist in importation and development of the Japanese oyster in this country and this year, for the first time, the young oysters will be thoroughbred American bivalves. The Japanese oyster, he believes, will join the Olympia oyster in creation of a great industry in Washington.

The reason for anxiety, Prof. Kincaid said today, is that the young oysters are due any minute, and 12 days after their arrival dredges now standing by must dump tons of old oyster shells on the flats. This is because the brand-new "sprat" is looking for something to settle on before growing his own shell.

Elopement Solves 'Kidnaping'

Bethesda Gasoline Station Manager, on Sick Leave, Weds Philadelphia Heiress, Banker's Daughter, Then Phones Her Anxious Mother.

While under treatment for heat prostration Wednesday night Quirk eloped to Elkridge, Md., with Miss Dorothy Genevieve Salter, of Drexel Park, Pa.

Yesterday Quirk notified his bride's mother, Mrs. Macie Salter, widow of the late William Salter, vice president of the Sixth National Bank of Philadelphia, of the marriage, thus dispelling for the mother and the police fears that the girl's disappearance from her home Tuesday night had been a kidnaping.

The young people met for the first time while Quirk was working at a Philadelphia gas station, before taking his present job here.

Quirk is 24 years old and lives in Havre de Grace, Md. The couple will live in Washington.

Cabinet Crisis Is Held Averted By Crime Drive

By Raymond Clapper.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

One Cabinet crisis apparently has been averted by President Roosevelt by putting the head of his "brain trust," Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, to work on the crime problem.

Advance reports are that Secretary of State Hull, an unusually patient and mild-tempered man, was returning from London "with blood in his eye" because of the conduct of Moley during his recent spectacular trip to the World Economic Conference.

Hull and his wife, who is said to be equally incensed over the situation, were invited to spend this week-end with the President at Hyde Park after they leave the boat. Information here has been that Hull intended to have a showdown with the President.

Cummings Saves Day.

But in the meantime, Attorney General Cummings saved the situation by coming forward to request that Moley be placed temporarily in charge of an investigation of kidnaping and racketeering. It is a pressing problem which President Roosevelt wishes very much to do something about.

This was just what Mr. Roosevelt needed to save him from the painful possibility of having to decide between two men whom he trusts and respects.

Mr. Roosevelt has not always been so sparing. Recently Secretary of Interior Ickes and Budget Director Douglas clashed over the public works program for which Congress appropriated $3,300,000,000.

Douglas Loses Out.

When business showed improvement, Douglas took the position that recovery was on the way and that it would not be necessary to spend such a huge sum. Ickes felt otherwise. The issue went to Mr. Roosevelt. After it was argued out, Mr. Roosevelt announced that the entire sum would be spent. He made Ickes administrator in charge of the job and now calls him "Harold."

This is one of the few instances of its kind in Mr. Roosevelt's record. His story is largely one of prolonged loyalty to those around him. His three musketeers at the White House, Secretaries Howe, MacIntyre and Early, have been associated with him at intervals for years. He was pressed after Moley's London trip to throw his brain trust ace to the wolves and he declined. When Woodin's name appeared on the Morgan inside stock list, a cry arose for the genial Cabinet member's toupee. Mr. Roosevelt ignored it.

Ames, Baltimore; Holmes Bakes, Tecumseh, Md; J. A. Taylor, Wilmington, N. C.; Homer L. Ferguson, Newport News, Va., and Mason Manghum, Richmond, Va.

Holsinger, McGhayesville; John Hopkins Hall, Richmond; Verbon Kemp, Charlottesville; Lee Long, Dante; E. D. Nininger, Roanoke; Louis Mindheltz, Norfolk; William E. Carson, Riverton, and James F. Under the agreement, no worker will receive less for 40 hours of labor than he formerly received for 55.

The minimum wage of $13, $1 higher than minimum made obligatory in textile code, was accepted.

General Strike Threatens to Cripple Cuba

All Transportation Arteries Except Railroads Already Blocked.

Havana, Aug. 3 (AP).—The menace of an island-wide general strike hung heavy over Cuba this evening.

The walkout ten days ago of employes of two or three small omnibus lines had grown so swiftly that all the nation's transportation arteries except railroads were blocked as far east as Florida, in Camaguey Province.

Striking busmen, taxi drivers and street car men in Havana, yesterday and today were joined by their fellows in Pinar Del Rio to the west, Matanzas, Santa Clara, Ciego de Avila and many smaller cities to the east.

It appeared probable the United Railways' trainmen, under strong pressure from strikers, would go out tonight or tomorrow. Camaguey dispatches indicate employes of the Consolidated Railways, with headquarters there, would follow suit quickly. That would mean stoppage of all rail traffic in Cuba.

To support the striking transportation men, almost all Havana's filling stations and garages today stopped selling gasoline.

Balloting this morning, the Stevedores and Dockworkers Union voted to strike this midnight. Unionized cafe employes and grocery store clerks were discussing striking, and definite decision was expected tonight or tomorrow.

The motive for the swift-spreading wave of strikes was difficult to discern, although Cuban labor's discontent caused by the fall of the wage level was apparently the underlying reason.

Police reserves were held in quarters in Havana and other nearby towns throughout the day, and the general staff ordered army forces held in readiness at Camp Columbia, Cabana Fortress, Atares Castle and other barracks.

Violations of Code Charged to Stores

Kansas City, Aug. 3 (AP).—Chamber of commerce officials reported today they had received "in swarms" complaints of purported violations of the national recovery plan, either through intent or misunderstanding.

Firms operating under the blue eagle were charged with working their employes longer hours than provided, with paying less than the minimum wages and with placing former full-time employes on part time pay to circumvent the act.

The chamber received one complaint that a large retail store discharged five employes in order to increase the pay of the balance. Another was charged with paying employes $8 and $9 a week and working them 14 hours a day while displaying the blue eagle.

U. S. Hunts Stolen $131,000 in Bonds

Baltimore Search Fails; Securities Vanish on Way to Italy.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Negotiable bonds valued at $131,000 are being sought by postoffice inspectors, it became known today.

The bonds, consigned by registered mail from the National City Bank here to a client in Genoa, Italy, were presumed to have been part of the mail of the liner Leviathan when she sailed last February 8 for Europe.

The loss of the bonds was discovered when the client notified the bank he had not received them. The bonds are an Italian government issue.

Since last March 24 an intensive hunt has been in progress and only Tuesday inspectors returned empty-handed from Baltimore after a tip led them to believe the stolen securities were there.

Million Legion Members Aid Recovery Act

Special "Battle Orders" Rally War Veterans Behind Plan.

By a Staff Correspondent.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A million members of the American Legion were enrolled en masse today on President Roosevelt's drive for national business recovery.

Charactering the NRA offensive as "the Argonne of 1933," National Commander Louis Johnson told the Chief Executive in a personal letter that each of the legion's 10,760 posts throughout the country has received a special "battle order" directing whole-hearted cooperation with local commissions in the blue eagle poster campaign.

"I call upon every legionnaire to pledge his individual service in this great effort to end unemployment, increase purchasing power and banish the forces of depression," Commander Johnson said in his rally orders to the rank and file.

"This battle must be won as decisively as the first battle of the Argonne in 1918. Victory will be swift and certain if every loyal American does his part. No politics whatever is involved. This is no time for slackers or conscientious objectors. This is a fight to bring contentment and plenty back to millions of American homes that otherwise face another winter of hunger and misery."

President Roosevelt resumed a more leisurely schedule at his vacation office today, with only two business callers. One was Ray Stevens, a member of the Federal Trade Commission. He called to discuss administrative terms of the new securities act. He emphasized the possibility of establishing a governmental agency to salvage defaulted foreign securities. Authority for such an emergency is embodied in the securities act.

Mayor John J. O'Brien, of New York City, called on the President. It was explained officially the mayor merely had taken advantage of an opportunity to pay his respects to the President.

The suggestion that Mayor O'Brien had been to Hyde Park for a discussion of recent developments in the New York City mayoralty situation was discounted by the President's intimates here. However, another fusion movement against Tammany control in New York City Hall is again budding in Manhattan.

Movie Industry Code Ordered

Joseph M. Schenck, former president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, was named today to represent that organization. A third representative of the industry, Irving Thalberg, is now in New York.

The motion picture industry was ordered to compose its internal differences.

Barbers Sign up for NRA, Ending Price War That Was Boon to Bearded.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Barbers at Salem were jubilant today over the ending of a prolonged and bitter price-cutting war, which continued for more than two years and at times brought barbering service near the zero mark.

The NRA movement did for the barbers what they were unable to do for themselves and what interested friends tried vainly to effect through arbitration and conciliation.

All the barbers got together last night, signed up for the NRA, and today resumed business on a raised uniform-price schedule, representing an increase of 133 1-3 per cent over prices recently charged at some shops and an increase of 250 per cent over prices prevailing at different stages of the price-cutting war. Top prices, however, are only 35 cents, others 20 cents.

Utility Chiefs Arrive For Code Conferences

Cortelyou, president of the Edison Electric Institute, came to the recovery administration yesterday for conferences looking toward bringing the electrical industry under the immediate voluntary reemployment agreement and also toward framing a permanent code for the industry.

In the party was Bernard Weadock, now vice president of the institute and chief counsel for the utilities in the Federal Trade Commission's long investigation of electric power practices.

Speed on Home Loans Ordered By Roosevelt

Quick Use of 2 Billions for Small Mortgagor Is Assured.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Orders for immediate and quick administration of the $2,000,000,000 for relief of debt-burdened small home owners were given today by President Roosevelt.

In a talk with Vincent Dailey, New York State manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, the President emphasized he wanted to extend at the earliest possible moment this Federal aid to reduce the debts of the home owners.

Dailey assured him he would be ready to offer the 4 per cent Government bonds in exchange for the 6 and 7 per cent interest bearing mortgages early next week.

Dailey's declaration that "we are going to the people rather than waiting for them to come to us," was regarded as reflecting the action which the President wants other State administrators of this fund to take.

Dailey estimated 30 per cent of the total Federal funds, or about $800,000,000, will be employed in New York alone.

Mail-Robbery Suspects Held In California

Police Believe Several Daring Jobs Are Solved by Arrests.

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—With the arrest of four men, two described as former gangsters of New York and Illinois, and a woman, sheriff's deputies expressed belief today they had solved several daring mail robberies in California.

They said two of the prisoners were identified by postal workers in a "show up" as participants in a robbery at the Southern Pacific Station last January 3 when registered mail sacks were plundered of $500 in cash and jewelry and $20,000 in securities.

The two identified, officers said, were James F. Burke, alias Martin Sick, known in New York as "Big Six" and as an aid to the late Jack ("Legs") Diamond, and John T. Casey, alleged paroled Illinois convict.

Another suspect, Joseph Burk, from Illinois, was said to have been identified as one of the several men who attempted, February 23, to hold up Harto Aubolee, air mail truck driver, who was wounded in holding them off in a running shotgun and pistol fight.

Postoffice Inspector E. H. Kline said an effort would be made to connect the five with a mail robbery at Sacramento February 9.

Sherman's Pigs, Paid Back to Southerner, Greet MacArthur in Squealing Chorus

Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, aid to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, displays two suckling pigs left yesterday at his office in the War Department by Lieut. John B. Sherman. The pigs were in payment for property taken by Sherman's great-uncle, Gen. William T. Sherman, from the Davis ancestral home on the "march to the sea." They squealed a welcome to Gen. MacArthur on his arrival at the office yesterday.

Bill of Lading

Headquarters Sixteenth Brigade,
Office of the Brigade Commander,
Washington, D. C.
August 2, 1933.

Subject: Pigs.
To: Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, A. G. D., War Department,
Washington, D. C.

1. In answer to your claim for property stolen by Gen. William T. Sherman during his stroll through Georgia, it gives me great pleasure to be able to reimburse you, in kind, for the property taken.

2. Gen. Sherman was very lenient in the terms of peace offered the Rebel Army and I am sure that it was a matter of oversight that your family was not reimbursed many years ago.

3. I hope that this favorable action on your claim will go far to cement the friendy relations between the North and the South, and at least keep one damned Rebel from claiming that he would have been a millionaire today had it not been for my uncle's march through the South.

4. Will you be so kind as to acknowledge receipt of the two pigs by indorsement hereon.

(Signed.)
JOHN B. SHERMAN,
First Lieutenant, Infantry,
For and in the absence of
WILLIAM T. SHERMAN,
General, U. S. Army.

"Is This Zoo or War Department?" Asks Chief of Staff.

Yankee, Forced to Salute Confederate Flag, Has Revenge at Last.

By Harris B. Hull.

In the Roosevelt inaugural parade two Army officers stood in the line of march, one Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, the other First Lieut. John B. Sherman.

With the approach of the tattered Confederate colors Davis saw an opportunity to settle an old score. Sherman, a Northerner, whose greatuncle was the man who "marched from Atlanta to the sea," had no intention of saluting the Confederate flag. Davis, whose ancestral home had been pillaged by Sherman's marchers, saluted it with the pride of a true South Carolinian.

Capt. Davis commanded Lieut. Sherman to salute the Stars and Bars. The salute was given, but only because Sherman was outranked. The junior officer promised to settle his score.

Yesterday was the reckoning. It was made in pigs. Davis had frequently asked Sherman to replace the property taken by Sherman's marchers from the Davis ancestral home. And among this property were some sucklings.

So Sherman paid. He had two pigs delivered to Davis' office at the War Department. They were left in the corridor opposite Gen. Douglas MacArthur's office, to whom Davis is aid.

Efforts of a number of officers to move them before the chief of staff came to work were futile. In strode MacArthur.

"Is this the zoo or is this the War Department?" he asked.

The pigs were moved, but not before they had been photographed.

"You know, even though Sherman did send me those pigs I liked them," said Davis at the War Department yesterday.

"They were kinda cute. I call one Whisky because he is tall and thin. The other is Soda. They kinda went together, you know.

"I think I would have kept them but the general, well, he didn't go for them; no, not at all."

Legion Auxiliary Elects.

Mrs. Frank M. Sherwood has been elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 139, of Arlington County. Other officers are Miss Jule Andre, first vice president; Mrs. Hadley Baldwin, second vice president; Miss Mignon Lunquest, secretary; Mrs. Lillian Edwards, financial secretary; Mrs. Edward Colbery, treasurer, and Mrs. John Maycock, chaplain.

Full Receipt

August 3, 1933.

Subject: Receipt for pigs.
To: Lieut. John B. Sherman, aid to Gen. Miles, 16th Brigade, Munitions Building, Washington, D. C.

1. I have the honor to accept two pigs, this date tendered to me in your name, in full satisfaction of damages resulting to the chattels and possessions of the Davis clan through the acquisitive tendencies of the Sherman horde during its historic visit to the State of South Carolina.

2. To me it has been a lifelong disappointment that upon your uncle's arrival there my male forbears were unavoidably absent from their homes, engaged in the business of fighting a war. I assure you that nothing less important could have prevented them from being present to extend to the strangers within their gates a type of hospitality and warmth of greeting appropriate to the circumstances. My only consolation for this failure on our part has been the knowledge that the damn Yanks enjoyed to the full the sport of swine-chasing—no doubt because it afforded them the novel experience of running toward rather than from an adversary, even if only a pig.

3. I trust that this acknowledgment of Davis culpability will combine with your belated act of restitution to assauge the pangs of a festering conscience. My hope is that these pigs, in their maturity, will come to appreciate the full significance of this event, and forgive, as I do, the kidnaping of their ancestors almost 70 years ago.

(Signed) T. J. DAVIS,
Capt., Adjutant General's Dept.,
Aid to the Chief of Staff.

Post's Alexandria Reporter On Job Twelve Years Today

Charles M. Shepperson Has Covered City's History in That Time.

A journalist of note once said, "It takes a great reporter to stay on the same beat 10 years." Charles M. Shepperson, Alexandria staff correspondent for The Post, fits the description and goes it two years better.

Twelve years ago today, Shepperson took over the duties of reporting Washington's newsy neighbor—Alexandria. Day in and day out, he has handled its big happenings and its little ones; its happy ones and the ones that brought tears. And he's still at it.

The journalist of note must have meant that it took a reporter with a sense of fairness to all and a faculty of not only making friends, but keeping them. That has been Shepperson's record.

He has had a colorful career—a veteran of the Spanish-American War and the World War. He was born in Woodville, Tenn., attended high school there and later came to Hampden-Sidney College, the school of his father before him.

Shepperson is not the only newspaper-inclined member of his family. Before him, his brother-in-law, James F. Peyton, of Alexandria, was correspondent for The Post for more than 25 years. In addition, his wife, Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson, writes The Post's society letter from Alexandria every Sunday. She's done that since 1908.

Druggan, Beer Baron, Loses Prison Luxury

Gets New Cell and Denim; 3 Ousted for Allowing Visits to Girl.

Leavenworth, Kans., Aug. 3 (AP).—Terrence Druggan, Chicago beer baron, was locked in the Federal prison annex tonight, clothed in denim and stripped of his outside privileges, the granting of which brought suspension of three members of the prison staff.

The Department of Justice announced today that Druggan improperly had been accorded the rank of outside trusty, permitted to drive a prison truck and allowed to visit a girl friend in Leavenworth.

The announcement added that Chaplain James A. Ording, Lester M. Wahler, a guard, and Vernon B. Swearingen, a motor mechanic, "have been summarily suspended after admitting their part in the affair."

The nature of their part was not divulged either at Washington or by Warden R. H. Hudspeth, who declared he was under instructions to issue no statement until J. V. Bennett, who investigated the circumstances, makes his report to Sanford Bates, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Bennett, an assistant director of prisoners, is en route to Washington.

The house where authorities said Druggan was "permitted to visit a girl friend" was leased for six months by Bernice Van de Houton, of Chicago, who left three weeks ago, the owner reported today. There was no official comment on reports that Druggan directed his beer business by long-distance telephone from the house.

Alexandria Rotarians Hear George Jourgens

George Jourgens, cinema photographer of the Department of Agriculture, spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Alexandria Rotary Club yesterday. He told of his experiences in South America. One locality which he visited had not had rain in 30 years, Mr. Jourgens said.

The club approved the purposes of the national industrial recovery act.

Ordination Rites Sunday at Bowie

The Rev. Richard Beasley to Be Consecrated by Bishop Jett.

An ordination service will be held Sunday at 11 a. m. at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, at Bowie, Md., when the Rev. Richard R. Beasley will be ordained to the priesthood.

The Right Rev. Robert Carter Jett, D. D., Bishop of southwest Virginia, will be the ordinant. He will be assisted by the Rev. Fred A. Cook, rector of Holy Trinity; by the Rev. Taylor Willis, who will preach the sermon and read the Epistle, and the Rev. A. C. Zabriskie, who will make the presentation.

Mr. Beasley is, figuratively speaking, coming back home to be ordained, as his grandparents and great-grandparents are buried in Holy Trinity Cemetery and Dr. Harvey Stanley, a relative of his mother, was rector of the church for 33 years.

Patuxent Plans Road Motorcade

The Patuxent Improvement Association of Patuxent, Md., devoted last night's meeting to planning a march on Annapolis next Tuesday. This delegation, similar in purpose to the one which went to Upper Marlboro August 1 from Prince Georges County, will ask that the Lanham-Severn road be consrtucted this year from a point between Severn and Odenton, through Odenton to Patuxent.

T. P. Littlepage, head of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, who was spokesman for the Prince Georges delegation, also will lay the plea before the Anne Arundel County Commissioners.

Two miles of this road were built last year from Severn part way to Odenton. The stretch sought this year would be approximately 4 miles long. If it is built and the other end is finished to Bowie this year, there will remain only 4 miles to be constructed.

William J. Cleveland Heads Fairfax Chamber

William J. Cleveland, of Seminary Va., last night was elected president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce at a special directors' meeting at Fairfax, Va. Cleveland succeeds John W. Brookfield, of Springfield, who has headed the trade body for two years.

Other officers named are Joseph W. Berry, of Vienna, and Earl W. Saum, of Burgundy, vice presidents, and A. La Grande Stafford, of Fairfax, reelected secretary. Mrs. Mary Cullen, of Vienna, was named director.

Earth Bank Falls on Crew of State Road Force in Fairfax County.

One man was instantly killed and another died last night in the Alexandria Hospital from injuries suffered yesterday afternoon when a gravel bank toppled over on a crew of State road men near Baileys Cross Roads, in Fairfax County, Va.

Eugene Kilby, 53, of Gum Springs, Va., was instantly killed, and Lester Rogers, 28, of 139 North Payne street, Alexandria, died last night from internal injuries and a broken left leg. Henry Wood, Leslie Clark and Ashton Abel managed to jump clear of the slide, which was estimated to contain more than 30 tons of rock, gravel and clay.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley

THERE will be a Federal Diary-Federal employe tennis tournament. You are invited to enter. The event will be open to men and women. The date will be announced soon.

The tournament will surpass the highest expectations if results are to be judged by attendance at Bill Shreve's Tennis Shop Wednesday evening. Those who attended are L. I. Doyle, I. C. C. (considered in these parts as the father of tennis); W. E. Buell, manager, champion Treasury Department Tennis Team; Winfree Johnson, Public Playgrounds and Parks; Clifton Yeomans (*), Navy Department Tennis Team; Frank Shore, manager, Bureau of Investigation Team; Messrs. Judd and Hubbard, Standards; John Ladd, Coast and Geodetic Survey; Messrs. Grant and Krause, G. A. O.; Messrs. Goldsmith, Gardes and Tomelden, Patent Office; Messrs. Kelsey and Erana, Veterans' Administration; Bill Seidell, Alan Staubly, District Building; Messrs. Lloyd and Trigg, Postoffice; Smith P. Kerr, Justice, and Mr. Hoffecker, Agriculture.

Federal employes should contact any one of the above when entry time is announced. Your views on the tournament are invited by the Federal Diary.

Mr. Tomelden has appointed this committee to perfect details:

L. I. Doyle, Bill Shreve and Frank Shore.

Capt. Frank W. Hoover, chairman, Recreation Board and leader in interdepartmental tennis, received the committee yesterday afternoon and showed a wonderful spirit of helpfulness. Courts will be assigned for play by Mr. Hoover. The Federal Diary hereby thanks Mr. Hoover for his genuine interest in the newest diversion feature presented to Federal employes.

Why is it that a number of 30-year employes in Treasury who want to retire are being denied the right? Explanation is made that their positions would become extinct and that the workers are essential to those particular jobs.

One hundred or more names have been added to the Treasury rolls in the last 30 days.

Resolutions calling for strict maintenance of the merit system in Federal service, and extension of that system on a broad scale, will be presented to the twelfth N. F. F. E. convention, Kansas City, Mo., September 4.

According to a statement issued today by Luther C. Steward, president, a long list of resolutions covering this fundamentally important subject have been received at national headquarters and will be submitted to convention delegates for action.

Ups and downs are a part of every life, but to elevator conductors life is just one "down" after every "up." Speaking about this class of assistants, there are six operators in the South Building, Agriculture, who come to mind at the moment—Carrie Hall, Laura Thornley, Zada Dietz, Arleta Roberts, H. E. Hinton and Mamie Jackson.

These individuals are uniformly courteous and obliging in their daily tasks. They put up with much in the way of the thoughtlessness of passengers but always understandingly. In the last analysis, they are "up" and "down" right capable employees.

*There's a word for you! Why not look it up?

PINKIE.

"Please!"

Once in the fearful summer heat
As I walked along a sun-fired street,
Foolishly carrying a load of things,
Tired and tried to murmurings,

I saw a bit of shaded green
With grass as tempting as ever seen—
An unfenced haven from the shine,
But on it was placed a one-word sign.

The sign said "Please!" And I didn't feel sore,
But I thought how vain would be one word more!
The spot was untrodden by the feet that pass,

PINKIE is a cat, a home-loving cat, a cat well up in years, 15 years to get down to facts and figures. Pinkie has been a familiar cat in his neighborhood. Most of the time he stayed at the store. Once in a while he strolled down to the corner on social calls.

Pinkie's owner, Mrs. J. C. Haley, formerly in manufacturers division, Census Bureau, is distressed over Pinkie's absence. You would be distressed, too, if your pet had been missing since March 17. Stories have filtered in that a cat here and there resembling Pinkie has been seen. Some one saw a cat on Conduit road very similar to Pinkie. But Pinkie still is missing.

Pinkie is just cat, although Persian predominates. He is so named because of the creamy pink tint of his fur. Pinkie, for years, has had his basket in which to sleep. Age has deprived him of his teeth. His food has been prepared for him, with salmon as a Saturday evening meal. Pinkie knew all the customers at the drugstore of J. C. Haley, 1029 Vermont avenue northwest. Visitors could not resist stroking Pinkie. His fur is so beautiful. For 14 years he has been an institution at the store. His friends have been legion.

Pinkie is hardly a cat to stray away. Cats always find their way back home. The window on the L street side of the store is still open for Pinkie. Yet we hesitate to say Pinkie has been stolen.

Mrs. Haley suffered a rib injury recently pursuing her search for Pinkie as she alighted from an auto on her daily hunts. Incidentally, Mrs. Haley once was president of the Washington Cat Club. She is well acquainted among cat fanciers.

"I just feel that through the medium of The Federal Diary Pinkie will be located safe and will return home," were the words of Mrs. Haley as she left us to aid in the hunt. We are a bit late in joining in the search, but hope is a sustaining factor. We hope.

Lights and Shadows at Noontime

Three engineers in agriculture sat down for a pipeful of tobacco after lunch. This picture was snapped by Miss Katherine Rowland from a window in Building F. The Federal Diary values this informal photographic study because of its complete naturalness. William A. Noel, Harry E. Roethe and Jesse O. Reed, the engineers, are shown in the shade, while the bright parts show the intense noonday sunshine.

Reflections on a Hot, Hot Day.

Three engineers sat them under a tree,
Willie and Harry and Jesse—these three.
They talked of the lunches they got for a quarter;
One talked of his son and one of his daughter.
All three of them told what they thought of the team
And of where they would sit at the world series game;
They discoursed on heat and on chickens and tea;
Willie and Harry and Jesse—these three.

DAN O'FLAHERTY, chairman, Division of Highway Transport, Agriculture, picnic Playground, No. 18, Rock Creek Park, tells us of plans for a large time tomorrow. Thomas H. MacDonald, Public Roads director, and E. W. James, chief Highway Transport, are to be honor guests. Lunch will be at 2 p. m. and sports specialties will follow soon after. There'll be lots of lemonade and ice cream, supplied by the committee.

Officials for the great "Vertigo Sweepstakes" will be Messrs. James, Abbot, Shelton, Montgomery and Wyatt. Prizes and all.

"Hop to it" will be the slogan for the three-legged races.

Mr. President:

46,396 employees of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and associated companies know that "Work-Sharing" is not an experiment but a proved success

Hence, we unhesitatingly subscribe to the N. I. R. A. Code

The 46,396 employees of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and associated companies are 100% behind the National Recovery Administration because all of us have experienced the beneficial results of a company labor policy which was based upon the principle of "work-sharing."

Three years ago our company inaugurated a new labor policy including the maximum hour week, minimum wage scales, and collective bargaining as basic features. This policy is substantially along the lines now recommended by General Johnson.

This program went into effect progressively and after careful study. By July 1st, 1932 everybody in our organization was working under this plan. Our force was kept at its maximum. Thousands remained at work who otherwise must have been let out, and large numbers were employed from outside the organization who at the time were out of jobs.

We work 5 days a week*—40 hours per week, or less.

We work at the same wage rates that we received in 1929.* And the company's wage policy provides that we receive at least the prevailing rate of pay for similar work in the community.

For many years we have settled all our questions of mutual interest through collective bargaining.

All of us, employees and management, have of course adjusted ourselves to present conditions, as the whole country must. But we are sure from our own experience that your way, Mr. President—the "work-sharing" way—is the right way.

With us it is not an experiment but a proved success. We know it will be equally successful in its nation-wide application.

Strikes and the NRA.

It had been hoped that no serious labor troubles would develop under the national recovery program, at least not until industry had been brought under code regulations. But the situation in the Pennsylvania coal fields brought a sharp challenge to Gen. Johnson, and he decided to meet it squarely.

The Government has undertaken the role of coordinating the interests of industry and labor. Extensive use of the strike would defeat its efforts. Gen. Johnson says that a strike in the midst of the recovery program is "like turning on a fire siren in the midst of a symphony recital."

Arrangements for handling labor troubles in the cotton textile industry have been worked out, and the National Recovery Administration announces that this plan "may well become the model for provisions in other industries where similar labor complications are likely to arise." Labor disputes in the textile industry may be referred to an industrial relations board composed of representatives of the employers, the employees and the Government. This group will act as final arbiter in all controversies over working conditions.

Individual factories are expected to organize committees representing both the management and labor to settle all local disputes over working conditions. If agreement is not reached by this body, the case may be referred to State industrial relation boards which will be organized along the same line as the national board. Only those problems that can not be adjusted by the local and State agencies will be referred to Washington for final arbitration.

The Government is handicapped in dealing with disputes of this kind until codes have become effective, yet the President has power to formulate a code for any industry and to make it effective without the consent of either employers or employees. Free use of this power is not to be expected, but the fact that the administration has such authority may be an important factor in bringing about round-table agreements.

If the Government plays the role of coordinator among economic groups, it is imperative that it also act as peacemaker.

A National Forest Plan.

In response to a Senate resolution offered by Senator Copeland the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture has prepared an exhaustive report which presents a resume of the forestry problems of the United States and proposes a national plan for solving them. The report is the work of many Forest Service employees under the direction of Forester R. Y. Stuart.

The fundamental obstacle in the way of a single plan for making the most of America's forest riches lies in the fact that four-fifths of the timber land is privately owned. The balancing of the timber budget of production and consumption will be extremely difficult unless concerted action can be brought about. The report recommends a large increase in public ownership of forest lands and the intensification of management of public forest lands. Ninety per cent of the devastated forest area is privately owned, and 95 per cent of the devastation now going on is on private lands. Excessive cutting and losses from fires have so greatly reduced the productivity of these lands that in some cases they can no longer pay taxes. Inasmuch as millions of acres will revert to State ownership in any event because of tax delinquency, it is recommended that the Federal Government take over a large share of the lands, leaving to the States such portion as they can carry.

Questions affecting watershed protection, development of recreation areas, protection of wild life, prevention of fire, and measures against soil erosion are public matters, all entering into the national forestry problem. The great objective, of course, is to insure a national timber supply while safeguarding the public interest in regard to watersheds, proper use of forests as parks, and protection of agricultural lands against erosion. The Forest Service report proposes that this objective be attained by adopting a twenty-year plan in which Federal, State and private agencies would co-operate, under public regulation. Under this plan the ultimate holdings of public forest land, aggregating 393,000,000 acres, would be divided between the Federal Government and the States in the ratio of about 3 to 1. The report sets forth a tentative scheme for financing the plan. The cost of acquiring 7,000,000 acres annually of cut-over lands in the East and about 9,000,000,000 board feet of western stumpage would be about $30,000,000 a year. Expenditures for all forest activities in the United States in 1932 amounted to about $43,475,000, of which $24,375,000 was expended by the Forest Service. The total estimated public expenditures under the proposed twenty-year plan would be $463,100,000. No estimate is given of the cost of the private program.

It is estimated that the annual returns from properly managed forests under the proposed plan would be $490,000,000 from private lands, $64,000,000 from State lands, and $160,000,000 from Federal lands. All the forest lands, according to the report, would represent a capital value of $10,000,000,000.

In transmitting this report to the Senate, the Secretary of Agriculture remarks that the forest problem is "one of the largest which the American people have ever faced, and one of the most urgent now demanding attention." He adds:

> A satisfactory solution of the forest problem will require the nearest possible approach to national planning. The laissez-faire and avowedly planless policy of private ownership is failing to meet the situation. The long-time character of forestry itself, the magnitude and cost of the undertaking, and the impossibility of doing immediately everything which must be done emphasize the desirability of national planning.

Scientific forestry management in the public interest has reached an advanced stage in several foreign countries. Nearly all European countries regulate the handling of privately owned forests, classifying and preserving forests necessary for watershed protection, or for protection of the public health, or for national defense. In many countries forest owners are required to keep their lands in productive condition, and replanting programs are carried out under public supervision.

When it is borne in mind that the 670,000,000 acres of forest and abandoned farm land available for forestry is more than one-third of the total land area of the United States, the magnitude of the related problems of utilization, reproduction, protection of watersheds, provision for recreation, insect control, prevention of erosion, &c., may be faintly appreciated. The area that must be dealt with in any comprehensive national plan exceeds by 120,000,000 acres the entire area east of the Mississippi. It is 50 per cent larger than the area now devoted to farm crops, and exceeds the combined areas of France, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Spain and Italy.

Utilizing the Merit System.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board apparently has decided to choose its personnel with little regard for civil service requirements. More than 8,000 jobs are said to be at the disposal of the home loan agency. High qualifications will be essential in many, if not all, of these positions. These employees will be charged with the responsibility of handling large sums of money which the Government proposes to lend to home owners. Few establishments in the Government service will require a more trained and competent personnel than the home loan banking system. Yet these places are apparently to be filled by patronage methods.

A statement by the chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board says that civil service status will have some weight in the selection of employees, but will not be the determining factor. Previous statements indicated that it will be necessary for applicants to have the indorsement of senators or representatives from their States. This is the procedure through which all patronage appointments go.

The administration is making an effort to replace competent civil service employees who have lost their jobs through the economy program. Some of the new agencies set up by the last Congress are cooperating in this movement in spite of the fact that the law does not require them to choose their personnel from civil service lists. Their efforts are appreciated by Government workers and also by the public, which knows the value of the merit system. It is unfortunate that some agencies are not disposed to follow this example.

Pigs Is Pigs.

Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the Army, was the astonished recipient yesterday of two fat pigs, forwarded by Lieut. John B. Sherman, U. S. A., grand-nephew of Gen. William T. Sherman. In his letter of transmittal Lieut. Sherman stated that the pigs were reimbursement in kind for two pigs alleged to have been taken from the Davis estate by Gen. Sherman during his march through Georgia. Lieut. Sherman adds the hope "that this favorable action on your claim will go far to cement the friendly relations between the North and the South."

At first glance this generous action on the part of a relative of Gen. Sherman would seem to square an old and respectable account, but Capt. Davis throws a disturbing factor into the situation by intimating that he will file an additional claim for the natural increase of the pigs from the time they were taken on that famous foray. And why not? Lieut. Sherman virtually assumes responsibility for liquidating this claim in full, and since it is not a self-liquidating proposition somebody must deal with it.

Law and custom establish the right to collect interest as well as principal, and also to collect pecuniary indemnity for loss of services or reasonable natural increment of flocks and herds. Reckoning ordinary diligence on the part of the Georgia family in looking after the original pigs and their descendants, and making all allowance for wear and tear, it may be estimated that Lieut. Sherman is indebted to Capt. Davis for several million or billion pigs, according to the degree of restraint exercised by the calculator in applying his geometric formulae.

It may be that Lieut. Sherman's voluntary tender may have a mollifying effect upon the inheritor of the Davis patrimony, persuading him to let bygones be bygones for the sake of national unity and harmony. Nevertheless, there is the claim, and there is the immovable rule of geometric progression. The amicable adjustment of this matter seems to depend wholly upon the forgiving disposition of Capt. Davis.

Moving Against Kidnapers.

While the newspapers have been carrying reports of kidnapings in various parts of the country, and public resentment against the perpetration of these crimes has been growing rapidly, the whole subject has been crystallized and brought to the front in a national sense by the President's action in directing a study of methods by which the Federal Government may help to stamp out this most vicious of crimes. An aroused public opinion will support the administration in bringing about co-operation between Federal and State authorities in dealing with this crime.

The death penalty assessed by a jury in Missouri is an expression of the social abhorrence of kidnaping. The public is discussing the pros and cons of suitable penalties and the possibility of devising more effective measures of detection. How far the Federal Government can go in co-operating with State authorities is a problem that is now under study by experts under President Roosevelt's direction. It is generally believed that the activities of the Government can be extended without encroaching upon the rights and duties of the States in the premises.

London's police commissioner forbids the marriage of bobbies during their first four years of service. After that experience they may be expected to hold their own in private scraps.

The new soda fountain and pharmacy in the Senate office building will be convenient for statesmen desiring hammers, buzzsaws, paving blocks, ropes, tongs, handcuffs, hatchets, and other drug store accessories.

The mayor of Peiping has made it a penal offense for women to wear men's clothes, but western civilization seems to be making headway.

Since the Public Works Administration has made it popular, the committee on business conduct decided to apply a little flood control to the stock market.

That New York man who tried to kidnap himself must have been a Wall Street bear.

The Dieting Fad.

By Israel Bram, M. D., in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

I wonder how many individuals can see a relationship between the depression and the current mania in some quarters to reduce in weight. This is of vital concern to every man, woman and child. The matter concerns itself first, with the commodity market as it is involved by a reduction in wheat consumption with surplus accumulation and disastrous lowering of prices, and second, the most important cause of this harmful wheat accumulation—the unfortunate dieting fad that has come upon a large percentage of the population during the last few years.

As a physician, I can not discuss expertly the implications resulting from commodity and stock fluctuations accompanying a surplus of wheat. We can recall that only a few months ago farmers were feeding wheat to their live stock to avoid selling it at a loss. Also, we are still in the presence of farm foreclosures that are traceable to this situation. Were it not for this distress in the wheat market, general price levels would not have reached near the lows of only a few months ago, and times would not have been quite so disheartening. But, to repeat, I am rather interested in the chief cause of wheat surplus and its price depression. And this is the fact that during recent years the public at large has not been consuming the proper quantity of bread. This, in turn, is due directly to the weight-reducing fad—the dangerous assumption that becoming and remaining thin is modish and healthful.

Many thousands of individuals are invalided, with marked reduction in physical and mental efficiency, because of unwarranted and ill-advised efforts at reduction in weight. And since it is true that the first requisite in weight reduction is the reduction or elimination of bread from the dietary, we have the composite picture of reduced wheat consumption and its consequences, and markedly impaired health in those undergoing willful starvation.

Out of every three persons requiring alteration in weight, up or down, at least two require an increase. Those who have been advised by expert medical authorities to reduce should adhere strictly to orders. Unfortunately, those who are below weight, but who pride themselves, as living skeletons, upon the maintenance of a "boyish figure," do not commonly apply for proper medical attention, but manipulate their weight in accordance with their erroneous complexes and with suggestions of a sort of literature which, from a medical viewpoint, should be suppressed as destructive to health.

Many a formerly robust, health-inspiring adolescent has become sallow and hollow-cheeked, with loss of youthful vitality and attraction, bordering on or actually suffering from such serious illness as incipient tuberculosis, the result of a stubborn determination to become and stay thin—and thinner, for there appears to be no limit in these cases to the downward trend in weight. Also, I have seen many a case of ductless gland disease, especially toxic goiter, traceable to willful starvation through the elimination of bread from the dietary.

A healthy layer of fatty tissue about the human frame is the best bromide against edgy nerves and a safeguard against poor vitality and a complaining disposition. The average person is better off weighing ten pounds too much than ten pounds too little; the former is twice as efficient and as healthy and as health-inspiring as the latter.

"Plead for white collar women." If white collar men didn't have to wear any higher collars than the women they would plead for nothing more these days.

"Hard liquor stocks so short that 2,000,000 gallons of Irish whisky may be imported." Somebody is always taking the O-Be-Joyful out of life.

Official NRA propagandists will not complain that the spontaneous chorus of complying employers is blanketing their solos.

PAUL HUDSON.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Because He Stayed Humble.

Because he loved the poor of purse
And gave his hand to them,
The rich and proud who scorned the crowd
Were prompted to condemn.
Because he often stopped to speak
With people poorly clad
And sought to ease their miseries,
The wise men thought him mad.

Because by purple robes and gold
He was not much impressed,
But daily taught this simple thought
That brotherhood is best,
The men who fancied wisdom lies
Alone in ancient lores,
With faces grim looked down on him
And drove him from their doors.

Because he knew and understood
The heartaches of the throng
And with them walked and freely talked
Great statesmen thought him wrong
Because he said the joys of life
And all that makes it good,
And peace at night were a common right,
He died, misunderstood.

Because he chose to play the friend
To those whose need was great
And liked to share a poor man's care
He won a monarch's hate.
And still men worship pomp and power
And thrust the meek aside,
Nor ever guess what friendliness
Is lost through petty pride.

Radio Waves That Fill the Air Are Worthless Until You Learn to Tune In

By Robert Quillen.

OTHER things being equal, the man who does the best work and eventually obtains the best reward is the one who works in harmony with the boss. The man of superior skill profits little by his advantage if he is sullen and rebellious.

That is a matter of common knowledge, requiring no proof.

Observe the present arrangement in America. Mr. Roosevelt has powers never before given to a President, but he needs the cooperation of industry to make his recovery program effective.

Isn't it safe to assume that he will do all he can to benefit industries that work in harmony with him and make little effort to help the ones that refuse to cooperate?

Now suppose a case.

Suppose that some man, greater and wiser than any the earth has yet produced, should conquer all nations and become the world's dictator.

He would have power to lift up the weak or destroy the strong. His innumerable agents would report the loyalty or the rebellion of the humblest citizen.

Would it not be to your advantage to work in harmony with a power so absolute?

Then why hesitate to cooperate with a power infinitely greater?

The omnipotent and omnipresent power of God is revealed in the sprouting of a grass seed and the orderly procession of the stars.

The power that rules the universe maintains order by means of certain "natural" laws.

You have learned, by sad experience, that the violation of these laws results in inevitable punishment.

So long as you adjust yourself to these physical laws and thus live in harmony with the power that controls the universe, your physical welfare is assured. But when you violate the laws, the penalty is swift and certain.

If that is true, isn't it reasonable to suppose that you can profit by working in harmony with the laws that are not physical?

At best we grope in the dark, but this much seems certain. We are more than flesh and blood; there are forces about us that we can not see; and if we profit by working in harmony with physical laws, we must gain new powers when we submit ourselves in spirit to the will and the plans of the Master.

The winds provide the power you need, but you must raise the sail.

Political Comment

More Employment the Test.
Kansas City Star.

While in many respects there has been a heartening response to the call for support of the blanket code, with its minimum wage and working hour provisions, the real test of the program will be the volume of new employment it creates. That is the one outstanding purpose of this proposal. Its value will be determined by the results that are secured in actually putting more men to work. The minimum wage and hour provisions will affect only certain industries and classes of employees. In many instances wages are already up to or above the stipulated minimum, a condition that also applies in a measure to the hours of work.

Compliance with these provisions, therefore, would not tend to build up materially the purchasing power of the country. That must come largely through the employment of millions now idle.

Politics Adjourned.
Houston Post.

To quote Woodrow Wilson, "politics is adjourned." Not sine die, but, apparently, until the President demonstrates whether or not he can pull the country out of the depression. Not even during the period when the United States was in the World War was there less playing of partisan politics than there is now. Scarcely anybody is thinking in terms of party politics now. On the contrary, the thoughts of Democrats and Republicans alike are monopolized with the problem of economic recovery. Republicans are quite as eager for the country to return to prosperity as are the Democrats.

The Oil Problem Slips and Slides.
Minneapolis Journal.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson now says his hardest problem as National Industrial Relief Administrator is oil. Steel, cotton textiles and other big ones were bad enough. But he could hold on to them. Oil slips and slides, and its code is most difficult of all to bring to agreement. The American Petroleum Institute has ideas, but the independent producers and many large individual companies as well as the Government have theirs and are not easily brought to unanimity.

Filipinos and Freedom.
Los Angeles Times.

Judging by recent reactions of Filipino politicians to the Hawes bill granting independence to the islands and the discussions of it in the recent session of the island Legislature, freedom seems to be something that one wants only when it is unattainable. They are now worried for fear that Congress, if the Hawes bill is rejected, may pass a bill granting immediate and complete independence, with no transition period.

Such developments were foreseen on the mainland. It may be granted that the motives of many Americans who favor independence are at least mixed, and that the irksomeness of a tutelage which has now lasted more than a generation and is becoming increasingly annoying to the tutor, is chief among them.

A Code for White-Collar Workers.
Detroit News.

The New York Society of Accountants has drawn up a "standard section" which it recommends for incorporation in the various industrial codes. It defines the white-collar workers, from boy to manager, and it specifies their minimum pay, according to their duties.

The suggestion is a useful one, but there is one serious fault with it. The minimum pay schedules specify one rate for cities of over a million population, another for cities between 250,000 and a million, another for the rest of the country. This is drawing too fine a line. Why should Detroit pay a higher rate to the white-collar worker than Cleveland, or Los Angeles than San Francisco? Why should Akron pay an office manager $88 a week, and Dayton, with only 50,000 fewer people, $80? It occurs to us that the Industrial Recovery Administration could draft a more equitable scale than this, not so much on the basis of population as of cost of living in the various cities.

Perhaps one reason money hasn't been going back to the banks faster is because almost everybody thinks it's a wise precaution to have at least $10,000 readily accessible for the ransom.

JUST WAIT.

A Kentucky farmer went to the top of Cumberland Gap the other day and shouted so loudly that he was heard in three States. He claims this is a world record. Wait until some of those other farmers start shouting. The Kentucky man's feat will sound like a whisper in a boiler factory.

It seems that in barring Marc Connelly Soviet Russia was confusing him with another Connelly, a chemical man. Chemical, not comical, you understand.

Speaking of codes, how about making the rotogravure section cameramen sign a pledge to sell fewer pictures of the following subjects:

Letters to the Editor.

Boy Who Stole Locomotive Escapes With Light Penalty for Dangerous Indulgence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The 17-year-old boy in Milford, Conn., who stole a locomotive and started for Chicago to see the Century of Progress exposition did not get very far, but he did realize an ambition possessed by many youths. He sat at the throttle of the locomotive for a distance of about 2 miles before he and his engine piled into a line of box cars. The damage done was estimated at about $10,000. The youth received a $50 fine and a jail sentence of 30 days.

This incident shows that the youngster had more nerve and "go" about him than the average youth of today. He realized his ambition, even though it did get him into trouble to the extent of the fine and jail sentence.

The entire proceeding was a good lesson for him; not terribly expensive, as he might have done considerable more damage, such as taking a human life, or he even might have killed himself. I wonder just how high the lad will climb in the business world in the next twenty years.

A. W. K.

Big Demand for Overalls Taken as Proof of Increased Employment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are all kinds of barometers for business conditions in general. Some regard steel as the barometer. Former Vice President Dawes says the consumption of electric current acts as a barometer for business. Now the manager of a large overalls factory in the South asserts that the sales of these articles act as an industrial barometer. It stands to reason that his assumption is true, for overalls are sold to the man who wants to go out and do some type of hard work.

The Southern overall manufacturer reports that his plant has been taxed to capacity lately. He has found it necessary to employ additional labor to meet the demands for orders. Therefore, it is fair to assume that many men who were unemployed are now going back to work.

Indian Forests' New Director 32 Years Old

Robert Marshall Named to Rule 9,000,000 Acres in 13 States.

Robert Marshall, 2145 C street northwest, was appointed Director of Forestry in the Indian Service, yesterday, by Secretary of the Interior Ickes. J. P. Kinney, former director, was made general production supervisor under the emergency conservation act.

Although only 32 years old, Mr. Marshall will direct the administration and conservation of 9,000,000 acres of forest land on 50 Indian reservations in 13 States.

Mr. Marshall has been actively engaged in forestry work for the last nine years, but has found time to earn a Ph. D. degree at Johns Hopkins University, M. F. degree from the Forestry School of Harvard, and a graduate degree from Syracuse University Forestry School.

Among his writings is "Arctic Village," an account of the mixed white and Eskimo civilization in northern Alaska.

Secretary Ickes and John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, said that Mr. Marshall's appointment would add strength to a new policy of giving the Indians more freedom and permitting them to play a more active role in the management of their own timber operations.

"Naughty Mans" Scares Bird; Uses Worm as Bait

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 3 (AP).—Tacoma has a new candidate for the "meanest man" in Harvey J. Doten, clerk to the county commissioners and a fishing enthusiast.

During the fishing season he sprinkles his garden and lawn, he said, and waits until Mr. Robin Redbreast alights to pluck a juicy wormy tidbit. Then with a yell he frightens the breakfaster away, darts to the spot and deposits the earthworm in a bait box. He always has a good supply for the Sunday fishing trip.

22,000 Mill Workers Get 10 Pct. Pay Boost

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Ten per cent wage increases for 22,000 worsted workers, effective Monday, were announced here today by the American Woolen Co., the Pacific Mills and the Arlington Mills.

Havana Reporters to Strike.

Havana, Aug. 3 (AP).—The Havana Reporters Association voted last night for a 24-hour strike in protest against the press law pending before the House. The date for the strike was not set. Relief Funds Drive Headed By First Lady Accepts Post to Direct Nation-wide Work of Women.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has accepted the chairmanship of the women's committee of the Mobilization for Human Needs, which directs the annual relief drive of 34 national welfare organizations.

The appointment was announced today by Newton D. Baker, chairman of the citizens committee.

"I have accepted the chairmanship because of my conviction that the support of our community welfare services throughout the country is an essential factor in the recovery and maintenance of our normal American life," said Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mr. Baker, announcing that plans are being made for the strongest women's committee ever organized, said:

Commodity Exchange To Close Next Saturday

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The board of managers of Commodity Exchange, Inc., announced today that the exchange will be closed next Saturday. Suspension of trading on the following four Saturdays will be considered at a meeting next Wednesday. The exchange houses the markets for rubber, silver, metals and hides.

Operating under the usual summer schedules the cocoa, sugar and coffee suspend Saturday trading until early in September. Adoption of this plan by Commodity Exchange, Inc., would leave the New York Cotton Exchange as the only important commodity market functioning on Saturdays during the summer.

Constables Can't Marry For 4 Years in England

London, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lord Trenchard, commissioner of metropolitan police, issued an order today forbidding constables to marry in the first four years of their service.

Illinois Suits Charge Fraud Of $2,000,000

Former State Treasurers Accused as Election Promise Is Met.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Court action to claim about $2,000,000 from two former State treasurers of Illinois—alleging fraud in previous settlement and in dismissal of suits against them—started today.

The former treasurers are Lennington Small, of Kankakee, also Governor of Illinois for two terms, and Fred E. Sterling, of Rockford, the last lieutenant governor. Both are Republicans. A score of other defendants also is named.

The cases have been a point of contention in turbulant Illinois politics for more than ten years.

Attorney General Otto Kerner promised to reinstate the suits when he was campaigning for election last fall on the Democratic ticket. At the same time Small was trying for his third term as governor with former Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago as his campaign manager.

The suits charge, in effect, that during their terms as treasurer, Small and Sterling loaned huge sums of State money to Chicago meat packers through a bank which they controlled.

The packers paid 7 per cent interest for the money, the suits charge, but the State of Illinois received only 2 per cent.

Small and Sterling have replied that the State received more income from interest in their terms than ever before.

Mrs. Hutton Shuns Vaudeville Tour

Evangelist Changes Mind After Elders Had Given Consent.

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton today said she would not go on a vaudeville tour.

"We did discuss the matter and my board approved an offer I have from a great chain of theaters," said the evangelist, "but after thinking the matter over, I find I can not conscientiously carry out such a plan."

Mrs. Hutton said a report that she would preach good, old-fashioned sermons free after vaudeville performances must have come from the elders' announcement that they had approved the theater chain offer.

Settle's Stratosphere Ascent Likely Tonight

"Uncle Dan" Beard, Green Bar Bill and even Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, are members of the staff of 32 Scout troops in the District of Columbia! They take part at least once a month in the meetings of these troops—believe it or not!

Unfortunately, these men and dozens of others, story tellers, handicraft experts and writers, can't be present personally, but through their writings and drawings in Boys Life they make real contributions to the programs of these troops, in which the entire membership has subscribed.

The troops in which all scouts read Boys Life, and which use this magazine as a part of the troop program, are Troops 7, 8, 10, 17, 22, 23, 25, 33, 36, 43, 54, 67, 72, 74, 83, 88, 97, 101, 104, 106, 107, 149, 150, 151, 154.

Sixteen Scouts Report Back to 79.

After a week at Camp Roosevelt the majority of the party of sixteen Scouts from Troop 79 have returned to regular troop activities. Four members are still at camp.

During the absence of the scoutmaster, E. L. Maschmeyer, who was at camp, the assistant scoutmaster, J. E. Deitch, took charge of the troop meetings. Several advancements were made and several merit badges gained by the two cabins of scouts.

Preparations for the troop's part in the Juvenile Night program at the Sylvan Theater on August 16 may start tonight.

A song every Washington Scout and Scouter should know:

Washington Boy Scout.

You can go from North Carolina out to California's shore,
And the boys you find in other towns
Are just boys and nothing more.
We don't think we are superior,
But when all the facts come out
There is no boy quite as snappy
As the Washington Boy Scout.

Every Friday.

What is new in your troop? Lots of things, of course, but why keep them secret? Write up the news of your troop and mail it at once to Merit B. Scout, Boy Scout Headquarters, 1103 Vermont avenue. It will then appear in this column every Friday morning.

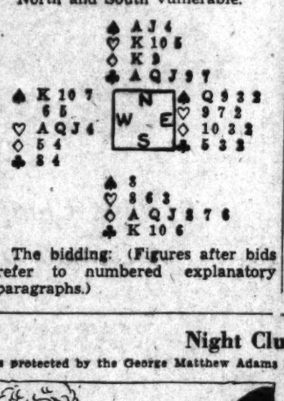
Nuisance Bids.

THERE is a wide diversity of opinion as to the value of Opening bids by players lacking the necessary honor strength to guarantee sound defense. Unquestionably such bids are often effective, as they partake of the nature of surprise tactics and sometimes find adversaries ill prepared to cope with the situation that has been created. At other times these nuisance bids are a distinct aid to opponents in reaching the correct contract because the partnership bidding afterwards discloses the extreme paucity of strength upon which the adverse call was made. Take as an example the hand below, which was played in a recent Duplicate game in New York City:

West, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
1♠(1)	Dbl.(2)	Pass	3◇(3)
Pass	4♣(4)	Pass	5♣(5)
Pass	6♣(6)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—Of course, this hand does not have the honor strength to justify an Opening bid. The bid is made with the purpose of preventing vulnerable opponents from reaching a game. With the cards held by North and South, such a result is practically impossible. As a matter of fact, the bid is a help, and not a hindrance.

2—A sound vulnerable Double. Of course, the hand is not strong enough to justify an Immediate Overcall in opponents' bid suit.

3—A strength response to the Takeout Double. Now a game contract for North and South is absolutely assured.

5—This comes as a matter of course.

6—With partner responding with a strength-showing bid and later assisting clubs, North, with first-round control of the adversely bid suit and the King of the only unbid suit, correctly contracts for the Slam.

Of course, there is absolutely nothing to the play of the hand. North making six against an Opening spade lead.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If the Dealer opens with one heart, holding:

Spades Q 4 3
Hearts A 8 7 3
Diamonds A K Q
Clubs Q J 5

and partner raises to four hearts, what further bid, if any, should be made by the Opening bidder?

"Ho-Hum, one party after another. When does my passport get back from Washington? Has Dad decided on the sailing date?" asks Judy. "Jeanne, you ought to go with us—it isn't too late to plan." Judy's gown of white organdie is all-over embroidered in a tiny black figure.

"See you later, Jeanne, we're doing the town tonight! Do you like my wrap?" It is one of the longer style—yes, full length, of white rustling taffeta. The "up-side-down" ruffles give the desired width about the shoulders while the wide cape flounce adds an old-fashioned charm.

Fine feathers are still with us. Not the coques or plumes but a frothy stiffened kind that resembles fringe. This black dress done entirely of diagonal bias bands fits like a glove, slightly trails the floor and finishes its neckline with a demure little band from which flares the feather collar.

Black and white spells sophistication in one gown of dull crepe with a rather high waistline, draped front neckline and extremely low decolletage. The same color scheme appears in another crepe gown with a black and white polka dot bolero. The fall evening clothes avoid the summertime pleats and frilly ruffles.

Tomorrow—More Swim Togs.

Brown in Monotone and Mixtures Promises to Be High-Fashion Color for Fall

The three-piece tailored suit in monotone Harris tweed will be an essential ensemble in milady's fall wardrobe. The short double-breasted coat with the plain skirt makes a smart outfit by itself, but becomes doubly attractive with the jaunty topcoat in checked brown and light tweed.

The two-piece suit with its unusual coloring of dark brown, shot through with chartreuse is another high-fashion tweed which permits its wearer to be indifferent to sun or storm. The seven-eighths length coat is trimmed with a raccoon shawl collar.

Electric Motor Does the Work In New Freezer

Natives Weave Washable Ties in Bright Fantastic Plaid Patterns.

By Ann Davis.

All day long the natives sit at their looms and weave. Their bodies sway to the rhythm of softly sung Indian songs. Seven yards they weave, and seven yards they dye. Then the pattern is destroyed and they weave more and dye more, seven yards at a time. They weave for the Englishman who lives across the seas. He wants only a few ties from the same pattern. But he pays, so what do they care? They sit at their looms and weave and sing.

A hotel shop sells these unique washable ties, $1.50 for four-in-hands, $1 for bow ties.

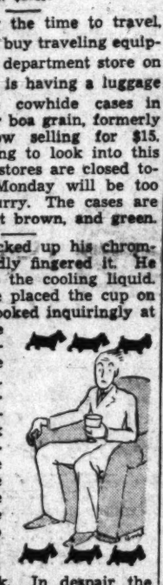
The double-deck mattress is the newest thing in bed equipment. If you have a 250-pound week-end guest arriving tomorrow, hurry upstairs and turn your mattress over. One side of it provides sleeping comfort for lightweights, the other side supports the extra heavy. If you tear the outside covering off and peep inside you'll find 550 oil tempered springs. (Junior, come away from there with those scissors!)

This mattress sold a short time ago for $24.50. Now the price is $19.95. By early fall it will be $29.50, on good authority.

Good old-fashioned, home-churned ice cream! Humph, you say more trouble than it's worth. Not so! A large department store is selling ice cream freezers with electric motors attached. All you have to do is whip up your custard, put it in the container, pack free ice around it, turn on your motor and watch it spin. On a few minutes, there you are, good, old-fashioned, home-churned ice cream, no more trouble than it's worth! $5.45.

It's not only the time to travel, but the time to buy traveling equipment. A large department store on upper F street is having a luggage sale. Genuine cowhide cases in lizard, cobra or boa grain, formerly $22.50, are now selling for $15. Here's something to look into this morning. The stores are closed tomorrow, and Monday will be too late. Better hurry. The cases are in dark or light brown, and green.

The guest picked up his chromium cup and idly fingered it. He raised it to sip the cooling liquid. With a start he placed the cup on the table and looked inquiringly at his hostess. She smiled pleasantly across the room at him. Somewhat reassured, he reached for his drink and looked cautiously into the cup before he sipped. There was a Scottie dog gazing up at him with kindly eyes that seemed to blink. In despair the guest drained his cup and scrutinized the uncovered bottom. He sighed in relief and settled back in his chair. In the bottom of his cup was a picture of a Scottie, and over the picture a convex crystal. This with the clear liquid gave a magnified life-like look to the dog that might astonish the most abstemious guest.



"Something pretty for the guest room, and something practical for mine" is the scheme of many homes. A Washington shop is showing something both pretty and practical for either room you please. In summer it's a counterpane, in winter it's a blanket cover. The cotton crepe material remains fresh and unwrinkled and the appliqued monogram in the center adds just that air of you know what. May be ordered in any color and several sizes.

Your sun porch requires light, casual-looking furnishings. With your wicker set you must be particularly careful about the kinds of ornaments you use. Alabaster ware will be in perfect taste, and suit your pocketbook as well as the room. A department store is showing alabaster book-ends in shape of birds, colored, green, tan and gray, priced from $1 to $3.50. Ash tray sets, $1; individual ash trays, $1.50; powder jars, $1.

"Will you please turn the clock around? How do you expect me to see it?"

"All right, turn it your way. I can see through the back of it!"

A bad way to begin the day, quarreling over the clock. And no need for it. Stop off at an F street store and see the two-sided clock with a face both front and back. Its chromium frame is designed in modernistic style. A wonderful opportunity to tell time in up-to-date manner.

Men in general and maiden aunts in particular are the hardest people in the world to shop for. Keeping the elderly relative problem in mind the shopper searched from shop to shop for an appropriate gift suggestion. She found one. It's a reading glass on a folding stand which tilts to suit the angle of the book or paper. You can buy this, with or without a handle, for $4.50 or $6.50.

Crisp Cottons In Cool Colors Charm Wearer

Light Summery Materials Afford Great Degree of Comfort.

Talking about the perennially dainty, "fresh as a daisy" individual it occurred to me that we women haven't such a hard lot after all. Think of the men sweltering under their jackets, traditional tie and trimmings. They feel like a hot summer's day and look the part.

We women, however, have fashion on our side. And she's not such a hard-hearted lady at that. She gives us crisp cottons and cool colors. Fortified with these we can give the lie to the thermometer when it registers ninety in the shade. There are easily laundered linens, dotted swiss materials, organdies. Light of texture, these. And texture is very important. Woolens, even the featherweight woolens look warm. They are definitely a part of winter and its winds. They don't belong on the summer scene. Out with them, or pack them away in camphor and violet sachet for next fall. Satins, too. They're mighty heavy looking. Heavy crepes ditto.

As for colors. Ah! There's a whole story in them. Stop for a minute and look at that red dress approaching. Makes your temperature go up just to see it; doesn't it? Now look at the purple costume, and, wait here comes an orange and henna combination. There, there, better drink this quickly, you must have been overcome by the heat!

We'll refresh you pronto. There's a cool blue linen frock, and look at that soft icy green organdy. Pastels are all cool looking. Easy on the eyes. Keep the temperature down.

Remember delicate, light weight materials and soft, pastel colors are two summer beauty secrets. Comfortable clothes are important; by that we mean clothes that are not too tight. For these constrict circulation, hamper free movement, make deep breathing impossible. But clothes that are too loose need constant adjustment, and fidgeting is not conducive to composure either on part of "fidgetor" or spectator. During the summer at least it were well to avoid frills, ruffles, furbelows, scarfs, any unnecessary gingerbread details. Simplicity is the keynote of summer smartness.

The right summer costume, topped by a neatly arranged coiffure, a properly powdered face that has had its share of tonic first—and there—you look as cool as a cucumber, as refreshing as a welcome breeze.

Patience.

By Katherine Smith.

The long wan fingers of the moon
Linger on your floating hair
With tenderness that I would give
To you, but do not dare.

They glisten on your lovely cheek;
Leaves softly whisper words of love,
I am afraid to speak.

How long must I in silence wait,
While moon and dews caress you,
Not daring to reach out and touch
Your hair, and gently bless you?

Newest Lisle Sock Patterns Appeal to Well-Dressed Man

By Amos Parrish.

The unadorned male ankle has never been noted for beauty, but there's an increasing ankle-consciousness noticeable lately among better-dressing men. One sign of this is the rapid increase in lisle-covered ankles during the past year. Logically enough—since lisle can be both kind to your feet and pleasing to the eye. For—as everyone knows—lisle socks get along well even with easily irritated feet. And have the further advantage of wearing better than you ever thought fine-woven soft-feeling socks could wear.

Special Weaves Possible.

You'll see them in beautiful, rich colorings that the sock makers have been able to produce only in lisles. That's because lisle socks are often knit with colored threads on the inside of the sock producing distinctive, harmonized, glowing effects on the outside. If you take red, for instance, and put it behind gray, your socks will have a soft, rich "bloom" possible only in lisle colorings.

As with silk hose, the most popular patterns in lisle socks are clocked. They're neat looking. Give interesting contrasts or harmonies with the sock's body color.

Next in line are your favorite vertical stripes, allover designs, spaced figures, checks, plaids.

And just as with colors, lisle can do all sorts of pattern tricks, too. You can choose patterns in lisle that you'd have a hard time duplicating in other fabrics.

The salesman showing you lisles will most likely tell you they're 6x3 ribbed. By this he means that when woven they were ribbed with six strands raised, three strands depressed, six strands raised and so on. He also means the sock that's growing more popular all the time. Especially with men who know how snugly these "accordion" type socks hug your ankles.

Match Socks With Suit.

The newest 6x3's come in two-color effects—one color on the raised rib and a harmonizing shade in the valley part. These two-color lisles come both plain and clocked and a good many of them are in the smart, horizontal stripings so popular in Enland these days.

From all of this you may safely conclude that lisle has done a good deal for your socks. The rest depends upon how well you select your socks to go with your suit.

Mrs. Helm May Be Called As Adviser to First Lady

Washington's Inner Circles Think Social Secretary to Second Mrs. Wilson Will Be Needed During Approaching Busy Season.

By Vylla Poe Wilson.

Those in the "know" in the inner circles of Washington believe that, before the coming season is over, Mrs. Edith Benham Helm, social secretary to the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, will either become unofficial social adviser to Mrs. Roosevelt or join once more the distinguished group of women who have served as social secretaries to the wives of Presidents.

Mrs. Helm has been a friend of Mrs. Roosevelt since that lady was the wife of the enterprising Assistant Secretary of the Navy during and after the World War. She has been at the White House frequently since the coming of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as its chatelaine and there is no one in the National Capital better qualified to assist Mrs. Roosevelt in the exacting social routine which must fall to her lot during a formal Washington season.

"Iron hands in velvet gloves," some one once playfully named the clever women who as social secretaries at the White House, diplomatic homes and those of official and social leaders, wield an enormous power here over the social and political destinies of newcomers and those anxious for proper recognition at this world capital.

Have Influence.

The woman who knows her Washington realizes that the influence of these women, daughters or widows of men of distinction and all of the truly successful ones, themselves members of well-known families, is the sesame that can open many doors for her. Indeed, these feminine St. Peters, as it were, have been known to quietly put certain ambitious but not properly appreciative persons in their places. That is, they have not permitted an extra honor or concession beyond purely official ones to pass to the offenders during an entire season.

Rueful climbers have discovered, when trying to "buck their lines," to use a football term, that it simply can not be done. For telephone calls go through these arbiters of social fortunes, they read the mail of those who pay them their salaries and they decide for or against personal interviews and the making or receiving of calls. In fact, the devastating effect of their big sticks on dinner lists and dinner giving in the Federal City can not be overestimated. They know the rules of precedence as thoroughly as a bridge devotee does the canons of contract. This is no slight task and a mistake may mean an international controversy with exchange of diplomatic calls and a merry social tempest in a teapot, all told.

Personal Friends Appointed.

The social secretaries at the White House beginning with Miss Belle Hagner, now Mrs. Norman James, of Baltimore, the first social secretary appointed as aid to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, have been a most unusual group. There has been a high average of personal friends appointed to this important position, an action only natural when it is considered into what close social and personal contact the social secretary is brought with the White House family.

When Mrs. William Howard Taft came to the White House, Miss Hagner returned to her desk in the Department of State and Mrs. Taft chose to succeed her, Miss Alice Blech, the daughter of an old friend. Cupid, however, had a say in the matter and Miss Blech before long provided pleasant table talk by her engagement and marriage to Richard Wainwright, jr., member of a well-known Navy family. Miss Blech was followed by Miss Catherine Letterman, from the cave dwellers' colony, and she remained throughout the Taft administration, retiring when the Tafts left the White House.

Miss Hagner Returns.

With the Wilson administration came back Miss Hagner to the social secretary desk. After the death of the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Miss Hagner remained in the same capacity for the President's three daughters. Then, shortly before the marriage of President Wilson to Mrs. Norman Galt, Miss Hagner sent out cards for her own wedding to Norman James, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Wilson then took to the White House her personal friend, Miss Edith Benham, the Mrs. Helm of today.

At the close of the Wilson administration Cupid shot another dart into the Executive Mansion and Washington learned that Miss Benham was to become the bride of Rear Admiral Helm, popular in naval circles and a close friend of Miss Benham's father, also an admiral.

Quits for Business.

Mrs. Coolidge retained Miss Harlan until the latter resigned to become one of Washington's most successful women realtors, and then Miss Mary Randolph, daughter of an Army officer, who had been Mrs. Coolidge's social secretary while she was the wife of the Vice President, and who had been assisting Miss Harlan, became the social secretary to Mrs. Coolidge.

Mrs. Hoover brought two secretaries with her to the White House, besides retaining Miss Randolph. They were Miss Mildred Hall and Miss Ruth Fessler. Miss Randolph resigned in the middle of the administration.

It is interesting to note that Miss Fessler also left the social secretaryship because of matrimony, thus maintaining the growing tradition that the post is a "marrying one."

Directs With Sure Hand.

"Tommy," Mrs. Malina Thompson Schneider, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, has been directing with a sure hand all the social, philanthropic and varied activities of the office of First Lady of the Land since March 4. She knows Mrs. Roosevelt's ways and has been an effective connecting link between Mrs. Roosevelt and the outside world, that world of which Mrs. Roosevelt more than any other President's wife remains an integral, active and sympathetic part.

But the Washington social season is a busy one and Mrs. Schneider will need assistance, doubtless, and the knowing ones say that Mrs. Helm will be one of those called in for this purpose.

"Salad a Day" Assures Better SummerHealth

Cold, Refreshing Dishes Made of Fruits or Vegetables.

"A salad a day" is an even better health motto than the old saying about an apple a day. You can, of course, put the apple in the salad anyway—but in summer you can have other salads in great variety and at low cost. Fruits and vegetables right out of the garden—and especially fruits—make the best kind of salads during warm weather.

A fruit salad can be used almost anywhere in a dinner menu. In the East a "fruit cup" without dressing is often served as an appetizer, but in California salads with dressing are used for a first course, and a fruit salad course would have French or mayonnaise dressing on it. For convenience, many people put a fruit salad on the table to be eaten with, or just after, the main course. It adds to the decorative effect of the table and saves changing one course of dishes. But if dinner is somewhat formal, the fruit salad would be served alone, after the meat course. Finally, fruit salads may be served as desserts with cream dressing. French dressing, or mayonnaise, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For a warm weather lunch or Sunday night meal or party refreshments, a crisp, dainty fruit salad is about all anyone wants. In addition to sandwiches or rolls, it might be accompanied by a cube or ball of soft white cheese, or made partly of fruits stuffed with cream or cottage cheese, or served with a cheese dressing. Cherries, plums, prunes, figs and other fruits that can be hollowed out are suitable for stuffing with cheese. Ripe or canned Bartlett pears are particularly good with grated American cheese sprinkled over them and served with mayonnaise or French dressing on lettuce leaves.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"Leo."

If August 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 3:45 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 11:15 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 7:20 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

You will be inclined to think badly of yourself on this date, for forces operating will tend to induce self-criticism. You must remember that others will take you largely at your own valuation. Business activity should show some increase toward midafternoon. Your child may defy you in some petty manner.

The child born on this August 4 will prove himself to be a very sensible and sane little one; he will not enjoy the artificial things of life and will turn to outdoor activities for his pleasures. Both the girls and boys will lead athletic lives and should be good at one or more sports.

If August 4 is the date of your birth you will probably always be a person who radiates youth, sunshine and happiness; you will not let yourself grow old. You carry your burdens and responsibilities lightly and without worry, although you are sincere and hard-working in seeking to do the best that you can under any and all circumstances. You do not let yourself get "down." Life to you is a game and you play it to get the most out of it and when the breaks go against you, you have little to say of a complaining nature. You go on playing till things come your way again. You adhere strictly to the rules and you quickly lose respect for those who try to put anything over.

Born on August 4, yours is essentially a sweet nature and you seek to bring happiness and joy into the lives of others. If there is ever any kind of helpful thing that can be done for another you are the first to see it and the first to carry it out. You will probably never have a great deal of money with which to do your kindnesses, but you will bring happiness to others by giving unselfishly of yourself and your time. You get along beautifully with people and will seldom make enemies.

Pershing Visited Mountain Family

Several years ago passers-by on a lonely mountain road in Virginia saw a soldierly figure on a stunning black horse riding up and down the steep inclines of the Blue Ridge. Suddenly, as is the way of the Virginia mountain, the air became cold and rain began to come down in torrents.

John J. Pershing.

The lonely rider stopped at a mountain cabin home, knocked on the door with his riding crop and asked for a night's shelter. It was given him but the rain kept up for days, almost as if a second flood had come once more to plague the sons of men.

The visitor, made to feel at home, insisted on doing his share of the daily chores and even took his turn chopping wood.

At night as the family sat around the fireside he told many stories of the World War, the children as well as the adults crowding about to listen to him. He took a turn at playing mumbly peg with jackknives with the boys and even slung one of the rifles over his shoulder and managed to hit a certain tree, despite the rain.

"Come again, stranger," said the tall mountaineer when sunshine broke over the Blue Ridge again, "you will be welcome, you did your share while you were here."

"John J. Pershing" came the answer as he rode away happy.

Father Adopts Spartan Test For Swimmers

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

After a child has learned to swim he is still not ready to be given the freedom of the waters. Merely to keep one's head up is no guarantee against panic, nor does it insure the child's safety if he falls into the water with his clothes on.

One large family of fine swimmers had a supplementary training which seemed to me unusual but very practical. When all the children finally had learned to swim, at least enough to keep afloat, the father one day took them out in a boat completely dressed. For the sake of economy he prescribed old clothes or soiled, but he particularly specified heavy shoes.

When the boat was a hundred yards or more from the shore he deliberately capsized it and watched to see what each child would do.

One hung to the overturned boat and eventually was towed into shore, but the other three swam about taking off their shoes and skirts as they swam until they were sufficiently unencumbered by clothes to get ashore, pulling the boat behind them.

From that time on the three older children needed no more oversight, and no one worried about them either in or on the water. Such a method of trying children's ability to take care of themselves in the water is not always possible.

KLEENEX!

For wiping perspiration from faces
For cleaning windshields
For wiping grease and dirt from hands
For wiping steering wheel
For picnic napkins
For handkerchiefs

Better keep a package always handy in the car!

How many times have you wished you had Kleenex with you while driving?

Windshield covered with dust, and the only cloths in the car so greasy, they'd only make matters worse! Face wet with perspiration, and your only handkerchief grimy from previous wipings.

With plenty of Kleenex along, you always have something clean with which to wipe dirt and grease off your hands, to clean windshields, steering wheels. Always a clean handkerchief for face and eyeglasses.

A picnic napkin

Stop for a roadside bite, and you have a dainty napkin in a fresh, clean Kleenex tissue. Stop at a pump to cool off and refresh your face, and you have an emergency towel.

Let the children have that ice cream cone. Kleenex will keep the drippings from soiling their clothes or the car's upholstery.

Useful in so many ways—Kleenex should be the motorist's constant companion on every trip, long or short. Simply keep a package always in the car. Put it in a side pocket—or, better still, on the seat right beside you where it is handy to use.

For that holiday trip, stock up on Kleenex before you start. Buy Kleenex at any drug or department store.

New Dog Series And Mr. Disney Hit New Note

By Nelson B. Bell.

Dog days have arrived in Hollywood, any way you care to look at it!

These particular dog days, however, may turn out to be a bit more enjoyable than usual to everybody but the dogs.

It seems that Robert Bruce, the pioneer in the field of converting canine sagacity into marketable screen drama, is filming a new series of short subjects, bearing the title of "As a Dog Thinks."

Unlike many previous excursions into the field of kiyoodle comedy, the animal actors in Bruce's latest adventure in barkiedom will not be "wired" to make their mouths open or to jump over fences or to pat each other on the back at precisely the right moments to suit the purposes of their "director."

This time the dogs will be themselves—which will be a change as welcome to many spectators as it will be, presumably, to the histrionic hounds themselves.

Bruce is using his own and other film colony pets to demonstrate for the cameras how dogs react to certain situations which they encounter daily.

Of course, the dogs will talk aloud and "converse" in most amazing fashion—a sort of "Strange Interlude" idea is to be employed in this connection, one is led to believe—but their speeches will be only their audible thoughts.

The thoughts will be expressed in human language by human players whose voices will be dubbed in to synchronize with the seeming vocal activities of the airedale actors, collie comedians, Pekingese prima donnas, Chihuahua coquettes, and the like.

Just how it is expected to pursue the mental processes of a canine cast is a little difficult to understand. By what weird powers of penetration does Mr. Bruce plan to aprehend the mental maunderings of all manner of mutts?

That being the chore he has cut out for himself, though, who am I to slip up behind him and snatch the headache to which he is rightly entitled by right of personal discovery?

"There must be some method by which animals communicate with one another," says Bruce, dog fancier, traveler and film producer. "They think, too, not as we do, but certainly they have some degree of intelligence.

"For example, I bought a sweater for my Dachshund four days ago and I put it on her only three times. Last night, as soon as it got chilly, she brought her sweater to me and rolled over on her back to have it put on. There was no effort to train her, she was just using her noodle.

"None of the dozens of dogs I am using are trained or even trick dogs. They're just dogs. While some are blue ribbon winners, not one is a movie animal."

Both H. M. Robertson, Western dog fancier, who will discuss breed traits and characteristics for a portion of each of the pictures, and Bruce resent having dogs mistreated by having their mouths wired to give the impression they are speaking. They say that is carrying imagination a mite too far.

As a result, Bruce's idea of photographing dogs as they are was born.

Now wouldn't it be amusing if some good smart dog could contrive to make a motion picture with human actors, translating his cast's mental processes into what they must seem like to a dog?

Oh, well, it was just a thought.

Another distinct screen novelty is being quietly planned by Walt Disney, the inspired gentleman who made cartoon comedying an art and then transcended even his own most exalted accomplishments by devising the Silly Symphony series in natural color to the undying glory of drawing boards, action and pigmentation.

Mr. Disney, it is made known, now has in contemplation a feature-length cartoon photoplay which, if it materializes, as at the moment seems likely, will be released through United Artists as one of next season's extraordinary innovations.

Disney is already coaching his entire staff of artists and technicians to handle this staggering assignment. It will take a more patient statistician than this column to estimate with even remote approximation how many individual drawings will be necessary to complete the continuity of a full-length feature cartoon. It must run 'way up into the millions!

Along with this elaborate feature plan, Mr. Disney, of course, will keep his present schedules going with time-table precision. These call for 13 Mickey Mouse cartoons and an equal number of Silly Symphonies as part of United Artists contractural obligations to the exhibitors, affording its product a complete national and international distribution.

Should the feature-cartoon idea blossom into actual accomplishment, the resultant picture may relate its story through either animal characters, human figures or both. It may or may not be executed in color. However, it will not deal with Mickey Mouse—that is positive, even this far in advance.

And that, by the way, will be about the only objection a great many people will have to it!

Lillian Miles, the red-hot torch singer in "Moonlight and Pretzels," the new musical film now doing much to distinguish the name of Papa Carl Laemmle, Carl, jr., and their Universal Pictures Corporation, at RKO-Keith's, where it celebrated an impatient Wednesday night opening, since you won't be happy until you find out, is a protege of Al Siegal, the famous pianist and composer, who brought to public attention such outstanding stage personalities as Lillian Shade, Bee Palmer, first of the celebrated shimmy dancers, and Ethel Merman.

In "Moonlight and Pretzels," Miss Miles introduces some of the snappiest tunes and peppiest lyrics to be found anywhere in a score that is rich in melody, rhythm and sophisticated humor. She will do with a lot of watching.

Reverting momentarily to Walt Disney and his traffic in draftsmanship, you might be interested to know that every time you watch Mickey Mouse in one of his short-reel classics, or one of the Silly Symphonies, you are gazing at from $20,000 to $30,000 worth of pen-and-ink lines bulwarked by an idea that would do credit to an O. Henry, a Balzac or a Washington Irving.

That persistent jingling of the phone, that wouldn't take "no answer" for an answer, was to insist upon prompt dissemination of the information that what the "All-Washington Revue," to be presented at Loew's Fox the week of August 18, needs above all else at the present moment is a large number of gifted young men for the chorus.

If you have a tingling toe, a vibrating vocal cord or a ravenous yen for tricky routines, get your application in at once and show the Shuberts what they missed!

And another thing. If you feel that it was you who submitted the prize-winning suggestion for a final title for the "All-Washington Revue," be of good courage and don't give up the ship. So many names were submitted in the contest for the $10 prize that it will take a corps of tellers days and days yet to determine the winner. In course of time the selection will be made and the award paid to the lucky title writer.

In the meantime, stop calling the management all those hard names. They are doing the best they can—and in weather like this that is pretty good, no matter what it is!

With Leo Carillo's badly mussed-up English in the role of Nick Pappacroppolis, in "Moonlight and Pretzels," still giving theatergoers stitches in their sides, the only relief to which they can look forward is more of the same.

Charles Judels, that sputtering exponent of a Gallic mutilation of English, moves onto the Earle screen today as one of the auxiliary artists lending a touch of comedy to the bill made notable by George Arliss' impersonation of Voltaire in the picture of that name. Mr. Judels is cast as star of "The Double-Crossing of Columbus," with Vanessi, the dancer, supporting, and numerous others adding their talents to his own grotesquery.

If, after listening to both Mr. Carillo and Mr. Judels, you are still able to speak intelligibly, it might be well to consult the family physician about it!

As this is preparing to go to press, as all good little newspaper columns eventually have to do—yes, some that are not so good, too, just to beat you to it—word comes over the wire from New York that the entire motion picture industry has subscribed to the President's national recovery act.

This means that all of the producers and exhibitors represented in the Capital today begin a strict observance of the hours of labor and minimum pay clauses of the act. There are no local exceptions to the application of this blanket code.

Action was taken in New York last night, under the guidance of Will H. Hays, representing practically the entire industry through his presidency of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

The code that goes into effect today covers all house employes, from curbstone to back stage, and all of the film exchange workers.

By the way, how many more shopping days to Christmas?

Three Organizations Said to Have Extorted $3,000,000 a Year.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Nine individuals and three organizations were indicted by the Federal grand jury today on charges growing out of the State's investigation of an alleged pier and terminal produce loading racket.

The defendants are alleged to have extorted $3,000,000 a year from produce jobbers. They are accused of imposing charges for short hauls within the piers and terminals which "are not necessary or useful to the jobbers" and by terrorizing the industry.

Those named in the indictments are Local 202 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, James Hainwight, its president, and M. A. Thompson, secretary-treasurer; the Market Truckmen's Association, F. Kearins, its president; Luman W. Smith, vice president; D. J. McDonald, treasurer, and J. J. Fenton, secretary, and the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association of New York City, Inc., and three of its executives.

Bond Market Is Unchanged In Dull Session

Wednesday's Prices Stand as Sales Drop to $9,031,000.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The bond market labored indifferently today, and, in the face of further profit taking and some liquidation, was unable to achieve any appreciable progress.

It was the dullest session since last April. Sales totaled only $9,031,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans closed unchanged at 81.1.

A number of secondary railroad liens turned soft. Recessions of a point or more were suffered by issues of St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, International Great Northern, Nickel Plate, Iron Mountain, and Southern. Canadian carrier loans were in demand at gains of fractions to around 2 points, while some maturities of Great Northern, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville and Pennsylvania got up 1 or more points.

The utilities and industrials were mixed. Bonds of American Beet Sugar, American & Foreign Power, American Metal, Colon Oil, Lackawanna Steel, Paramount Publix and Western Union got up 1 to 2 or more points, but issues of International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Colorado Industrial, Colorado Fuel & Iron were off as much.

Most United States Government securities were easier, and foreign obligations irregular. Loans of Dutch East Indies, France, Irish Free State and Switzerland rallied 1 to around 3 points, but bonds of Norway, Japan, Buenos Aires and Germany were inclined to drift lower.

Chrysler Company Orders Pay Raise

Detroit, Aug 3 (A.P.).—K. T. Keller, general manager of the Chrysler Corporation, today announced that beginning August 1, the corporation will place in effect hourly wage scales 20 per cent higher than those in effect for March, for the 46,000 wage earners and salaried employees of the corporation throughout the country. The increase, he said, affects only hourly wage earners. The announcement did not reveal either the new or old basic wage scale, but stated that "the corporation has made upward adjustments in rates of pay since the first of the year."

Mr. Keller said that by reducing the hours of work each week, and by increasing production, 20,000 employees have been added to the pay rolls since March.

The Chrysler Corporation increase was the latest of several to be announced following a resolution adopted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, meeting here to discuss the industry's industrial code. Several units of General Motors Corporation, the Packard Motor Car Co., and others have made announcements, while several companies have stated percentages of increases now are being worked out.

Collateral Borrowings Rise $135,867,814

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Collateral borrowings of the New York Stock Exchange members as of July 31 totaled $916,243,934, the exchange announced today. This total compares with $780,386,120 on June 30.

Stocks Record Losses On Irregular Trading

Quiet Dealing Results in Average Decline of One Point; Leaders Pleased With Marginal Rule; Sales Decrease to 1,515,950 Shares.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Stocks were quiet and irregular most of today, easing slightly toward the close and finishing with a net loss of a point for the averages. Transactions dropped to 1,515,950 shares.

The market heard nothing further concerning inflation rumors and lacking any incentives for much of a move proceeded to loaf. If looked much the same as in earlier sessions this week.

Wall street thought the revised marginal trading regulations should bring quieter trading and more orderly markets and would tend to discourage speculative activity by the smaller fry. The rules will permit the exchange to watch pool operations more closely as weekly reports on these ventures will be required. A large section of conservative opinion in the financial community has hoped for smoother markets and has frowned on pool tactics.

Awards of naval construction contracts by the Government directed attention to shares of companies interested in shipbuilding. Bethlehem, New York Shipbuilding and Electric Boat moved upward, but failed to hold the top.

United States Steel eased about a point. American Telephone, North American, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, Harvester, New York Central, Anaconda, General Electric, General Motors and Consolidated Gas slid back fractions to a point or thereabout. Case was down nearly 3 and American Tobacco almost 2. American Can, Western Union and Du Pont were also a little heavier than the average leader. Repeal shares tried a late rally, but quickly sobered.

Deflation of speculative credit continued during the past week. Federal Reserve brokers' loans for this district were down $18,000,000 in the week ended August 2 on top of the $73,000,000 drop in the previous week.

Silk Imports in July 72.9 Per Cent Higher

New York, Aug. 3.—Raw silk imports during July were 72.9 per cent higher than during July, 1932, the Silk Association of America, Inc., reports. July deliveries of raw silk to mills showed an increase of 16.2 per cent, as compared with the same month of last year. Raw silk stocks at warehouses on July 31 were 51,684 bales, as compared with 50,721 bales on July 31, 1932.

July imports of raw silk were 62,348 bales, as compared with 47,435 bales during the previous month and 36,055 bales during July, 1932. Deliveries to mills during July were 44,597 bales, as compared with 53,627 bales during the previous month and 38,382 bales during July, 1932.

Clearings of Banks Continue to Grow

New York, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The steady improvement in bank clearings is very encouraging. For the sixth time this year, clearings were in excess of the $5,000,000,000 mark, the latest figure being the third highest so far this year.

The total this week at all leading cities in the United States, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., of $5,515,859,000 was 58.1 per cent higher than that of a year ago. At New York City, clearings were $4,022,030,000, an increase of 81.3 per cent, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,493,829,000 was 17.1 per cent higher.

The improvement was mainly at New York, where marked activity in the speculative markets accounts, in part, for the increased volume. Substantial increases also appeared at Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Chicago. The latter city made an exceptionally good showing. In the Southern, Middle Western and Western centers the improvement also was noteworthy. Losses continued at Baltimore, Detroit and Cleveland.

Growers Ask Retail Oyster Price Control

Code of Operation Ready for Submission to Industry Leaders.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Control of retail prices in the oyster growing industry to prevent profiteering under provisions of a national industrial code was the aim of oyster growers of the United States, meeting here in convention today.

A code of operation and fair competition has already been drawn up and will be submitted today or tomorrow to the oyster men, members of the National Shell Fisheries Association and the Oyster Growers and Dealers Association of North America, Inc.

Wage schedules and working hours agreed upon at the present meeting will affect more than 30,000 men who will be employed by the industry at the opening of the oyster season, September 1, according to an estimate by W. H. Raye, president of Bluepoints, Inc.

Retail Price Control.

The tentative code, drawn up by H. Gordon Sweet, of New Haven, Conn., does not provide for retail price control. This feature of the proposed code, however, will be insisted upon by members of the two associations to protect the industry from profiteering.

Harold F. Turner, representative of all the commercial fisheries, explained that growers have already smoothed out competitive differences among them so as to take care of the price spread for the retailer.

"The fear seems to be that the retailer will feel it necessary to raise prices," he said.

Control For Retailers.

"Growers want to keep them down and encourage consumption to as great an extent as possible. To do this, they feel that their code should contain some provision to keep retailers under control. Growers can keep their costs down, and it is felt that a 25 per cent—or even 30 per cent spread—for profit should satisfy retailers. The retailer does not require more than 25 per cent.

"The principal thing now is to halt profiteering."

The proposed code provides a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour for labor with the exception of shuckers, who would be paid 4½ cents per liquid quart of opened oyster meats or 20 cents per gallon if payment is based on dry measure.

Employers would agree, in matter of hours, to an 8-hour day and 44 maximum working week of 44 hours. Boatmen and watchmen are excepted from this provision. An overtime period of 10 per cent would be allowed in July, November and December.

Life Insurance Agency Takes Larger Office

Northwestern Mutual Adds to Business Facilities in Investment Building.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

A. L. Baldwin, local general agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., is receiving many compliments on the expansion of the local agency. It has just moved into a larger suite on the sixth floor of the Investment Building at Fifteenth and K streets northwest. The cashier's office has been enlarged and a very efficient arrangement of space has been made for the agents.

Mr. Baldwin and 10 of his associates have just returned from a visit to the company's home office in Milwaukee, where they attended the annual convention of this progressive organization.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. has announced a new vice president, Edward Fitzgerald, and a new director of agencies, Grant Hill. Mr. Hill will be pleasantly remembered in local insurance circles, having addressed a recent meeting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association.

Credit Company Net.

Consolidated operations of Commercial Credit Co. and subsidiaries for the six months ended June 30, 1933, show net income from normal operations credited to earned surplus as $930,754.56, after charging off or providing reserves for all known losses and doubtful items.

This was at the annual rate of $2 cents per share on the common stock of the company.

The substantial improvement in general business conditions has been quickly reflected in the earnings of the company. Volume for the month of June was larger than for any month since September, 1931, with net income on outstanding common stock at the annual rate of $1.54 per share. This was higher than for any one month since October, 1931. The annual rate of 91 cents per share was earned for the second quarter, ended June 30, which comprised that period during which there was shown a substantial business improvement.

Profit for Six Months.

For the first six months, ended June 30, 1933, there was credited to capital surplus a net profit of $1,143,282.30, representing the difference between the cost and par value of preferred and 6 per cent convertible capital stock, purchased and retired. After all adjustments during the period, the book value of the common stock of the company on June 30, in excess of all reserves, equipment and with no consideration for good will, was $18.03 per share, compared with $17.35 per share as of December 31, 1932.

The balance sheet of the company on June 30, 1933, shows "sundry securities" and all items affected by foreign exchange at or below the then current quotation. No shares of capital stock or notes of the company are shown as assets, all of said issues being fully paid and nonassessable.

The company recently called for redemption and payment on November 1, 1933, all of its outstanding ten-year 6 per cent collateral trust sinking fund gold notes, series A, due November 1, 1934. The notes will be redeemed at the call price of 101 and accrued interest upon surrender to the Fidelity Trust Co., Baltimore, trustee, on November 1, after which date all interest will cease. The company offers to such note holders as desire payment prior to November 1, to pay the redemption price of 101 plus accrued interest to the date of presentation to the Fidelity Trust Co. for payment.

Transatlantic issues reflected the firmness of the London metal market, prices on the bourse advanced today. International issues, especially, improved. The dollar was firm.

Berlin—Despite weakness in rubber, nitrate and potash shares, prices on the bourse steadied under the influence of favorable steel reports.

Wheat Erases Losses With Closing Gains

Rise Is Laid to Buying by Milling Interests; Other Grains Down.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lively upturns in wheat prices late today contrasted with a sagging trend much of the time earlier.

Persistent buying credited to milling interests appeared to be chiefly responsible, together with bullish crop reports both from the American and Canadian Northwest. One authority said 21 per cent of Canada's wheat acreage had been destroyed. Threshing returns from United States spring wheat territory pointed to an uneven crop that would run about one-third as large as last year.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜ to 1 cent above yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ½ lower; oats, ¼ to 1 down, and provisions, varying from 22 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Cause of Setbacks.

Sharp setbacks in all grain prices at the start were associated with lower temperatures Northwest and with rains over the Middle West, which many traders assumed would prove helpful, especially to the corn crop.

There were also trade forecasts that world import requirements of wheat for 1933-34 would be the smallest met with in years.

These requirements were figured at 576,000,000 bushels, against 704,000,000 last year, and it was asserted that owing to determined Governmental efforts Europe, exclusive of Russia, would raise 60,000,000 bushels more wheat this season than in 1932.

Small Crop Estimate.

On the other hand, a statement from leading unofficial authority said it had become almost certain the 1933 aggregate domestic crop output in proportion to the population of the United States would be the smallest known since 1866. He said that on a per capita basis for a five-year period, agricultural production in 1933 promised to be only 68 per cent.

This would be 8 per cent under 1930, the year of the short corn crop.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat, but failed to hold so well. Crop comments from the leading corn belt States suggested the bulk of the corn crop was so far advanced now that rain would have little effect, and damage was practically irreparable.

Canada Power Output in June Gains Sharply

Montreal, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—In line with the increased output of electric energy in the United States, the output of Canadian central stations showed a sharp rise in June, the total being larger than for the preceding month and the corresponding months of 1932 and 1931. According to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, energy generated last month amounted to 1,370,913,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,349,942,000 kilowatt hours in the previous month and with 1,198,232,000 kilowatt hours in June of 1932.

The amount of energy generated by water power was 1,349,280,000 kilowatt hours, the largest output for any month since December, 1932.

For the first six months of 1933 the output of central stations aggregated 8,083,295,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 7,926,493,000 kilowatt hours for the corresponding period last year. For the six months' period only the Province of Quebec showed an increase in production, its gain being large enough to offset losses in other areas. In June, however, Ontario and the maritime provinces also showed increases in output.

Increased production of newsprint and greater use of the electric boiler for the generation of steam were credited for the improvement in electric output.

French Begin Repaying Loans by British Banks

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—The French treasury began repaying today a British loan of £30,000,000 (currently about $134,000,000) by English banks. Half the sum is payable now and the remainder in three months.

Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France, in announcing the loan April 29, said the transaction was for six months at 2½ per cent. The Bank of France and the treasury guaranteed it.

Texas Banks Merge; Garner's Son Is Head

Garner, who was president of the First State Bank, will head the consolidated institution, which also will be known as the First State Bank.

Wild Speculation Put Under Control

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange has moved to curb wild speculation. New rules, called the most drastic in the history of the exchange, were promulgated last night. They make margin requirements specific and high—50 per cent on small accounts and 30 per cent on larger ones.

Full information as to pools, syndicates, joint accounts and options will be required weekly. The rules also aim to protect customers against undesirable solicitation at home. Furthermore, new customers' men must be approved by the exchange and will work on a minimum salary instead of a straight commission basis.

The ruling about margin said:

"The minimum amount of margin which must be required shall be sufficient in all cases to finance the account and, in any event, shall amount to at least 30 per cent of the debit balance in the case of accounts having a debit balance of more than $5,000 and to at least 50 per cent of the debit balance in the case of accounts having a debit balance of $5,000 or less."

No margin can be granted on stocks selling below $5 a share or bonds selling at less than 10 per cent of their face value. Previously the exchange had requested only that margin be "adequate."

New York Central Line Loadings Gain Steadily

New York, Aug 3 (AP).—New York Central Railroad Co., car loadings for last week established a new 1933 high level at 109,635 cars, it was announced today. Due to a miscalculation, the road said, yesterday it reported the figures at 108,903 cars, which indicated a small decline from the previous week, when traffic amounted to 109,017 cars.

Latin Trade Pacts May Revive Debts

(Associated Press.)

Defaulted Latin-American debts may enter into the consideration of trade treaties since revived industry in a country eventually means resumption of service on bonds. But government experts feel that these debts will be only a minor consideration since the agreements will be more an attempt to revive trade than to balance fiscal standings.

However, this country's share of Latin-American dollar bonds in default are, according to the December 31, 1932, accounting:

Country.	Held in America.
Argentina	$76,367,400
Bolivia	54,319,000
Brazil	300,941,200
Chile	251,304,700
Columbia	97,865,900
Cuba	1,400,000
Ecuador	2,787,281
Costa Rica	9,503,000
El Salvador	4,552,000
Panama	12,497,500
Peru	72,534,041
Uruguay	5,604,000
Total	$889,676,022

These debts are for the most part governmental bond issues floated in this country through private bankers. They are not debts made by this government to other governments as in the case of many existing European debts. They do not include the defaults on issues of American corporations operating in South America.

Outlook Brightens for Sale Of Chinese Eastern Railway

Tokyo, Aug. 3 (AP).—The negotiations between Soviet Russia and Manchukuo over the sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria, which have been deadlocked almost six weeks, showed their first bit of action today when the Russians offered to take 200,000,000 gold rubles instead of 250,000,000 (nominally $103,000,000 instead of $128,750,000).

Manchukuo, with the support of Japan, still stood pat on its bid of 50,000,000 yen (currently $14,000,000).

With the Russian sellers and the Manchukuan buyers far apart in the matter of price, the negotiations have been carried out in the fashion of the Oriental market place. Until today each party vociferously declared it was impossible to yield a yen or a kopec.

The Tokyo foreign office characterized Manchukuo's bid as generous and offered without the intention of subsequent bargaining.

Well-informed authorities expressed the opinion that although the conference is progressing, weeks of noisy claims and counterclaims and of threats and counterthreats probably lie ahead.

The Japanese and the Manchukuans are confident of further Russian concessions. This confidence is based on the fact that the Japanese army firmly grips North Manchuria and Soviet control even of the commercial and technical administration of the railroad is slipping.

New England Rise In Trade Continues

New York, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Business in New England continues to improve, according to the current Summary of New England Business, published by the National Shawmut Bank, of Boston. In fact, during June the bank reports that business activity was more impressive in New England than in the country as a whole. The bank adds: "The remarkable rate of industrial recovery during the past two months is in large measure the result of legislative measures to raise prices and to stimulate business activity.

"Undoubtedly underlying factors such as low stocks and crop conditions added to the impetus furnished by governmental action. The future monetary policies of the administration, the public works program and the adoption of industrial codes under the national recovery act are important measures which are having and will continue to have a direct effect on New England business."

As highlights in New England business improvement the bank cites: Further improvement in construction; higher average weekly wages and greater employment; productive activity maintaining its unbroken advance from the March low point; continued rise in distribution of finished and semifinished goods; sharply rising wholesale commodity prices with retail prices lagging.

London Bank Holidays Set for August 5 and 7

London, Aug. 3 (AP).—Owing to the bank holiday, the stock exchange here will be closed August 5 and 7. Business on the Liverpool corn and cotton exchanges also will be suspended on those two days. The provision exchange at Liverpool will be open this Saturday, but will be closed on August 7.

Pharis Tire Co. Sales Gain 51 Per Cent

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—While its sales figures have shown consistent gains right through the depression years, the Pharis Tire & Rubber Co., Newark, Ohio, reports exceptional buying activity for the first half of July. Its sales up to and including July 19 are 51 per cent ahead of July, 1932, sales to that date.

Carl Pharis, general manager of the company, attributes the jump in July sales figures partially to the current upward swing in general conditions, and also to a rapidly increasing public recognition of the values that have been consistently offered by the Pharis company.

Cotton Conference Studies Production

Atlanta, Aug. 3 (AP).—A long-time production program balancing world supply and world demand for cotton must follow the present acreage reduction movement, C. A. Cobb, Federal cotton production chief, told a cotton control conference here today.

Government agents and farm representatives from Georgia, North and South Carolina and Alabama were here for the three-day meeting which will be climaxed Saturday by an address of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Stability both in industry and production is the prime need for agriculture, Cobb said.

Bank of England.

London, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 4,823,000; circulation increased 4,964,000; bullion increased 141,000; other securities decreased 106,000; public deposits increased 7,381,000; other deposits decreased 12,903,000; notes reserve decreased 4,862,000; government securities decreased 575,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 42.07 per cent compared with 43.54 last year. Rate of discount 2 per cent.

Damage Continues In Canadian Crops

Montreal, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—"Further deterioration in all crops in the prairie provinces has taken place during the past week owing to lack of moisture and hot weather, and poor crops, with consequent feed shortage, are indicated over a large part of the southern and central areas of the three provinces," says the Bank of Montreal in its current crop report.

"Conditions in the northern areas are more favorable. Damage from grasshoppers continues over large areas of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, while frosts have occurred in Alberta. As indicated in previous reports, the prairie crop of all grains will be considerably below average.

"In Quebec, weather conditions have been favorable and crops generally have advanced satisfactorily, but rain is now needed in most sections. In Ontario, while there have been no general rains for some weeks, and as a result estimated yields are reduced, recent heavy showers in some districts have been beneficial. In the maritime provinces crops generally are making good progress. In British Columbia continued warm, bright weather is rapidly ripening crops which generally are of good quality."

Cotton Prices Drop 75 Cents In Late Dealing

December Sells at 10.64 as General Market Sinks 14 to 15 Points.

After selling off from 10.82 to 10.60 under the early pressure, December rallied to 10.78, but lost a good part of the improvement in the later trading, closing at 10.64. The general market closed steady at net declines of 14 to 15 points.

Overnight buying was quickly supplied, and the market eased off during the early trading. Active months soon showed net losses of about 18 to 20 points. Prices steadied up to nearly yesterday's closing quotations around midday.

Weak in Late Trading.

The market weakened in the late trading when selling was promoted by the easier tone of the late stock market.

There were reports of a very small spot demand from mills. Port receipts, 9,705; United States port stocks, 3,036,762; exports, 23,712, making 40,482 so far this season.

The relatively steady showing of Liverpool was attributed to trade calling and a scarcity of contracts. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the buyers here during the first hour presumably on the differences.

One of the Liverpool cables received in the trade said the market there generally expected the government report next week to show a reduction of from 10 to 10½ million acres.

Cattle Raisers Fight Return To Open Range

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Aug. 3 (AP). Cattlemen once fought for an open range. Now they're protesting a Government order that fences be removed from the public domain.

The New Mexico Cattle Growers Association has filed the protest with the Department of Interior, explaining modern stock raising conditions.

Not their desire but changing economic conditions, say these new range kings, have made it impossible to revert to old-time methods in the cow country. They point out that loans have been made them on the stipulation the stock pledged should be kept within inclosed pastures. Thus they say, the value of existing loans would be lessened and new credit be doubtful.

The association explains that most fences are built on land to which the cattleman has title or for which he has applied in case the remaining public land is turned back to the States.

In many instances, stockmen say, land owned or leased by them is so situated that public domain used by them would not be accessible to other cattlemen. They claim that generally the fencing is done by agreement of neighboring ranchers and that the areas adjacent to Federal areas would be rendered valueless without fencing.

Capping their argument, they assert that removal of fences would be likely to cause the spread of diseases among live stock and open areas of poisonous vegetation to live stock.

Representatives of Western public land States are to meet in Denver August 15 to consolidate their objections.

Lee Highway Section From Folly Finished

Staunton, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The Pendleton Construction Co., of Wytheville, Va., has completed its contract of building a new 4½ mile section of the Lee Highway, from Folly, 4 miles south of Staunton, south through and beyond the village of Mint Spring.

On an 80-foot right-of-way, and a 40-foot grade, a foundation of 20 feet in width was laid, much of it over entirely new territory. Many curves were eliminated and no new curve is more than two per cent. There is one stretch 7,000 feet long without a curve. The work was started January 13.

Stockholders Ask Voice In Future Management

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—A plan of reorganization that would give each stockholder a voice in the management and a share in the profits of the Trustees System Service Corporation, now in receivership, has been proposed by a note holders' protective committee and a stockholders' protective committee.

The plan, affecting affiliated companies, including the Industrial Loan & Guaranty Co., would be put into effect, the committees said, by the mutualization of the business into a single corporation.

Drug Institute Head Favors Blanket Code

Wheeler Sammons Urges 60,000 Retail Stores to Sign Pact.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The Drug Institute of America, Inc., through its managing director, Wheeler Sammons, at the end of the week, issued a statement suggesting that the druggists of the United States, operating more than 60,000 drug stores, sign the individual agreements under the President's blanket code, but petition the N. R. A. for relief where hardships as to working hours are involved.

The drug institute, together with the other trade organizations of the industry, is preparing a vertical code for the entire industry which these associations and it expects to file shortly.

Industry Behind President.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Sammons:

"All branches of the drug industry have been behind President Roosevelt and the N. R. A. since the day the National Industrial Recovery Act was introduced in Congress.

"They have steadily been not only preparing codes, but organizing for industrial self-control, which is certainly one of the, if not the, most important practical requirements in carrying out President Roosevelt's desires.

"One possibility of great advantage to the industry which this work holds, is that the drug industry will be able to present to N. R. A., through its representative trade organizations and the drug institute, a vertical code set-up to reach from producer to consumer. Obviously, such a set-up is advantageous alike to consumer, N. R. A., and every branch of the industry.

Codes for Retailers.

"It is to be hoped that a decision will be reached, or other codes covering the retail pharmacist filed by or before September 1, when the individual Presidential agreements become effective.

"The institute has called the attention of N. R. A. to the position of which the retail pharmacist, anxious to cooperate with the Government, is placed by the requirements of his service to the public health during exceptionally long hours on the one hand, and on the other, those provisions of the individual Presidential agreement as to hours of work, which would require three complete shifts of employees during the hours a drug store is normally open.

"Urgent reference to this fact is coming to the institute from every section of the country.

"Under paragraph 14 of the regulations covering the Presidential agreements, a petition reciting the above situation will make it possible for those willing to accept the decision of the National Industrial Recovery Administration on the question to sign at once the blanks received from the President and to get behind the President's reemployment drive.

Relief Move Urged.

"The institute urges that this procedure be followed where immediate action is desired, both because it is confident that N. R. A. will render a fair decision and because it knows the retail pharmacist supports the President's objectives. The filing of a suggested code may serve the same purpose under section 13 (and one will be filed shortly, of course) and N. R. A. which is in close and sympathetic touch with such situations, may at any moment issue new regulations that will change the situation.

"Therefore, I suggest, where qualification is desired immediately, that the individual agreement be signed and the petition submitted to the institute (at either 330 West Forty-second street, New York City, or 919 North Michigan boulevard, Chicago), or any other organization representative of the trade, for forwarding to Washington."

Weidemann Beer To Appear Again

Cincinnati, Aug 3 (Spl.).—The Wiedemann Brewing Corporation, which is the largest in the Cincinnati area and which has been shut down since preprohibition days, has completed arrangements for the manufacture of beer which will receive national distribution. The first announcements to this effect will be made in a national advertising campaign which starts this week.

Contracts have been let for large quantities of equipment and materials and supplies to place the plant in immediate operation, B. E. Pollack, president of the company, announced today. Several hundred men have been working at the company's plant for the past few weeks and the brewing of beer will begin in the next few weeks. The plant covers approximately five city blocks.

Grain Stabilization Sells 62,500 Bags of Coffee

The Farm Credit Administration announced yesterday that the New York coffee office of the Grain Stabilization Corporation on August 1, 1933, sold 62,500 bags of Santos coffee, at prices ranging from 8.65 cents to 9.05 cents per pound.

This sale constitutes the regular monthly allotment offered to the trade on sealed bids of coffee acquired from the Brazilian government in 1931 in exchange for American wheat.

Paris Plans to Modify Duty to Aid U. S. Trade

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—A decree is expected soon, modifying recent French tariff increases so that American goods under intermediary rates will remain in that class without being raised, except where the new minimum rate is higher than the intermediary tariff, in which case the new minimum will apply.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

"Hard on The Feet."

LETTERS are arriving written by people who plan on attending A Century of Progress and, anticipating an unusual amount of walking in connection therewith, want to know how to harden their feet in preparation. A school teacher writes that she has already begun sponging her feet daily in alum water, but wants to know of a better method if there is one.

The conductor of this column is strongly in favor of preparation for vacations. He has seen more than one soft person with poor wind and little endurance plunge into the experiences of a vacation and suffer serious consequences. He has known death to follow such rashness, and very uncomfortable and in some instances serious exertion angina has developed among friends who attempted to do what the heart was unequal to. Acute dilatations, broken compensations, and edema of the legs are not infrequently encountered.

Experience has shown that every person who plans a vacation requiring wind and endurance should spend some time getting his body ready for the strain. At the same time he is doubtful as to the efficacy of the methods used for hardening the feet. The substances used for this purpose are alum water, a watery solution of tannic acid, sponging with alcohol. There are those who have faith in these substances for toughening the skin of the feet. Others think using them does harm if it has any effect. The people who have had that experience advocate greasing the feet daily. The best preparation of the feet known to the writer is that which comes from long walks. If the feet become sore in the wake of a walk it is well to interrupt the program of preparation until the soreness has passed. A better plan is to stop each walk just short of the point at which the feet become sore.

The best preparation is to get a thoroughly comfortable pair of shoes. The first essential of such shoes is that they be broad enough in front. Most of the foot aches are the result of the inability of the bones of the front part of the foot to spread when it carries the weight. If the surface to be walked in is rough, the soles of the feet must be fairly thick and stiff. However, if the sole is too thick the weight of the shoes will be fatiguing.

On returning from a hard walk the shoes and stockings should be removed and the feet soaked in cold or warm water. For most people cold water is best. After that some dusting powder should be used.

If feasible, sandals or light slippers should be worn until the next going out time. Also, if feasible, the feet sould not be covered by stockings during this resting spell.

Acne.

D. L. G. writes: I read so much about acne that I got my doctor book to find the definition of this word and it called it blackheads. Now I would like to tell D. R. B. how to get rid of them: Take a damp washcloth. Sprinkle on a little soap washing powder and massage the face gently but firmly for awhile. If they are not gone, use some more soap powder until the blackheads are all gone. Then wash the face with a good clean water and soap. Repeat once a week and you will not have any of those blackheads or acne.

Anemia.

N. H. writes: What is the difference between pernicious anemia and anemia?

If a person is afflicted with anemia, and also is very nervous, is it dangerous?

Can anemia be cured, and how long will it take?

Reply.

Anemia is a general term, meaning blood of poor quality, especially blood that is poor in coloring matter. There are many kinds of anemia. In an article appearing in the Journal of the American Medical Association April 29, 1933, about fifty kinds were listed. Ordinary pernicious anemia is the kind in which the shortage in red cells is greater than that in coloring matter. The red cells are apt to be misshapen. The cause of this kind of anemia is in the stomach and liver.

Annapolis Merchants Swell List Under Code

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The whole-hearted spirit in which Annapolis business men are entering into the NRA campaign is indicated by the fact that the number of employers who have filed certificates and received their insignia jumped from 76 yesterday to 121. Others are shaping plans to comply with conditions.

The Independent Grocers Association, with a membership of 29, has approved the 48-hour week, and so have the chain stores. Both groups now are waiting on the adoption of the State code to determine business hours and complete wage details. They favor opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 5 p. m., except on Saturdays, when closing time would be two hours later.

Nats Victors, 8 to 4, as Grove Ends Yanks' 308-Game Streak, 7 to 0

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THE American League's vital statistics, which show the Nats to be three games out in front of the Yankees this morning are quite comforting locally where the good burgher have been yearning for a pennant for eight years.

This may be no time to be talking pennant, and I have already been accused of being quick on the trigger in that respect, but that three-game lead is no myth and if you can show me any town entitled to talk pennant with more authority than our fair and warmer city, I am prepared to show you a whole flock of white blackbirds.

Perhaps, though, it would be wise to wait until the middle of next week. The Nats storm Yankee Stadium on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for a four-game series and a lot that has still been left unsaid may be made known at that time. But at this writing the town has reason to be enthusiastic.

Joe Judge on the Spot.

Whoever it was who gave the world that time-honored crack, "Save me from my friends, I will protect myself from my enemies," has won himself another concert in Joseph Ignatius Judge, late of the Nats, later of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and at present affiliated with the Red Sox.

It seems that Judge's friends are booming him for the management of the Boston Club, despite the fact that the Boston owners have expressed no dissatisfaction with the manner in which Marty McManus is handling the reins of the Red Sox. The situation is embarrassing, no end, for Judge, who is on friendly terms with McManus.

Judge was busy denying, yesterday, that he had managerial aspirations with the Red Sox. "I'm playing for McManus," he said. "They didn't hire me as manager and I would be deeply obliged if my well-wishers would not rush into print. It puts me on the spot. I want to keep on working in the big leagues."

Johnson and Indians.

That flare-up between Oral Hildebrand and Walter Johnson in the Indians' locker room at St. Louis the other day was no sudden loss of temper by the Cleveland pitcher, as is generally believed, but the culmination of smouldering resentment toward Johnson by several members of the Indians' pitching staff.

When the Cleveland Club was in Washington a month ago, only a few weeks after Johnson had relieved Peckinpaugh as manager, it was already being bruited about that all was not milk and honey between the former Washington pitching idol and his hurling staff.

Not only were the Cleveland pitchers being worked out of turn by Johnson, but slightly-built fellows like Hildebrand and Mel Harder were serving long turns in the bull pen each day and had openly remonstrated with Johnson that their effectiveness was being undermined by the daily bull pen duty. What happened in St. Louis was not in the nature of a surprise.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

It may not have been significant, but the fact remains that before Goslin was recently benched by Cronin, the outfielder had moved down the street from the hotel at which both men lived . . . the Red Sox yesterday sent an appropriately-named fellow called Leggett to run for big Dale Alexander in the sixth . . . Earl Whitehill likes to be removed from the box about as much as a fish likes to be removed from water . . . Cronin started in from shortstop to discuss the situation with Whitehill in the sixth and the pitcher calmly started walking the same direction Cronin was walking . . . in the seventh when Whitehill was finally removed, he stomped the dirt and drop-kicked the resin bag half way to second base . . . Dave Harris got on base three times in four appearances at the plate . . . confidentially, Dave thinks he's cut out for a lead-off man . . . Fred Schulte preserved his consecutive game record when he joined the line-up in the eighth . . . the shortest distance between two points now has two definitions . . . a straight line . . . and Buck Walters' throws in the Boston infield.

Parley Over, Hildebrand Heals Rift

Ready to Pitch to Win, He Says After Visit to Billy Evans.

Joins Club Tomorrow; Johnson Is Pleased When Told News.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 (AP).—The pipe of peace passed today between young Oral Hildebrand, pitching ace of the Indians, and Walter Johnson, the Tribe's new manager, three days after Hildy had been fined $100 and suspended for a display of temperament.

Peace moves were rapid today after Hildebrand arrived in Cleveland to see General Manager Billy Evans and tell his side of the story.

At the end of an hour and a half conference with Evans, Hildebrand emerged from the big boss' office with this statement:

"I am prepared to wire Johnson immediately at St. Louis that I am ready to go to work and pitch to win."

Johnson Is Pleased.

Reached in St. Louis, Johnson said he would be tickled to death to receive such a message from Hildy, and apparently it was forthcoming, for the Big Train wired the Cleveland News late this afternoon:

"Hildebrand has apologized. Will rejoin club in Detroit Saturday."

Johnson made no comment about the $100 fine and it was not known here whether it would be suspended or not.

Objected to Removal.

Johnson fined Hildy $100 Monday afternoon when the pitcher objected to being removed from the box after allowing three walks and a hit in a single inning. Next day he exchanged a few torrid expressions with Johnson, and the indefinite suspension resulted.

Hildebrand then came to Cleveland, avowedly to tell Evans all about the dispute and further to advise the general manager "what was going on with the ball club."

Evans said he would be glad to see Hildebrand, but announced before the two met that he would not interfere with any decision of Manager Johnson.

Gilbert Hunt Loses In Western Tennis

Washington Boy Defeated by Florida Racqueter in Three Sets.

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Gilbert Hunt, 17-year-old Washington boy, seeded No. 2, was eliminated from the Western Junior Tennis Tournament today by Burtz Boulware, of Jacksonville, Fla., 3—6, 6—4, 7—5. Hunt, a graduate of Eastern High School, is ranked sixth in the District. He scored his first major tournament victory here in 1931, winning the boys' championship after having been runner-up to Jock McLean in 1929 and 1930.

In 1931 Hunt also won the Middle Atlantic boys' championship and went to the semifinals of the National Boys' Tournament, where he was eliminated by Jean Mako. In 1932, he reached the semifinals in the Western juniors and the quarter-finals in the national juniors.

Steele Gains Draw With Londos

Speers Is Disqualified After Taking Punch at Referee.

By Frank H. Young.

JIM LONDOS is still champion of the rassle realm hereabouts, not because he threw Ray Steele, his crown prince, last night at the Stadium, but because Steele did not throw him. It was a rough-and-tumble bout throughout, the two still going strong when the two-hour time limit was reached.

In the early part of the bout, while both were just fooling around, consuming a little time, Steele had the better of it, and the 6,000 who braved the threatening weather—all apparently Steele men—thought they were backing the winner.

Near Goal 13 Times.

But, later on, when the boys began to take their work seriously, it was Londos who was doing most of the damage. Thirteen times within the last three minutes did Londos hear Referee Cyclone Burns toll the count of two on Steele, and twice the challenger took one, but he was able to wiggle out of losing the decision, and the two were on their feet giving and taking punishment when hostilities were declared off.

For Steel, it was one of those moral victories so often referred to in sports. It was the first time Londos had been held to a draw here by any one and one of the few times since he won the title several years back that he has not gotten his man.

New Lease on Life.

Several times it looked as though he had Steele in condition for the finishing touches. As the timekeeper yelled "55 minutes," the challenger appeared to be close to out, and again ten minutes later he was in a bad way. It was at this stage that the clouds opened and emptied water by the bucketfull and this seemed to refresh Ray and give him a new lease on life.

In the curtain raiser, something new was pulled when Frank Speers, the rough boy from Atlanta, was disqualified for too much roughing. As long as he confined his mauling to Sol Slagel, his opponent, it was O. K., but when he started fighting Referee Bennie Portnick, that was going too strong and he was disqualified. In the other bouts, Everett Marshall and Jim Browning battled to a 45-minute draw, while Dr. Karl Sarpolis earned a verdict over Dick (Tex) Raines. The latter spent much of his time pleading for sympathy from the referee and the crowd, but all he got was raspberries and a dumping when he became careless and gave the good dentist a chance to nail him with a flying scissors.

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (AP).—Following a pitchers' duel between Harder and Wells which left the score tied, 2 and 2, after seven innings, the Cleveland Indians rallied today and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 2, for an even break in the series.

The winning run was scored in the eighth on Burnett's double, Boss' sacrifice and Averill's fly.

Mangin Beaten By Grant in Net Upset

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Bryan Grant, Atlanta's 5-foot-4 tennis dynamo, upset the seeded order today and smashed his way into the semifinals of the Meadow Club's forty-third annual invitation tournament.

Playing his best tennis of the year, the tiny Southerner blasted Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, national indoor champion and third seeded player, from the tournament with a dazzling barrage of shots, 6—3, 6—3, 6—8, 4—6, 6—3, and entered the round before the finals along with Sidney B. Wood, of New York, defending title holder; Frank Shields, of New York, Seabright winner last week, and Frankie Parker, 17-year-old king of the Nation's clay-court players.

Grant will need to repeat his sensational play tomorrow if he hopes to stay with Shields. The big New Yorker, winner of the Crescent-Hamilton and Seabright tournaments in succession, smothered John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, in straight sets today, 6—3, 6—1, 7—5.

Parker raced through his quarter-final match against Dick Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., in even more impressive fashion, eliminating the Longwood Bowl winner with the loss of only six games, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4.

Wood, who has shown a distinct return to form in this tournament, had a terrific fight on his hands before he managed to subdue the intercollegiate champion, Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, 4—6, 6—2, 3—6, 6—0, 6—4.

Braves Win by 3-0; 2 Hits Off Zachary

Only 4 Brooklyn Men Able to Reach First Base Off Veteran.

Boston, Aug. 3 (AP).—Tom Zachary, veteran Boston southpaw, pitched the Braves to a 3-to-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today, giving only two hits in a mound duel with Owen Carroll.

Only four Brooklyn batsmen reached first, Sam Leslie and Joe Hutcheson getting singles, Leslie drawing a walk and Tony Cuccinello reaching first after Leslie's hit in the fifth, when Catcher Frank Hogan tipped his bat. A double play cut off this threat of a rally.

Washington Beats Sox to Lead by 3 Games; A's Ace Grants Only Five Hits and Fans Babe Ruth in 8th With Three Men on Base

Foxx Gets 30th Homer in 7th, Scores Two Ahead of Him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP).—Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, the southpaw speedball star of the Philadelphia Athletics put an end to the greatest scoring streak ever made by a club in major league baseball history when he pitched the Athletics to a 7-to-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Yanks had scored in 308 consecutive games over a period of just two years before Grove halted them with five hits today. Their last previous blanketing was administered by Wilcy Moore, then with the Boston Red Sox, on August 2, 1931. This feat eclipsed all records for consecutive scoring. The best mark listed in the record books was 132 games, an entire season's play, made by the Boston and Philadelphia National League clubs in 1894.

Grove was the big figure in the Athletics' victory, but Jimmie Foxx, the slugging first baseman, also had a hand in it. Foxx put the game on ice in the seventh inning, when he walloped his thirtieth home run.

Grove, although he gave five walks along with the five hits, seldom was in danger and he rose to the heights of pitching greatness on those occasions. His greatest feat was in the eighth, when the bases were filled by walks to Frank Crosetti and Joe Sewell and Earl Combs' third hit of the game. Grove got Ruth on strikes for the third time and forced Lou Gehrig to fly out to escape from a bad situation.

In the fourth he whiffed Gehrig after Combs had singled and Ruth had drawn a pass and in the sixth he got both Ruth and Gehrig by the strike-out method with two on base.

Succeeds Where Others Failed

The New York Yankees were forced to surrender their proud non-shutout record when they met up with Lefty Grove yesterday after having scored in all of their last 308 games.

5 Boston Pitchers Fail to Halt Attack and Give Up 14 Hits.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE Nats went back on the base-hit standard yesterday and inflated their league lead to three full games by the simple expedient of wringing eight runs out of the Red Sox pitching, hanging them out to dry from the effects of an 8-4 defeat.

Meanwhile, things were happening up in New York, where Lefty Grove of the Athletics forced the haughty Yanks to surrender their non-shutout record, yielding a meager five hits to call a halt after the Yanks had scored in their last 308 games. Two years and a day from the day the Yankees were last blanked, on August 2, 1931, Grove plastered them with a 7-0 shutout.

The scoreboard out in the right field shared with the Nats-Red Sox game the attention of the 6,000 Ladies Day customers as Grove drew nearer his shutout feat inning by inning, and when the mystic forces who operate the board posted the ninth scoreless inning for the Yanks, the ladies, bless 'em, set a season's record when they cheered with good reason to cheer.

In putting added daylight between themselves and the second-place Yanks in the pennant race, the Nats banged the offerings of five Boston pitchers for fourteen hits in an impressive encore of the batting display that carried them triumphantly through the West.

They were met with a strategical maneuver of Marty McManus at the outset when the Boston manager withdrew the right-handed Johnny Welsh after he had pitched to one batter and set the left-handed Lloyd Brown into the box in an effort to force Cronin to substitute his right-handed hitting reserve forces, but the Nats' pilot stuck to his original line-up and they delivered in a large and grandiose way.

The Nats gave Earl Whitehill a five-run lead in five innings, in which the pitcher played no small part with his own single and triple, but in the seventh when he issued his seventh walk of the afternoon, Cronin concluded that the Nats no longer needed Whitehill's pitching, or his hitting, either, and Jack Russell finished out the ball game.

The bottom of the batting order got to Brown for a run in the third inning when Sewell's roller took a freak hop past Hodapp for two bases. Whitehill beat out a bunt to the errant Seeds and Manush event-

Dean, of Cards, Nips Pirates By 4 to 1

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3 (AP).—Peace and a swirling rainstorm settled over Forbes Field today as Dizzy Dean, the strikeout king, muffled the Pittsburgh Pirates' bats and ushered the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-to-1 six-inning contest.

A veritable cloudburst halted play after St. Louis finished batting in the first half of the seventh frame. It was the Cards' second straight victory over the Bucs.

The Pirates reached the fanning monarch in the third for the game's first tally—a typical Waner act. With two out, Lloyd Waner singled and Brother Paul, the "big poison" of the duo, came through with a slashing double that rolled to the extreme corner of left field, scoring Lloyd.

That was the only inning, however, in which the Pirates could

Winner Holds Half-Length Margin

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP).—Mud runners carried off the honors at Hawthorne today. In the feature race, the sixth at 1 1-16 miles, Big Red, racing in the colors of T. H. McCaffrey, of Lexington, Ky., surprised the talent by scoring by a half length. John E. Hughes' Silent Shot conquered Knights Gal for the place.

The latter led the procession until the final strides to the wire and weakened. Silent Shot then took command, but was overtaken in a sensational stretch run by Big Red, piloted by Jockey H. Schutte. The winner ran the distance in 1:49 2-5, paying $21.28 to win in the $2 mutuels.

Cog Air scored in the fifth race at 6½ furlongs and had two lengths over Martie Flynn. Rubio, public choice, finished third. Cog Air paid $9.04, and ran the distance in 1:21 2-5.

Another Whitney Victory.

Coney Island, Ohio, Aug. 3 (AP).—As if to emphasize the triumphal march of Equipoise in far-away Saratoga, Contraband, another member of the illustrious thoroughbred house of C. V. Whitney, made a show of his opposition to capture the Price Hill purse, today's principal attraction at this popular racing strip.

Contraband, a son of Chicle, was backed into staunch favoritism in the field of eight which engaged in six-furlong spin. During the early running his chances appeared hopeless and Ep cut out the pace followed by Lucille Wright and Henry Curry.

After a half mile the Whitneyite began moving up and drawing alongside of Ep, galloped to the front to win drawing away by five lengths. L. K. Rogers' Blithe came from far back to grab the place from the tiring Lucille Wright as Henry Curry and Ep quit to nothing.

Contraband was held at $4.20 in the $2 mutuels.

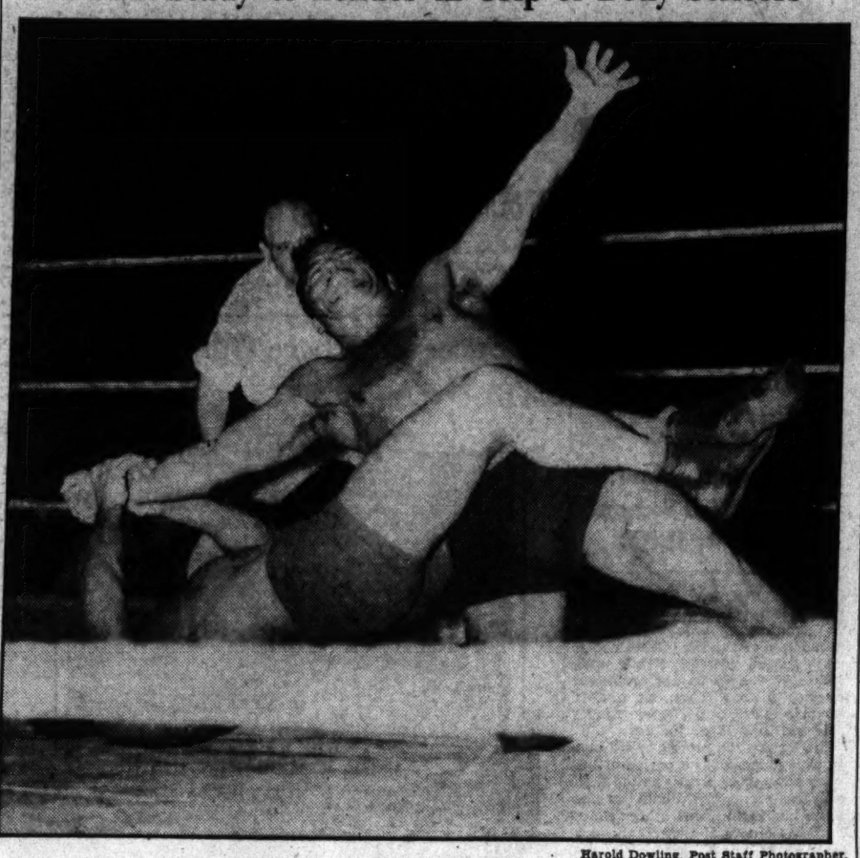
Facial Study of Londos in Grip of Body Scissors



Harold Dowling, Post Staff Photographer.

DON MANUEL, under stout restraint, early raced extremely wide going to the far turn, assumed command when straight again and drew out easily. DUST GIRL displayed keen early foot, gave way readily when headed, but had enough left to outstay LE MISERABLE.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (chute). Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:42½. Off at 2:48. Winner, J. STIMULATOR, fractious at the gate, broke well and kept in best footing, wore down ETCETERA in the final furlong. BARRY worked way up steadily while clear, came with a good burst of speed in the final furlong then weakened suddenly. OUTBOUND, slow to find stride and forced wide on the turns, could never reach a contending position.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCANDAL SHEET, $6.76, $3.50, $2.70; ED LARK, $3.58, $2.56; BETTY BARRETT, $3.58.

SCANDAL SHEET, nicely rated, while in close attendance of the pace, moved around TOMMY TICKLE when ready and drew far out in the final three-sixteenths. ED LARK, taken back while in close quarters, gained steadily on the outside in the final quarter and finished gamely. BETTY BARRETT, far out of it early, improved position steadily when finding stride, but could not threaten the leaders. ANITA ORMONT raced well in spots.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:38½. Winner, Audley Farm's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLOUD D'OR, $5.20, $3.10, $2.42; PRINCE DRAKE, $3.22, $2.42; COFLIER, $3.02.

CLOUD D'OR held PRINCE DRAKE safe for speed while under a slight restraint, and responding gamely when latter challenged at the final turn, drew out handily. PRINCE DRAKE lost some ground on the turns, made a determined bid in the final quarter, then faltered slightly in the drive. COFLIER, outpaced early, gained steadily when reaching the stretch and finished resolutely.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:00½. Off at 4:06. Winner, A. Bartelstein's b. h. COG AIR, reserved to the final three furlongs and gaining steadily on the outside while kept in best going, wore down leaders in the final furlong. MARTIE FLYNN gradually raced RUBIO into defeat, then swerving to inside, could not match strides with winner when put to a drive. RUBIO, under hard pressure, while holding a slight lead, weakened badly when headed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000. The Downers Grove. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:28. Off at 4:29½. Winner, T. H. McCaffery's ch. c. BIG RED, a sluggish beginner, was placed under strong handling in the quarter and clear on the outside wore down SILENT SHOT in the final 100 yards. SILENT SHOT gradually worked way to the front in the stretch, continued gamely when challenged, but was not quite good enough. KNIGHTS GAL was slightly used in disposing of DUSKY DEVIL and began tiring in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:54. Off at 4:54½. Winner, A. A. Baroni's dk. br. or blk. c. SNAPLOCK, showing a distinct liking for the footing, drew into a comfortable lead entering the back stretch and increasing it won as rider pleased. SURETY, never far back, but losing some ground on the turns, gained steadily in stretch, then tiring suddenly just lasted to outgame SOEUR BLANCHE. The latter came with a good burst of speed in the stretch and closed an immense gap. MINTOGEE was used up forcing the winner's early pace.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:19. Off at 5:21. Overlin-Stickler Fight Monday on Fort Washington's First Card in 2 Years

Navy Champ Faces Hard Encounter

Meanwhile, Plans Go on for Tuesday Bouts at Twin City.

WHILE Twin City Arena's publicity agent was passing the word along yesterday that Joe Knight has learned to use his right hand, in fact has developed a knockout punch with it, Fort Washington officials announced Billy Strickler and Ken Overlin as principals in the main event of the first show to be presented on Uncle Sam's property in two years.

The Joe Knight-Joe Banovic battle, feature of the Twin City card, will be a scorcher, according to Promoter Charley Cornell. Both men rank within the select first ten circle of the light-heavyweight world, and both are working for a shot at the champion, Maxie Rosenbloom.

Is Navy Champion.

This Overlin-Strickler affair is the choicest plum ever set before the local boxing public, say the Fort Washington supporters. Overlin is the middleweight champion of the Navy, a pretty good recommendation for any boy. Strickler is an officer in the Army Engineer Reserves and a tough hombre in the bargain. The fight, so they say, is a sure-fire attraction.

So at last it looks like Gus Q. Fan is getting a break at last. Monday night the Fort Washington show goes on, and the very next night Twin City opens its gates to the customers. Both main bouts have the earmarks of worthwhile attractions.

Decision Is Predicted.

"Jersey" Jones, Banovic's pilot, departs from the time-honored custom of predicting a quick kayo for his boy. "Jersey" says Banovic will win by a decision. But he admits Knight is going to get a terrible beating.

On the other hand, Holmes Allen, business agent for Knight, predicts an easy win for his charge, possibly by a knockout. Allen has signed for a second bout at Twin City August 22. He doesn't care whom Knight meets. Bob Godwin is on the preferred list, and he's even willing to fight for absolutely nothing if he can get a crack at Rosenbloom.

Receipts from the fights at Fort Washinton will be donated to the Police Relief Fund. Miss Ida Minnix is chairman of the committee which administers the money contributed to this fund for worthy causes.

Peacock Shoots 71 at Columbia

Roger Peacock, District and Maryland State amateur champion and big favorite in the sectional qualifying rounds for the National Amateur next Tuesday at Columbia, toured the 6,473-yard course in 71 yesterday afternoon in a practice round.

Harry Pitt, of Manor, wrecked an otherwise good round by losing his ball, taking a 7 on the third hole, in a practice jaunt with Billy Dettweiler, Martin F. McCarthy, Miller B. Stevinson and Luther Steward, jr.

McCarthy, canning putts from all angels, came home in 71; Dettweiler had 75 and Stevinson, 74. Maury Fitzgerald, of Kenwood, shot a 76.

make any impression on Dean's twirling, as the dizzy one struck out four and permitted only six bingles.

Cardinal bats began to click in the fifth. After Durocher reached base on Piet's error, Pepper Martin drove him home with a two-bagger. Watkins then singled, bringing in Martin.

Medwick's one-baser, a triple by Orsatti and Wilson's single accounted for two more in the sixth.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

THE Gablemans, of Waverly, Ohio, are traditionally prominent in two important businesses of the town. They help supply the people with city government and with daily newspapers. For 60 years some member of the family has taken care of the news business and has held an important post in city government.

The present newsboy-official is Charles Gableman, Mayor of Waverly and paper carrier. He carries his route on a bicycle, covers 10 miles a day, supplying 800 customers with their daily news—and, at such times as his paper business does not occupy his time, he directs the city government.

Contrary to the popular belief that children are more apt pupils in elementary education than adults, educators assert that the adult learns to read and write better and more quickly than the child. The adult learning to read and write takes a greater active interest in his studies than does the child, and has the added incentive of knowing how much he will profit by his study.

The bald eagle's young do not get their full growth of feathers until they are about 3 years old. On the other hand, they attain a weight equal, often exceeding, that of their parents before they are a year old. The young, generally, two to a nest, remain in the nest until they are 10 weeks old.

Grimm's Homer Beats Reds for Cubs, 2 to 1

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—After waiting 102 games to hit a home run, Manager Charlie Grimm delivered one in the eighth inning today to break up a pitching duel between Guy Bush and Paul Derringer and give the Cubs a 2-to-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cincinnati suffered a blow as George Grantham, star infielder, fractured his right ankle sliding into third base in the seventh inning. He will be out of the game for at least a month.

Bush held the Reds hitless until two were out in the sixth.

Nats Beat Red Sox To Gain on Yanks

ually scored Sewell with a loft to right.

Whitehill Triples.

Bill Werber invited the Nats to score in the fourth when he muffed Harris' grounder, and they scored twice. Kuhel beat out another bunt to Seeds, Sewell scored him with a single and Whitehill amazed everybody by tripling over Jolley's head for his second hit. The Nats were back at Brown for two more runs in the fifth after two were out. Cronin doubled, Harris and Kuhel walked, Andrews relieved Brown, and Bluege rammed a double to center to score two runners.

Whitehill's shutout dreams exploded in the sixth when he walked three to fill the bases. The first Boston run scored when Cronin muffed Pinch Hitter Alexander's roller.

Scoring Continues.

Then Whitehill walked Walters to open the seventh, Cronin called Russell in. The heat, or his triple, or something hadn't improved Whitehill's control. The Sox found Russell for a couple of runs on Johnson's double and Ferrell's single and narrowed the score to 5-3. So the Nats scored two runs in their half on Kuhel's double and had a four-run lead again.

Both clubs got a run in the eighth which saw Joe Judge pinch hit for the Red Sox, get a clean single to right, and start for the Washington bench after the third out left him stranded.

The above predictions give the times the water is high and low. Slack water (time of turn of current) occurs somewhat later. In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel, between Chesapeake Beach and Annapolis, flood and ebb currents begin about 3 to 4 hours after low and high water, respectively, by the shore. At other places given in the table slack waters occur from ½ to 1½ hours after times of low and high water.

Judge to Start Tomorrow in Sox Line-Up

Nats and Boston to Idle Today; Ed Chapman to Make His Debut.

JOE JUDGE, for 17 years star first baseman of the Nats, will make his first appearance in Washington tomorrow in the regular line-up of an alien American League team.

The mere mention of Judge's name through the amplifiers of Griffith Stadium as a starter in the Boston line-up brought cheers from his many followers in the stands yesterday, and his covorting at first base tomorrow will be watched with keen interest.

The Red Sox were quick to sign Judge after the veteran had seen several weeks' service with Brooklyn in the National League shortly after he was released by Washington.

In his appearance as a pinch-hitter yesterday, Judge was given a big hand by the fans.

Ed ("Butch") Chapman, the newest Nat, will make his major-league debut against the Red Sox tomorrow in the final game of the current set, which will give home fans something to look forward to. Meanwhile, Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, has given baseball followers, especially "figger filberts," something to do this afternoon, which happens to be an open date on the schedule.

"In yesterday's game, we had our first batter reach first in the first six innings, yet never scored a run. I believe that this is a record," Griffith said yesterday.

When Griffith's attention was called to the fact that records of this kind are not printed in the book, he said: "Well, I claim it is a record and I challenge any one to prove me wrong." So here's something for argumentative fans to do this afternoon instead of going to the stadium.

And speaking of records, Smead Jolley, of the Red Sox, set one of some kind in the eighth yesterday. He opened this round with a double and yet advanced only one base on two outfield hits which followed. There was some excuse when he held second while Harris was making a great try for Seed's safety, but how he kept from scoring on Pinch-Hitter Joe Judge's single to right is a mystery.

Mrs. Jack Russell is doing nicely following an emergency appendicitis operation, the Nats' No. 1 relief pitcher reports.

Manager Joe Cronin is taking turns resting his outfielders and Fred Schulte drew a lay-off yesterday. Schulte will be back in the game tomorrow. Schulte went to center in the alien eighth, though, to tighten the Nats' defense.

Dan Howley, former manager of the St. Louis Browns and the Cincinnati Reds, visited the Nats yesterday and was Owner Clark Griffith's guest at the game. His Toronto team played in Baltimore last night.

Sewell must have been daydreaming on third in Round 3. Instead of being tagged up when Jolley caught Manush's long fly, he broke for home and had to run back to the base after the catch was made. He might have been nipped had the Red Sox hustled the ball home, but they evidently assumed that Sewell knew how to run bases and did not know what happened until too late.

Sewell probably thought the blow was a hit, but he should do no thinking at times like that. If it was a hit, he could have walked home and all that hurry was not necessary.

Werber turned in a pretty play in the fifth when he gobbled up Manush's grounder, which was deflected off Brown's glove, and made the out at first. He was in the air when he made the throw.

Cronin contributed the best fielding play of the game in the ninth when he raced over toward second to snare Johnson's liner on a pick-up with his gloved hand. Even then, it took a rifle peg to nip the speedy flyhawk at first.

Wightman Cup Play Is Under Way Today

U. S. Victory Is Expected Largely Because of Mrs. Moody.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP).—The ranking women tennis players of the United States and Great Britain meet for the eleventh time tomorrow in their annual competition for the Wightman Cup, with the issue, as is usually the case when ladies meet, almost unpredictable.

If there is any advantage it lies with Capt. Helen Wills Moody and her team of three, the rules of the competition giving Mrs. Moody a chance to compete in three of the seven matches in the series and win all except one of the points needed for team victory.

Playing with the American "champion of champions" will be experienced Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey and the courageous, if inexperienced, Alice Marble, one of the finer of the younger players.

Trio of Newcomers.

Heading the English team of five is Dorothy Edith Round, the solemn-mannered English Sunday school teacher, who took a set from Mrs. Moody at Wimbledon, the first to accomplish the feat in six years, but with only one experienced British internationalist to give her aid, Betty Nuthall. The other three places on the English team are filled by Mary Heeley, Peggy Scriven and Frida James, all newcomers to cup play.

Old Rivals Clash.

Old rivals will clash Sunday when the Kenilworth A. C. plays host to the Benning A. C. in a game starting promptly at 3 o'clock. Each team has won nine consecutive games. Griner will hurl for Benning, while Rupard will toe the mound for Kenilworth.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

ALTHOUGH claiming to be the Government's oldest service organization there will be nothing old-fashioned about the Coast Guard when it celebrates its 143d birthday tonight. A concert by the Coast Guard Band aboard the cutter Tampa will be broadcast to the country while the ship is steaming between New London and New York.

The music will be carried to New York by short wave, Lieut. Comdr. E. M. Webster, Coast Guard communications officer, said last night, and then relayed over a Nation-wide network coming to the Capital through Station WJSV at 10 o'clock.

During an intermission in the concert, which we'll bet a nickle will include some of Secretary Woodin's music (the Coast Guard being under Secretary Woodin), the scene will shift to Washington, from where the voice of Admiral H. G. Hamlet, commandant of the Coast Guard, will be picked up.

An invitation will be extended to President Roosevelt to listen in at Hyde Park.

The Wightman Cup tennis matches between England and the United States, which bring together the star women players of both countries, will be described today from the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, New York (WJSV, 3 to 4 p. m.; WRC, 3 to 4:30 p. m.).

American stars who will participate will be Helen Wills Moody, Helen Jacobs, Mrs. L. A. Harper, Carolin Babcock, Sara Palfrey and Alice Marble. The English team will include Betty Nuthall, Mary Heeley, Freda James, Dorothy Round and Peggy Scriven.

The Santa Barbara Fiesta will be heard here through WJSV at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Burns and Allen, who broadcast from Washington at the conclusion of their engagement at the Fox, should get some local boy to look over their continuity. Gracie is supposed to be dumb, but it was Burns who, presumably at the Capitol, said:

"Now let's go over to the mint and see them make the money!"

IN a series of four talks the Department of Agriculture will endeavor to reach the 1,200,000 wheat growers of the country to explain the control plan which involves the distribution of $90,000,000 to wheat growers who sign agreements to reduce wheat acreage. The first speaker will be M. L. Wilson, in charge of wheat production control (WMAL, 10:15 p. m.).

Ethel Waters, who made "Stormy Weather" one of the most-sung popular songs and the only Negro woman on the networks, will be heard in a new program over the WJZ chain, but not over WRC, starting at 10:15 p. m. This is in addition to her Monday night broadcast at the same hour over the WJZ net.

NOBODY but Fred Allen, New England dispenser of nonsense, knows what kind of a show he is going to put on in his new series tonight, not even the sponsor. Ferde Grofe will be a fellow conspirator (WRC, 8, p. m.).

Two sides of the theatrical situation will be revealed over WMAL at 4 p. m., August 4, by Lawrence Langner of the Theater Guild and the Westport Country Playhouse, and Robert Garland, dramatic critic.

Early days of Central City, famous "ghost" city of Colorado, will be dramatized this afternoon as part of the Central City Opera Revival. (WMAL, 3:30 p. m.)

Gladys Swarthout, mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Frank Chapman will be the soloists. Robert Edmond Jones, scenic designer, will speak.

Henry Nestor, Washington's "Singing Cop," returns from his vacation this week to continue his series of programs over WMAL tonight at 9:30 o'clock.

THE cry of "only a nickel, a half a dime, the twentieth part of a dollar" will ring out over the air this afternoon when the ten best "barkers" at the World Fair compete for the title of "The Barker of the Century." (WMAL, 2:30 p. m.)

Preliminary contests will eliminate all but ten leading ballyhoo artists of the Midway. Then the finalists will be given two and a half minutes each to deliver their spiels.

Excellent opportunity for the sort of banter in which Phil Harris and Leah Ray excel is offered by "If You Could Only Cook," a tune on which the two will combine on tonight. (WMAL, 8 p. m.)

"The Snow Queens" with their theme song, "The Dance of the Ice Cubes," seem made to order for an early August program. (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.)

A preview of the American Country Life Association convention to be held in Blackburg, Va., this month, will be given during the National Farm and Home Hour, over WMAL at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Typewriter Firms Adjust Pay Rates

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 3 (AP).—The Royal Typewriter Co. and the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Co. announced today their cooperation in President Roosevelt's recovery program.

The Royal Co. announced reduction of working hours and an average increase of 12½ per cent in wages, with a minimum of $14 a week for salaried office employes.

The Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Co. announced a schedule of reduced hours and "substantial wage rate adjustments," details of which had not been completed.

Walt Mason, Himself

The Tourists.

IN those brave days when every man had money in his old tin can, the tourists used to come to town and blithely put the rubles down, and buy the best in bed and board that our old village could afford. They came by every road and lane, they came by auto and by train, they came in state, and, wearing bells, they put up at the best hotels, and ordered everything in sight that would assuage their appetite. Oh, nothing was too costly then to suit these gay and genial men, to brighten up the passing lives of lively daughters, aunts and wives. "Economy" was then a word that seemed obnoxious and absurd. And when the season saw its end and cheerful tourists ceased to spend, the merchant princes of the town found no occasion for a frown. Their lives were happy and serene, they'd taken in much good long green, and they could play the waiting game until another season came. Those golden times did not stay put, and now the tourists come on foot, or come to town in old tin cars, and use alfalfa for cigars, and sleep outdoors when they arrive, and purchase hot dogs, four or five, and weep and wail for quite a time when they at last must spend a dime.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York—Marion Talley has been in town again, deserting her farm for the concert stage. Somewhat slimmer and for the first time unaccompanied by her mother, she appears to have grown up, although she is as uncommunicative and apparently has as few enthusiasms as ever.

This girl, who won terrific acclaim when she made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera, has always been an enigma to New York. Even when the city was at her feet, she always refused to participate in the ballyhoo and hoop-la receptions with which Manhattan would surround her.

About the only time she appears in public is when she strolls window shopping along Fifth avenue. She confines her interest to the windows, for her sister, Florence, designs all her clothes.

Extremely reticent about expressing her opinions of preferences, she grows excited only when she talks about Maria Jeritza. The glamorous, golden-haired singer from Vienna apparently is her one heroine.

Green Plus Blue.

Paul Green, Pulitzer prize author, was motoring from Hollywood to his native North Carolina for a vacation. Arriving in El Paso, Tex., early on July 4, he decided that he and his two children should do something about celebrating the holiday.

Stopping beside a policeman, Green asked if he would object to their shooting off a few firecrackers in the street.

On The Rebound.

When Prof. Oscar Hamilton, of the University of North Carolina, met Will Rogers, he said to the cowboy humorist: "Some people have been unkind enough to you to say that I look like you."

"Well, they don't think so much of either of us, do they?" Rogers flipped.

Strolling along Broadway, Fred Keating, suave magician, stopped to regard with awe one of the trickier electric signs in that section. This one in particular showed a girl acrobat doing stunts on a trapeze—all in lights, of course.

"It's marvelous the way they can do tricks with those lights," observed this professor of legerdemain, who knows quite a few tricks himself.

The subway company employs old-fashioned well buckets in which to store its ready supply of nickels.

The new coo-coo song of the moment is called "Brooklyn Bridge Has Never Had a Vacation."

Barbers are hoping that Gen. Balbo's visit won't start a fad for beards among New Yorkers.

Here's Chance For Girls to Enter Movies

Post, Loew's Fox, and Boat Line Cooperate in Contest.

From a gay party on board a Wilson Line excursion boat—and swept off to Hollywod to play in a Paramount picture soon to be shown at Loew's Fox Theater. That will be the dazzling fortune of some lucky Washington girl within the next two weeks.

No contest, no entries, no rules—just choice by talent scouts of Paramount, who will be riding the Wilson Line boats every day from Monday, August 7, to Sunday, August 13, keenly appraising every girl on board until one is found to meet their expectations.

Four girls will be selected every day, one from each trip the boat makes down the Potomac. At the end of the selections, all of the girls will be arranged on the stage of Loew's Fox Theater and one selected from among the entire group. This takes place on the evening of August 14.

No one knows what type of girl will appeal to the talent experts. It may be you, or you, or you. Blonde, brunette, redhead. Tall, short, slim or plump. Whoever she may be, one girl will positively be chosen for a trip to Hollywood.

The reason? Paramount's new picture, "Eight Girls in a Boat," to be produced by Charles R. Rogers, who made "Millie," "I Love That Man," "Song of the Eagle" and other cinemas.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 3 (AP).—The American contingent from the Boy Scout jamboree camp at Godollo near here moved into Budapest today sightseeing and marching through the streets singing American songs.

The camp at Godello was visited by girl guides from England today.

Wheat Producers Warned of Dangers

Regina, Saskatchewan, Aug. 3 (AP). A warning of danger should wheat producers' demands for orderly marketing be ignored was sounded by L. C. Brouillette, Saskatchewan wheat pool chief, at today's session of the world's grain conference.

He coupled with his warning acceptance of the suggestion of cooperation between the grain trade and the wheat pools.

Pegler Finds White House Is Rival of Working Press

Newspaper Code Might Bar Dilletante Journalists, He Thinks.

By Westbrook Pegler.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Most of the newspaper boys and girls will prefer to be classed as professional people under the code of the NRA, even though this status would assure them no greater benefit than the privilege of being called out of bed in the middle of the night to go to work.

Most of the newspaper people are merely employes of very practical merchants, but as long as these merchants are permitted to call their business an institution and to command special privileges for it, the hands will like to regard themselves as members of a romantic craft.

The publishing business, in return for the privileges which it enjoys by reason of its special position in industry, naturally owes something to the public. Just what it does owe has never been identified in any code, however, except that generally the press is asked to serve no interest but the public interest. This is a very ambiguous requirement and two publishers might claim to be entirely conscientious, each according to his own lights, when they are in violent and abusive opposition on all matters of controversy.

It is curious that at this time, when Mr. Roosevelt is exhorting the employers of the country, including the publishers, to cooperate with the NRA, one of the most conspicuous rivals of the newspaper and magazine writer is the Roosevelt private and official family. The President's secretaries and Cabinet assistants have been writing diligently and Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Mrs. Dall, are regular occupants of space which always was occupied by professionals up to the time when the election returns appraised the publishers that they were great natural writers. A few weeks ago, when the President was cruising on his yacht, one of his sons, who had never had a lesson in his life, became a syndicate journalist, covering the President's daily routine afloat. It was said of the son's dispatches that he wrote them by hand with a stub pencil on odd scraps of paper held against the mast of the ship. This fooled me completely. I would have sworn, from reading the young man's dispatches, that he had written them with his finger in his oatmeal.

An organization has been formed in New York to ask that the publishers, when they have work to assign, give the jobs to regular, experienced members of the profession. Probably this is intended to eliminate the unfair competition of dilletante journalists, such as the sons and daughters of the boss' social friends. It certainly can not be taken to ask the exclusion of such veteran journalists as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; nor the tried and experienced reporter, Anna, her daughter; nor Jimmy, the waterfront man, all of whom can hold their heads up in the company of Primo Carnera, Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, John McGraw and the dean of the lady reporters and veteran of many a hard night out in the weather on dirty murders, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of Berkeley, Calif.

What, No Stockings? Mayor's Dignity Periled

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Dignity must be maintained at City Hall, despite the heat. A waiter hurried toward Mayor John P. O'Brien's office bearing two tall iced drinks on a tray. He wore white linen knickers, but no stockings.

Quarter-Century's Injustice Canceled by Executive Order

(Associated Press.)

To remedy what the Interior Department called "an injustice allowed to stand for nearly a quarter of a century," President Roosevelt, by executive order, yesterday restored Louis R. Glavis to civil service status.

Now chief of the investigation division of the Interior Department, Glavis was dismissed by President Taft from the department service back in 1908, after he had uncovered irregularities in the Alaskan coal lands.

"His investigations disclosed," a statement by the department said, "that the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate and other corporations were trying to acquire much of this valuable coal land through 'dummy' entrymen, in violation of the law."

Glavis discussed the situation with then Secretary Ballinger, who, the department said, had been an attorney for some of the coal land applicants and who took the view that certain remedial legislation had condoned the previous violation of the law by these applicants.

On Glavis' insistence Ballinger agreed to seek an opinion from George W. Wickersham, then Attorney General, but the next day retracted his agreement to such a course and had an opinion drafted in the department.

"Such an opinion was prepared, holding that the remedial legislation condoned the conspiracies and directed Glavis to approve the entries for patent and do nothing further touching pending coal land filings," the department statement said.

Glavis saw Taft at Beverly, Mass., and the President submitted his report to Ballinger, praising the Secretary in the highest terms "and directed him to dismiss Glavis for insubordination."

In a congressional investigation of the matter a committee of six senators and six House members sustained Ballinger. A few months after, Walter L. Fisher succeeded Ballinger, reversed his predecessor and cancelled all Alaska coal entries and filings.

U. S. in Earnest On Crime War, Keenan Asserts

Pledges Police Chiefs Aid; Washington Is 1934 Convention City.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of the Federal Government's drive against kidnaping, racketeering and extortion, tonight declared the national administration "will not permit substitution of a government of the underworld for lawfully constituted authority."

Speaking at the joint banquet of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and International Association for Identification, Keenan said the Government was "in dead earnest" in its campaign and urged cooperation of local authorities.

The 1934 meeting of the police chiefs will be held at Washington, D. C., at a date to be determined by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, Washington superintendent of police. He is to select four days in the best season of the year for a convention in Washington.

"The efforts of the Government in this drive," Keenan said, "will be: First, to vigorously and relentlessly enforce the Federal law with particular emphasis on suppression of kidnaping and other forms of threat and violence; secondly, to attempt in a lawful and sound manner to lend itself as a coordinating and cooperative law-enforcement agency in all communities."

The Government, Keenan said, will make no attempt to substitute Federal law enforcement in any local community, but said the Department of Justice and the Attorney General's office would be at the disposal of local authorities to aid in crime suppression.

Former Cowboy Ropes Alleged Gasoline Thief

Wilmington, Calif., Aug. 3 (AP).—O. C. O'Neil was awakened from dreams of days on the Texas range early today by suspicious sounds about his motor car.

Picking up a saddle rope, he "built" a loop as he ran, twirled it about his head and let go. A body thudded in the darkness, and when police arrived they found John L. McGuire neatly hog-tied. He was charged with stealing gasoline.

Living at Stake, Racing Airmen Reply to Critics

The 32 pilots facing suspension by the National Aeronautic Association got caught between two fires, with their living at stake, John Livingstone explained yesterday on coming to Washington to present the pilots' story.

Livingstone, Bennett, Griffin and Jack Wright flew here to confer with former Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the N. A. A., and members of the disciplinary committee which has their case under advisement. They are "on the carpet" for taking par in a race event not sanctioned by the N. A. A. They talked to Senator Bingham, Maj. Walter G. Kilner and William Enyard, and will see Commander Ralph S. Barnaby today.

"Believing the National Air Races would be held in the fall around Labor Day as usual, several of us set out to build fast planes that could compete with other ships we knew were being built," Livingstone said. "We used engines of 500 cubic inch displacement, and hoped to beat planes that flew 237 miles an hour last year to our 218 miles an hour. Then we learned that the classification was changed to 550 cubic inches, and that meant that our planes would not have a chance. Most of us are pilots who make our living contesting, and depend on prize money to pay for our planes and bread and butter.

"Maj. Rudolph Schroeder in Chicago planned his races there with the support of the Tribune for July 1-4, and was surprised when the National Air Races were announced for the same days. That was a question between race promoters and the N. A. A., which couldn't give sanction to more than one event at the same time. We pilots were caught in the middle, and we had to choose between flying out to Los Angeles and taking a licking, or flying to Chicago and having some equitable competition among ourselves. Since we live on prize money we went where we could win."

Five Firemen Hurt In Chicago Blaze

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Fire in a rooming house early today injured five firemen, drove 40 men and women to the streets in their sleeping garments, and caused the arrest of the proprietor, Thomas Butina, 36.

Three separate fires were reported and firemen said they encountered gasoline and kerosene fumes.

Boys Stop Snake's Fight With Spider

Wooster, Ohio, Aug. 3 (AP).—The quiet dignity of this college town has been violently upset twice within 48 hours by the unseemly conduct of a snake, a spider and three boys.

The snake and the spider started the excitement in the basement of the Eastern Produce Co. by opening a life-and-death struggle.

By the time the town got warmed up to the spectacle, the boys came along and stopped the battle.

W. B. Robinson Heads Firemen Parade Judges

Chairman Will Select 21 on Staff to Make Various Awards.

With Wallace B. Robinson as chairman of the judges' committee for this year's National Firemen's Labor Day parade, selection of associate judges was going forward yesterday.

Last year Mr. Robinson handled this important post with the help of more than 50 coworkers. One year's experience has led him to believe that the work can be done better if he reduces the staff to 21 judges, well trained and fully acquainted with their tasks.

Many prominent Washingtonians will be included among his associate judges, he said yesterday. In addition he hopes to obtain the services of several retired officials of the Fire Department for the judging of technical equipment.

A meeting of the judges will be called by Mr. Robinson next week, at which time assignment of events will be made. This year there are 16 different classifications, with first, second and third places to be decided upon in each.

Work of the judges actually starts about 9 o'clock on the morning of the parade and it is usually about 9 p. m. before they are finished. The judging covers fire equipment, fire companies, fire engines and trucks, marching units, bands, drum corps and floats.

The judges will not pass on commercial entries, but will devote their time to those of paid fire departments, volunteer companies, ladies auxiliaries, civic organizations and police companies and precinct entries.

A list of the events was published in The Washington Post yesterday. The list will be reprinted next week.

Italians Honored At World's Fair

Columbus Statue Dedicated as Boulevard Is Named in His Honor.

It included addresses by the Italian Ambassador, Augusto Rosso; Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota and distinguished Americans of Italian descent.

They dedicated a statue of Christopher Columbus and renamed a boulevard in honor of the discoverer of the New World. There was a concert presentation of "Aida," with Ada Paggi, Anne Roselle and Pane-Gasser in leading roles.

Ambassador Rosso recalled that it was just 441 years today that Columbus set sail from Palos, Spain. He read a greeting from Mussolini.

Federal Control Of Dentists Seen

Speaker Says Charging All Traffic Can Bear Is Poor Policy.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Government supervision within a year was the prospect held out for medical and dental professions today by Dr. Edward J. Ryan, editor of Dental Digest, at the convention of the American Academy of Periodontology, a dental group treating diseases of the gums.

"Unless we, as a profession, take steps to supply community dental care," Dr. Ryan said, "a socially minded Government will do it for us."

He warned that "charging all the traffic would bear" was poor practice, and urged the doctors to establish a bureau to keep control of dental administration within the profession.

Narcotic Agent Shoots Suspect Trying to Flee

Alleged Peddler Finds Out Too Late Four Bills Are Marked.

Attempting to flee when he saw he had been duped, David Brenner, 30, of 2134 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was shot in the leg yesterday by T. F. Maxwell, Federal narcotic agent. The shooting, in front of 808 Twelfth street northwest, attracted a large crowd.

Noticing that he had been given four marked $1 bills by Maxwell and Detective Sergt. D. H. Jones in payment for a quantity of alleged heroin, Brenner threw the money and the alleged drug into the street, and breaking away from the officers, fled north on Twelfth street. One shot, fired by Maxwell, struck him above the left knee. He was removed to Emergency Hospital. His condition is not serious.

The arrest of Brenner, who has served three imprisonments for violation of the Harrison narcotic act, is the first step in a campaign against the narcotic traffic in Washington, L. B. Connell, Federal narcotic agent, declared.

Purse-Snatchings Alarm Residents

Footpads who snatch women's pocketbooks in broad daylight have alarmed residents of Cleveland Park and Chevy Chase. Two such instances were reported to police yesterday.

Mrs. Julia Grasheim, of 2737 Devonshire place northwest, reported her purse, containing $25 and a check, grabbed from under her arm. She was walking on Connecticut avenue, near Klingle Bridge.

Miss Martha J. Martin, of 4700 Connecticut avenue, was standing in front of her apartment house, when a young man reached for her pocketbook. Failing to get it free, she said, he ran to the rear of the building.

Policeman in Hospital With Baseball Injuries

Policeman Benjamin R. Campbell, a member of the police baseball team, is in Emergency Hospital with injuries received Wednesday in a game with the Naval Academy squad at Annapolis.

Campbell, attached to the Traffic Bureau, was struck in the face by a pitched ball. One bone was fractured.

Lightning Device Saves Power Line

Apparatus designed t o protect power systems from damage by lightning was demonstrated to officials of the Potomac Electric Power Co. yesterday by engineers of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.

The engineers produced lightning and made it "strike" a transmission system. The effects of the "bolt" were smothered so effectively by transformers, lightning arresters and de-ion protectors that not even house lamps flickered.

C. G. Archibald and W. W. Sproul, jr., are in charge of the Westinghouse mobile equipment.

Woman, 72, Hit by Car, Has Skull Fractured

Struck by an automobile as she was crossing the street in front of police headquarters on Indiana avenue, Mrs. Louise Bailey, 72, of 227 D street northwest, was taken to Casualty Hospital late yesterday with a fractured skull.

The driver was not held. Hospital officials said they were treating Mrs. Bailey for alcoholism as well as serious injuries.

Vigorously swinging a palm-leaf fan, Secretary of Commerce Roper last night importuned 27 graduates of the Government Printing Office apprentice school to seek further knowledge and serve their community well. The exercises were held in Harding Hall at the G. P. O. before 1,000 relatives, friends and alumni.

John Greene, deputy public printer, presided and gave a short history of the apprentice school, which was established by Public Printer George H. Carter.

Mr. Carter presented certificates to Harry E. Aldridge, Paul L. Armel, James Perrin Barger, Paul K. Curry, Raymond E. Geegh, Charles G. MacMahan, Charles F. Magruder, Ralph Meyer, Joseph D. Mudd, Ernest H. Mulligan, Lamar D. Munroe, Garrett C. Rush, jr., Arnold F. Sargent, Francis J. Schwoerer, Borden P. Shrieves, Milton A. Smith, Kenneth A. Sole, Paul P. Tice, Lloyd Traynor and Thomas B. White, jr., all printers.

Certificates also went to Vincent A. Birch, Owen W. Bradshaw, Watson N. Hill and Guy C. Long, pressmen, and Joseph G. Ferrier, Norman E. Hicks and Francis J. Kenny, bookbinders.

No, just the quarters of the night attendants and they are trying to snatch a few winks of sleep after 12 hours of work.

But they don't have much time for sleep. They must do all their janitor work—sweep the floors, make the beds, scrub the bathroom—after work hours. For the $70 rent they collectively give the Government every month they receive one cot apiece—and a broom.

The only access to their quarters in the attic is through the corridors of the tuberculosis ward. Their lives are similar to those of the patients, except the attendants work 12 hours a day, six days a week, at a net salary of about 12 cents an hour.

Up over the hospital garage are the quarters of the 20 day attendants. They pay $200 a month rent. Two wash basins are provided for their use and, until recently, their supply of drinking water consisted of a wooden barrel and tin cup. Most of the chairs, dressers, beds, rugs, curtains, &c., furnished in these quarters have been discarded from other departments of the hospital as unfit for use.

A deduction of $37.50 is made from the monthly salaries of attendants at Mount Alto for room, board and laundry. They work approximately 300 hours a month and receive between $30 and $35 net for their month's work.

No provisions are made for married attendants to live on the hospital grounds, but the monthly deduction of $10 for quarters is made, nevertheless. One attendant lives with his wife and two young children in one room several blocks from the hospital. He works seven days a week, but has to burn a kerosene lamp for light and can afford only 1 pint of milk a week for his growing children. From his monthly salary $10 is deducted for quarters furnished by the Government, which he can not use.

In the basement of the recreation hall is a room with five beds in it. The room is designated as attendants' quarters, but is unoccupied, since married employees are assigned to its use. The Government receives $50 a month rent from these employees for this vacant room.

Defense League Backs Hoekstra

Cemetery Head Says He Created Disturbance; Swears Out Warrant.

While Michael Hoekstra, unemployed former Army man whose skull was fractured in a fight with a guard at Arlington Cemetery Tuesday morning, lies in Gallinger Hospital in a semicoma and near death, the International Labor Defense is rallying to his aid.

Supt. Robert Dye of the cemetery has sworn out a warrant against Hoekstra, charging him with creating a disturbance. Witnesses of the affair say that Hoekstra struck the first blow, and Beaver then hit him with his hand. Hoekstra's head was injured when he fell on concrete, said Supt. Dye. Hoekstra formerly worked at the cemetery and, according to officials, has returned frequently since his discharge to distract the other workmen with communistic speeches.

Van Duzer's Auto Tag Plan Studied

The Nation's motor vehicle commissioners are studying the scheme of William A. Van Duzer, traffic director here, to eliminate confusion over license tags by creating a color-zone system.

Identification of automobiles has been made difficult, Mr. Van Duzer says, by the States near one another issuing tags of similar colors and design. Virginia, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Michigan, for example, employ black figures on a white background.

Under Mr. Van Duzer's proposal, the country would be split into four or five zones, each with colors that would not be duplicated in any other nearby State.

Landlord and Tenant Law to Be Studied

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, yesterday were asked by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, to gather all statutes governing landlords and tenants for use in the rent inquiry.

James Ring, special rent investigator, asked the commission to obtain the legal information so that it might be used in adjustments which will be recommended shortly.

Death Prices

Iroquois Had to Pay Double for Killing Woman, Research Bares.

Maybe those Indians had it right—but the gentlemen should be allowed to file exceptions.

A woman was worth exactly twice a man among the Iroquois Indians, J. N. B. Hewitt, Smithsonian Institution ethnologist, reports. He discovered that under the curious "law of atonement" which prevailed among those Indians, a specific price was put on everybody's life.

It cost "20 strings of shell or wampum beads" to kill a man. The life of the slain person was valued at 10 strands. But under the rules of the blood feud, the life of the slayer was also forfeit to the ohwachira, or maternal relatives, of his victim. In order to redeem him his ohwachira had to pay another 10 strings.

But a woman was valued at 20 strings. If she was slain by a man his ohwachira had to pay 30 strings, representing his own value and that of his victim. If a woman was slain by a woman, 40 strings of wampum were demanded.

Police Seek Aid To IdentifyMan

Baltimore Force Asked to Help in Naming Potomac Drowning Victim.

Washington police yesterday asked Baltimore police to help determine the identity of a man drowned Wednesday in the Potomac River, near Four Mile Run.

The man was tentatively identified at District Morgue as Michael Barono, 32, 419 H street northwest, by his roommate, Thomas Moore, who had known him only a short time.

Dr. Charles West, pharmacist at Gallinger Hospital, said the man, a recent patient at the hospital, told him he was a third-year medical student at Johns Hopkins University and had recently changed his name.

The man was drowned while swimming with three companions, who told police they knew him only as Barono.

Judges of the show will include Miss Margaret Lancaster, garden consultant of Takoma Park; Capt. Merle H. Davis, gladiolus specialist of Arlington County, and Ralph B. Piper, horticulturist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Vacancy Delaying Arlington Loan Bid

Failure to name a successor to Col. H. G. Shirley, State highway commissioner, to serve on the advisory committee for Virginia under the industrial recovery act is sole cause for the delay of the Arlington County Board's request for a $2,250,000 loan for installation of a sewerage system, County Manager Roy S. Braden declared yesterday.

Plans for the system have been prepared to accompany the application, which will be filed the moment the personnel of the advisory committee has been completed.

With the approval by the Government of the loan, action will be speeded up and Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy will be asked to set a date for a special election on the bond issue, Braden stated.

Big Loan Aids Hamilton Bank Opening Plan

Realization of the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington was hastened yesterday.

It was accelerated with approval by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of loans aggregating $5,455,000 to conservators of eight restricted banks that form the new institution.

Announcement of the corporation's action was made by Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, who said it was subject to a final perfection of details.

The foregoing step marks what Treasury Department officials describe as removal of "the last big obstacle." Much detail work must be accompanied before setting a definite opening date.

Not New Loans.

Treasury Department officials said the loans are not new, but constituted a refunding of former loans made to the eight restricted banks.

The conservators and the corporation have been in negotiations through which the collateral behind their loans is reorganized. By this process, the conservators have regained some of the liquid assets in exchange for slower, but sound collateral.

Members of the Hamilton organization committee emphasized that the loans are not to the planned institution, but refunding loans to the component banks so they can settle their obligations and release their assets to the new bank.

Tell Need for Speed.

Treasury Department officials again emphasized the need for prompt return of proofs of claim by depositors in the component banks.

The design for the seal, stationery and building markers of the proposed bank feature a replica of the United States Treasury Building statue of Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury, in whose memory it is named.

Building and Parks Handling One Job

Only one construction job is being handled by the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, its smallest program in recent years. Building of sidewalks at Dupont Circle and general redesigning of the park there is the sole job now being worked on. The Buildings and Parks office is scheduled to be absorbed by the Interior Department next week.

GeorgeH.Kunsman Rites This Morning

Funeral services for George Henry Kunsman, retired employe of the Pension Bureau and a Civil War veteran, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at his late residence, 1521 Foxhall road northwest. Military honors will accompany his interment at Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Kunsman was 91 years old. He spent his last 35 years in Washington. He was born in Reading, Pa., and served in Company H, Fiftieth Pennsylvania Infantry and Company E, Twenty-first Veteran Reserve Corps, during the Civil War. Later he lived in Shakopee, Minn., where he was married. He was a charter member of King Solomon's Lodge of Masons there.

He had been quartermaster and treasurer of Lincoln Post, G. A. R., and a member of the Central Presbyterian Church in Washington.

Surviving are his daughters, Mrs. E. M. Owry, with who he made his home; Mrs. James R. Anderson, of Eden Prairie, Minn., and Miss Mary Kunsman, of Minneapolis.

The Van Fleet Horticultural Society will meet at St. Georges Hall, Glenn Dale, August 7. The evening will be devoted to a program on the work of the late Dr. Walter Van Fleet, for whom the society is named.

D. C. Job Unit To Be Merged

Consolidation With Relief Division Is Set for September.

The District Committee on Employment will disappear about September 1 and its executive staff, now operating from the basement of the District Building, will be absorbed by the Emergency Relief Division of the Board of Public Welfare, according to plans of District welfare officials.

The merger was recommended by Alan Johnstone, field representative for the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. During a check-up of unemployment relief activities of the District last week, Johnstone stated that all Federal grants must be handled solely by public agencies.

Herndon Group to Hear Alexandria City Manager

Wallace Lawrence, city manager of Alexandria, will address the weekly luncheon meeting of the Herndon Chamber of Commerce tomorrow. The meeting will be in the dining room of the Congregational Church.

The Herndon Corban Club will serve with the following in charge: Mrs. R. S. Crippen, Miss Elizabeth Leonhardt, Mrs. A. H. Kirk, Mrs. R. N. Wrenn, Mrs. Seymour Robb, Mrs. L. L. Berger and Miss Helen Hanes.

Citizens' Views Asked On Dropping Bus Line

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday asked the Petworth and Chillum Heights Citizens Associations for their views on a proposal by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to abandon a loop of its Park road bus line running to Rock Creek Cemetery.

The company asked permission to abandon the line between Warder street and Rock Creek Church road on the ground that it would save between $5,000 and $6,000 annually.

3 More Killed By Heat; Rain Brings Relief

Three deaths and 20 more prostrations were scored by the heat here yesterday before a sudden thundershower brought long-sought-for relief at 9 p. m.

Mrs. Lucinda Moorman, 48, of 469 Maryland avenue southeast, and Ambrose M. Hill, 60, of 315 S street southeast, died at Emergency Hospital following heart attacks brought on by the heat.

From a high of 92 at 5 p. m., the mercury dropped to 74 degrees at 10 p. m.

Official forecast for today was "fair and cooler." Relief was expected to be short-lived, however, as gradually rising temperatures were predicted for tomorrow and Sunday.

Probe of Duke's Death Closed, Says Chairman

Investigation into the treatment given Casco L. Duke prior to his death of a fractured skull on July 24 is closed so far as the District is concerned, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board of commissioners, said yesterday.

Following receipt of reports from Emergency and Gallinger hospitals, Dr. Reichelderfer said he was satisfied no blame could be attached to either. Duke was taken to Emergency by police and treated for intoxication and subsequently returned to the Third Precinct police station. He died a short while later in Gallinger Conditions.

In the absence of vessel reports off the south Texas coast, the location of the tropical disturbance is quite uncertain. Apparently it is located about 200 miles south of Galveston, moving westward at the rate of about 10 miles an hour. The center will probably reach the south Texas coast between Brownsville and Corpus Christi early Friday morning, attended by strong shifting winds, possibly reaching gale force near its center. Moderately high tides are indicated from Port O'Connor southward. Storm warnings remain displayed from Freeport to Brownsville, Tex.

The disturbance that was over Illinois Wednesday night is moving eastward, being central over southeastern Pennsylvania and northeastern Maryland, Baltimore, 29.76 inches. Pressure is relatively low and falling from Alberta southward over the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions. A high-pressure area is moving east-southeastward over Minnesota, Minneapolis, 30.16 inches. Showers have occurred in the Rocky Mountain region, the middle and upper Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley, the southern and eastern Lake region, the north portion of the West Gulf States, and in the Atlantic States. Cooler weather has overspread the North Atlantic States, the lower Lake region and Ohio Valley, the middle Mississippi Valley, Kansas and Oklahoma.
